Winter Jolts South, East And Midwest

Many Cities Note All-Time Low Mercury Readings

By The Associated Press

Winter blasted parts of the Midwest and South with a jolt of history-making cold Thursday that closed thousands of schools, slowed the economic wheels in many cities and took a sharp toll in lives.

Bitter, arctic cold that has been firmly entrenched over the midcontinent for more than two weeks surged into Dixie and the Atlantic seaboard, bringing subzero readings deep in the South.

The latest surge of polar air that fanned into the Midwest on Tuesday was blamed for at least 110 deaths from exposure, asphyxiation, fires, overexertion in snow, and accidents on ice-sheathed highways.

Colder Than Alaska

It was colder in some Southern cities than in Alaska or Canada. Residents in several cities in the Midwest and South were numbed by the most frigid weather ever recorded there. Others had the lowest readings of this century.

Heavy snow accompanied the new push of cold in Upper New York State and along the eastern shores of the Great Lakes, but elsewhere the major weather feature was extreme cold.

Thousands of schools were closed in the Midwest, East and South. The shutdowns were 100 per cent for public schools in Memphis, Tenn.; Buffalo, N.Y., and Allegany County ,Md.

The weather made thousands of auto workers idle across the country.

Industry Hit

Chrysler shut down a Detroit plant that makes Chrysler, Imperial and Dodge 880 series cars. Ford assembly plants closed at Mahwah, N.J., and Louisville, idling some 10,000 workers. Ford said its plants at Cleveland, Fostoria and Canton, Ohio, might be asked to conserve gas supplies for home heating. General Motors closed its Chevrolet and Fischer Body factories in Atlanta, affecting 2,400 workers.

Rails Affected

Frozen switches and brakes hindered commuter service and delayed subway and elevated trains in New York and Chicago. Many thousands of cars stalled or wouldn't start, making employes late for work. Housewives put off making shopping trips in the icy weather and department and grocery store sales were off.

The intense cold proved deadly for persons who misjudged its peril or were the victims of what otherwise might have been minor accidents.

Some of the lowest temperatures reported in the nation were at Kingston Springs, Ky., and Columbia and Bradfordsville, Ky. All had -30 readings.

All-Time Records

All-time low readings were reported in these cities: Nashville, Tenn., -15.2; Louisville, Ky., -19.8; Akron, Ohio -21; Cleveland -19 Asheville, N.C., -7.

Atlanta, Ga., had its lowest reading of this century, -3. Pittsburgh's -18 also was the coldest this century. Baltimore reported its coldest weather in 27 years, 4 above, and Washington, D.C., had a record low for the date of 3 above.

Gale force winds whipped coastal New England during the day, adding to the misery of the bitter cold weather there.

France Defiant On British In Common Mart

PARIS (AP) — France defied its European partners Thursday and summarily told them that negotiations with Britain on European Common Market membership are broken off.

Reaction was swift. Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak told the Belgian Senate the prosperous trading bloc might be wrecked on the rock of French resistance to Britain's entry.

In London, British negotiator Edward Heath informed the House of Commons that Britain will press to keep the talks alive with the active support of France's five market partners, Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The day of reckoning may be Monday, when the negotiations are scheduled to resume in Brussels, Belgium.

President Charles de Gaulle's spokesman, reporting after a Cabinet meeting, deliberately described the breakdown as an accomplished fact, and said there is no point in resuming the talks with Britain.

The action by the Cabinet disregarded the 5-1 majority at Brussels last week against a motion by French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to suspend the negotiations.

The Cabinet confirmed Couve de Murville's position. But it added that France is willing to study a suggestion from West Germany to ask the Common Market Commission to look into the state of the British negotiations. West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder is expected to make this suggestion in Brussels on Monday. This might avert a showdown between France and its allies for the moment.

Spaak made this point clear in his blunt speech.

"If the five other community members must give way to diplomacy based on unreality," he declared, "the economic community will become impossible. If we have to give way, the crisis will be deep."

Billie Sol Estes Gets 8 Years In State Prison

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Dapper, churchgoing Billie Sol Estes, whose financial pyramid crashed with a jolt felt in Washington and Wall Street, heard a state judge sentence him to eight years in prison Thursday.

Estes' lawyers gave notice of appeal and the onetime promoter walked free under $5,000 bond supplied by his father and a brother.

He answered "no comment" to reporters' questions.

It is the only time Estes, 38, has been sentenced since federal authorities jailed him on fraud charges March 30 last year. He has been indicted numerous times.

He specifically drew the sentence, imposed by a jury two months ago, for swindling T. J. Wilson, a Pecos, Tex., farmer, of $94,500.

Judge Otis Dunagan formally pronounced sentence Thursday after denying a motion for a new trial.

The state claimed Estes induced Wilson to sign a mortgage for fertilizer tanks which never existed, and that Estes sold the mortgage to a lending company and pocketed the money.

A similar charge, brought by the U.S. government, caused Estes' collapse in March.

Estes, a short, sturdy man who dresses impeccably, is scheduled to be tried on that federal case March 11 in El Paso.

He is under indictment in Amarillo on state antitrust charges, and under federal indictment in Dallas on charges of false swearing to the Commodity Credit Corp. No date has been set for trials in the antitrust and false swearing cases.

Estes has been preaching in recent weeks in Midwest churches. He is a lay preacher in Churches of Christ.

Condemned Man Protests His Reprieve

NEW YORK (AP) — A condemned killer Thursday won a last-minute stay of execution, despite his bitter protests. He had denounced the self-appointed attorney who saved his life, saying "I am all set and prepared to go."

"I do not want any do-gooder to interfere," complained Frederick C. Wood, 51, a seedy, wisecracking slayer of five persons, who mocked the sentencing judge two years ago when he was condemned to death.

Wood was scheduled to die in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair at 10 p.m. Thursday for the 1960 killing of two men who had befriended him. However, U.S. Dist. Judge Dudley B. Bonsal postponed execution to Feb. 4.

Norman Redlich, who teaches at New York University, was the attorney who engineered the reprieve and the man Wood call an interloper. Redlich appealed for a federal court review of Wood's case. This was denied but the lawyer was granted time to appeal the decision.

Redlich said he was aware of Wood's objections but that he intended to persist. He would not detail his motives except to say:

"I am raising the issue as to whether New York State has a constitutional duty to assign counsel to an indigant defendant after the appeal from his sentence and before his execution."

Two East German Guards Cross Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — Two young East German policemen on anti-refugee patrol duty Thursday jumped from the roof of a three-story border building to a street in West Berlin and freedom.

One broke both heels in the daring leap in the pre - dawn darkness. The other broke one heel. Both were picked up by a West Berlin emergency squad in the French sector and taken to a hospital.

AROUND THE WORLD THIS MORNING

ROME — Ignoring Communist threats, the Italian cabinet endorsed a new nuclear strategy believed to involve the dismantling of U.S. Jupiter bases in Italy and their replacement with seaborne American Polaris missiles. Threats of mass demonstrations were sounded in the Chamber of Deputies by Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist party which is the largest in the West.

NEW DELHI—Reliable sources said American and British air forces will take over the air defenses of India's interior if there are signs Communist China is preparing heavy bomber raids. The sources said the United States and Britain already have agreed to rush fighter squadrons to India in the event of Red bombing strikes although at present, India's border war with Red China is in a dormant stage.

TUNIS — The Tunisian government announced that 10 of the 26 plotters who tried to assassinate President Habib Bourguiba on Christmas Eve were executed at dawn by a firing squad. Last week a special court handed down 13 death sentences and 13 of imprisonment from one year to life, but two of the death sentences were commuted to life in prison without explanation. The third death sentence was imposed in absentia on Mestair Ben Said, who is in Algeria.

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, homeward bound from the East German Communist congress, took a detour to Byelorussia for a visit of "several days"in that Soviet republic. The official Soviet news agency Tass announced Khrushchev's sidetrip but did not say exactly where he was staying or why he went there.

More Death Accompanies Cold Wave

Europe Suffering Worst Winter In Thirty-Four Years

ROME (AP)—A costly and killing cold wave spread more death and damage across Europe Thursday, piling misery on misery from the Baltic to the Bosporus.

From Communist Bulgaria, buried in a yard of snow, came reports that indicated a major disaster in the making. West Germany's rivers and canals were frozen solid, creating critical transportation and fuel supply problems.

Yugoslav industries were closing. Italian and Greek villages by the hundreds were isolated. Schools were shut all across the Continent. Snow and ice blocked trains for hours—even days. Mediterranean shipping fought blizzards, huge seas and icy ports.

Southern Europe, normally shielded by the Alps, seemed to be suffering most.

By a strange fluke, Thursday was the warmest day so far this year in Moscow—14 above fahrenheit—and sometimes sunny Italy was in the grip of its deepest freeze since 1929. Milan registered 5 above and in much of the rest of Italy it was just as cold. Snow piled high in the citrus orchards of palm-fringed Sicily.

The bitter winter so far has been blamed for at least 200 deaths: Netherlands, 20, Germany 18, Austria 6, Yugoslavia 25, Italy 23, Greece 3. British authorities said no over-all toll has been kept of deaths due exclusively to weather conditions but they estimated the figure at more than 100. The Italian and Greek deaths occurred since Sunday.

Fuel and power shortages were becoming acute in many areas. West Germany was making plans to move fuel instead of crude oil through the Rotterdam-Rhine pipeline to get around frozen rivers and canlas.

Unemployment On Increase In Britain

LONDON (AP)—The number of Britain's unemployed jumped almost 250,000 this month to 816,632, the government announced Thursday. This represents about 3.6 per cent of the work force.

Severe winter weather and uncertainty created by Britain's failure thus far to get into the European Common Market were factors in the rise. After several years of boom conditions, the British economy seems to be entering a stagnant period.

Announcement of the jobless total touched off a row in the House of Commons. James Callaghan, the opposition Labor party's financial expert, said:

"The country will be shocked by the announcement of 800,000 unemployed. The increase is far above the level we have a right to expect."

Callaghan suggested that part of the trouble traces back to the wage freeze and deflationary budget measures adopted by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative government a year ago. The government now is trying to stimulate the economy, but its new measures do not seem to have taken hold yet.

Laborites centered their attack on Macmillan. One demanded that the prime minister replace all members of the government "responsible for bringing about the present state of affairs." Macmillan described that as a rather ungenerous approach, which he would not follow. He said tartly that everything is often blamed on the government, including the weather.

Frigid Fowls

Many of the 3,400 live chickens aboard this truck were frozen to death after the truck remained stalled at a downtown intersection in Nashville, Tenn., all day yesterday. Traffic snarls occurred at many places as ice glazed roads were clogged with new snow. Nashville set an all-time low temperature of 15 below zero. (AP Photofax)

Kennedy Covers Variety Subjects At Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Thursday that there has been "no military influx" into Cuba recently except for one Soviet ship.

The President was asked at a news conference about reports of a new Soviet buildup in Cuba.

He said that the best information this country has is that one ship with military cargo has arrived since the end of the Cuban crisis over missile bases and bombers.

"There is no evidence," he said, "that this ship carried offensive weapons."

Kennedy said, too, that there are 16,000 or 17,000 Russians still in Cuba—figures which are not new. He said they are continuing to operate defense sites and technical equipment and some of their original organized units are on the island.

These units are engaging in exercises and are building some barracks, Kennedy said. But he said that there has been "no military influx except the one ship."

Keeping Watch

Kennedy made it clear this country is keeping a close watch on Cuba. He said it has been conducting continued surveillance.

In a sort of long-range lecture to U.S. allies overseas, the President made a fresh appeal for Western unity against communism.

He said this unity must be devoid of personal or national differences.

Kennedy's words, at his first news conference since Dec. 12, appeared to be another gambit in a sort of war of nerves with President Charles de Gaulle of France.

However, the President did not mention De Gaulle, in calling for recognition of the reality of dangers and power.

Volunteers Little Talk

He said the reality of danger is that all free men and nations live under the threat of Communist advance. The Communist apparatus, he said, controls more than a billion people and is well-armed, despite some "disarray" at present.

In unity, the Atlantic Alliance has ample strength to hold back the expansion of communism until it loses its momentum, he went on, but neither the United States nor Europe could be certain of success alone.

Therefore, he said what tends to unite us is right and what tends to divide us is wrong, and the past three administrations of the United States have built policy on these realities.

Both sides of the Atlantic must continue to work together in trust, the President said.

The first question to the President was about the Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion, and whether it was true that no air cover had ever been planned.

Bay Of Pigs Air Cover

A reporter said there was a published report that the President had told visitors that air cover was available but that he had decided it should not be brought into play.

Kennedy said, "There was no United States air cover planned." If you were going to have U.S. air cover, he said, you might as well have complete U.S. power involved, an invasion by the United States.

He said what was involved was an air strike Monday morning using pilots not of the U.S. Air Force. The planes were B26 planes and the President said, "That did not work out—that was one of the failures." He said the jet training planes used by Prime Minister Fidel Castro forces were very effective.

The B26 planes flew from various parts of the continent, not from the United States, he said. But again Kennedy said the responsibility rests with the White House.

Denies Editor's Story

He noted that many agencies had investigated the invasion. He denied that he was quoted correctly by an editor as to air cover being available. "No such conversation took place," Kennedy said.

In response to a question, Kennedy said he would ask Congress to change its ban on aid to Communist countries.

He had been asked whether he would ask Congress to revise treatment of Yugoslavia and Poland. Kennedy said he hoped Congress would reconsider the action it took last year on the foreign aid bill. He said such legislation denies us the opportunity to exploit things happening behind the Iron Curtain.

Trade Not Aid

The situation may change while the law is in effect, he said. He added that he thought we would be better off to permit the president to extend the most favored nation treatment to those countries if he decides this is in the best interest. He said trade, not aid, is better for those countries and the president should have this weapon in his arsenal.

Other subjects touched on in the conference:

PUERTO RICO—Kennedy was asked if he thought the citizens of Puerto Rico should be allowed to vote in presidential elections even though they remained in a commonwealth and paid no income taxes. He said he had heard of no such proposal, but that to vote for the president he suspected the Puerto Ricans should assume statehood.

NUCLEAR — The President said that he hopes the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States can work out an effective test ban treaty. When and if that is successful, he said, other nations which are ready to test weapons may be included in the treaty.

He was asked whether he sees any room for compromise on the number of on-site inspections needed for a treaty.

He did say the fact of Soviet acceptance of the principle of on-site inspection was very important. He said it was necessary to see if a breakthrough could be effected in the negotiations.

CHURCHILL — Asked about making Winston Churchill an honorary citizen of the United States, Kennedy said "Well, I don't . . . It isn't essential to indicate our

Philadelphia Transit Strike Ends Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Labor and management negotiators agreed Thursday to a new contract for settlement of the 10-day strike that has halted buses, trolleys and subway-elevated trains in America's fourth largest city.

Officials of the Transport Workers Union said they would urge their 5,000 members to approve the proposed two-year contract at secret balloting Friday.

The agreement retains the controversial no-layoff clause which the Philadelphia Transportation Co. sought to drop. It was considered the key issue in the strike, although wages and other benefits also were in dispute.

Michael J. Quill, fiery TWU president, said PTC vehicles should be carrying the city's half million daily riders again by the homeward rush hour Friday.

Quill told newsmen the agreement provides for a 33-cent-an-hour package increase. Broken down, it adds 20 cents an hour to present wage scales and 10 cents in fringes such as pensions and hospitalization.

TWU rates for maintenance and operating employes, those who struck, range from $2.25 to $2.75 an hour.

Reduction Spread Over Three Years

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy unwrapped Friday a tax program aimed at cutting everybody's bill an average of 18 per cent by 1965 but hedged with revisions certain to mingle groans with the cheers.

The big package Kennedy sent to a lukewarm Congress would reduce taxes a net of 39 per cent at the bottom of the income scale and 9 per cent at the top over a three-year span.

But what he termed the most thorough overhaul of tax rates in more than 20 years was geared to such revolutionary changes in the system as a 5 per cent income floor on itemized deductions.

Some 25 million taxpayers now ignore the standard deductions written into tax tables and detail expenses such as interest and state levies which may be taken off their taxable income. Itemized deductions have been averaging 20 per cent of taxable income. Kennedy recommended limiting deductions to the amount they exceed 5 per cent of income subject to tax.

Lower Exemption Rate

If Congress installs the 5 per cent floor, he estimated, the government would gain an additional $2.3 billion of revenue—or the major chunk of the $3.4 billion anticipated from his entire series of proposed revisions.

On the plus side for low-income taxpayers, Kennedy recommended a minimum standard deduction of $300. He preferred this to an increase in the present $600 personal exemption. For persons 65 and older, he proposed replacing the present double exemption and retirement income allowance with a $300 credit against taxes owed. He said "this would be of far greater value" to all older citizens except those in high brackets.

The President advocated major changes in the current treatment of capital gains, which he described as "both inequitable and a barrier to economic growth." He introduced a formula that would shave the maximum rate from 25 per cent to 19.5 and start the scale at 4.2 per cent instead of 10. He also would require the

No Progress Seen In N. Y. News Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A record five hours of peace talks came to naught Thursday in the 48-day New York newspaper blackout. There was no progress in easing the strike deadlock.

The negotiations were the longest since the strike began. But when they were recessed overnight, Stephen I. Schlossberg, federal mediator, told newsmen: "I am sorry to report that no tangible progress was made and no positions were changed."

Spokesmen for publishers and striking printers agreed with Schlossberg's assessment.

Schlossberg earlier told newsmen the sessions were devoted in large measure to noneconomic items, among which is the touchy subject of automation in the mechanical departments of New York newspapers.

In another newspaper blackout that has closed the two maor papers in Cleveland, Ohio, there were some signs of progress. The 56-day-old strike involves the AFL-CIO Cleveland Newspaper Guild and the independent Teamsters Union against the Plain Dealer and the Press and News.

Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher said the Teamsters are so near agreement with the papers over wages that no further assistance was needed from mediators. Also, Guild members on the Press and News voted to relax union security demands which have been the chief issue in that phase of the strike.

Mixed Reaction Seen In Congress To Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said Thursday they see a rough fight ahead for President Kennedy's tax revision program.

The part about reducing taxes by $13.6 billion would be easy, they said. The hard part comes in the President's proposals for knocking out some special benefits and deductions to raise an offsetting $3.4 billion.

"The President should not feel confident he is going to get that without a hard fight," said Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, second ranking Republicar on the Senate Finance Committee.

A Democrat, Sen. A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, predicted that "What we will get out of all this is a deficit at least as big as the President predicted, and probably bigger tax relief for those in the low-income brackets, and no tax reforms whatsoever."

Kennedy's own party leaders in the House and Senate took a cautious stance as the President's 12,500-word special message, outlining his proposals in detail, was delivered on Capitol Hill.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told newsmen "I am confident that a bill will pass this year," but he did not comment directly on Kennedy's proposals. McCormack said a tax reduction is needed to stimulate the economy and help provide jobs for two-million young people entering the labor market this year.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana urged his colleagues to refrain from "shooting from the hip."

"If we bring to the President's proposals an open-mindedness, if we approach them as a totality," Mansfield said, "I am persuaded that we can come up with legislation which will act to move the economy forward, put government finances on a sounder footing, prevent inflation and bring greater equity into the payment of the bills of the nation."

An opposing view came from the House Republican whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, who said he did not agree with "the President's thesis that pump-priming will actually stimulate our economy."

Such measures did not solve the unemployment problems during the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal, Arends said.

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House Democratic leader, expressed what he called a personal opinion that tax reduction and tax reform should be handled separately.

Europe Suffering Worst Winter In Thirty-Four Years

ROME (AP)—A costly and killing cold wave spread more death and damage across Europe Thursday, piling misery on misery from the Baltic to the Bosporus.

From Communist Bulgaria, buried in a yard of snow, came reports that indicated a major disaster in the making. West Germany's rivers and canals were frozen solid, creating critical transportation and fuel supply problems.

Yugoslav industries were closing. Italian and Greek villages by the hundreds were isolated. Schools were shut all across the Continent. Snow and ice blocked trains for hours—even days. Mediterranean shipping fought blizzards, huge seas and icy ports.

By a strange fluke, Thursday was the warmest day so far this year in Moscow—14 above fahrenheit—and sometimes sunny Italy was in the grip of its deepest freeze since 1929. Milan registered 5 above and in much of the rest of Italy it was just as cold. Snow piled high in the citrus orchards of palm-fringed Sicily.

The bitter winter so far has been blamed for at least 200 deaths: Netherlands, 20, Germany 18, Austria 6, Yugoslavia 25, Italy 23, Greece 3. British authorities said no over-all toll has been kept of deaths due exclusively to weather conditions but they estimated the figure at more than 100. The Italian and Greek deaths occurred since Sunday.

Fuel and power shortages were becoming acute in many areas. West Germany was making plans to move fuel instead of crude oil through the Rotterdam-Rhine pipeline to get around frozen rivers and canlas.

AROUND THE WORLD THIS MORNING

ROME — Ignoring Communist threats, the Italian cabinet endorsed a new nuclear strategy believed to involve the dismantling of U.S. Jupiter bases in Italy and their replacement with seaborne American Polaris missiles. Threats of mass demonstrations were sounded in the Chamber of Deputies by Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist party which is the largest in the West.

NEW DELHI—Reliable sources said American and British air forces will take over the air defenses of India's interior if there are signs Communist China is preparing heavy bomber raids. The sources said the United States and Britain already have agreed to rush fighter squadrons to India in the event of Red bombing strikes although at present, India's border war with Red China is in a dormant stage.

TUNIS — The Tunisian government announced that 10 of the 26 plotters who tried to assassinate President Habib Bourguiba on Christmas Eve were executed at dawn by a firing squad. Last week a special court handed down 13 death sentences and 13 of imprisonment from one year to life, but two of the death sentences were commuted to life in prison without explanation. The third death sentence was imposed in absentia on Mestair Ben Said, who is in Algeria.

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, homeward bound from the East German Communist congress, took a detour to Byelorussia for a visit of "several days"in that Soviet republic. The official Soviet news agency Tass announced Khrushchev's sidetrip but did not say exactly where he was staying or why he went there.

Unemployment On Increase In Britain

LONDON (AP)—The number of Britain's unemployed jumped almost 250,000 this month to 816,632, the government announced Thursday. This represents about 3.6 per cent of the work force.

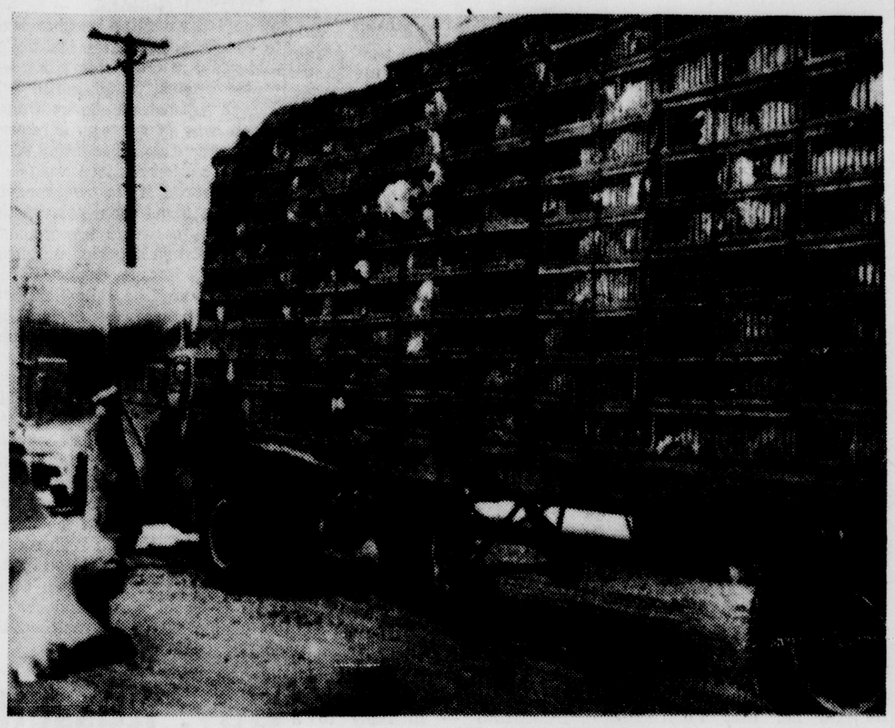

Severe winter weather and uncertainty created by Britain's failure thus far to get into the European Common Market were factors in the rise. After several years of boom conditions, the British economy seems to be entering a stagnant period.

Announcement of the jobless total touched off a row in the House of Commons. James Callaghan, the opposition Labor party's financial expert, said:

"The country will be shocked by the announcement of 800,000 unemployed. The increase is far above the level we have a right to expect."

Callaghan suggested that part of the trouble traces back to the wage freeze and deflationary budget measures adopted by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative government a year ago. The government now is trying to stimulate the economy, but its new measures do not seem to have taken hold yet.

Laborites centered their attack on Macmillan. One demanded that the prime minister replace all members of the government "responsible for bringing about the present state of affairs." Macmillan described that as a rather ungenerous approach, which he would not follow. He said tartly that everything is often blamed on the government, including the weather.

Frigid Fowls

Many of the 3,400 live chickens aboard this truck were frozen to death after the truck remained stalled at a downtown intersection in Nashville, Tenn., all day yesterday. Traffic snarls occurred at many places as ice glazed roads were clogged with new snow. Nashville set an all-time low temperature of 15 below zero. (AP Photofax)

Kennedy Covers Variety Subjects At Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Thursday that there has been "no military influx" into Cuba recently except for one Soviet ship.

The President was asked at a news conference about reports of a new Soviet buildup in Cuba.

He said that the best information this country has is that one ship with military cargo has arrived since the end of the Cuban crisis over missile bases and bombers.

"There is no evidence," he said, "that this ship carried offensive weapons."

Kennedy said, too, that there are 16,000 or 17,000 Russians still in Cuba—figures which are not new. He said they are continuing to operate defense sites and technical equipment and some of their original organized units are on the island.

These units are engaging in exercises and are building some barracks, Kennedy said. But he said that there has been "no military influx except the one ship."

Keeping Watch

Kennedy made it clear this country is keeping a close watch on Cuba. He said it has been conducting continued surveillance.

In a sort of long-range lecture to U.S. allies overseas, the President made a fresh appeal for Western unity against communism.

He said this unity must be devoid of personal or national differences.

Kennedy's words, at his first news conference since Dec. 12, appeared to be another gambit in a sort of war of nerves with President Charles de Gaulle of France.

However, the President did not mention De Gaulle, in calling for recognition of the reality of dangers and power.

Volunteers Little Talk

He said the reality of danger is that all free men and nations live under the threat of Communist advance. The Communist apparatus, he said, controls more than a billion people and is well-armed, despite some "disarray" at present.

In unity, the Atlantic Alliance has ample strength to hold back the expansion of communism until it loses its momentum, he went on, but neither the United States nor Europe could be certain of success alone.

Therefore, he said what tends to unite us is right and what tends to divide us is wrong, and the past three administrations of the United States have built policy on these realities.

Both sides of the Atlantic must continue to work together in trust, the President said.

The first question to the President was about the Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion, and whether it was true that no air cover had ever been planned.

Bay Of Pigs Air Cover

A reporter said there was a published report that the President had told visitors that air cover was available but that he had decided it should not be brought into play.

Kennedy said, "There was no United States air cover planned." If you were going to have U.S. air cover, he said, you might as well have complete U.S. power involved, an invasion by the United States.

He said what was involved was an air strike Monday morning using pilots not of the U.S. Air Force. The planes were B26 planes and the President said, "That did not work out—that was one of the failures." He said the jet training planes used by Prime Minister Fidel Castro forces were very effective.

The B26 planes flew from various parts of the continent, not from the United States, he said. But again Kennedy said the responsibility rests with the White House.

Denies Editor's Story

He noted that many agencies had investigated the invasion. He denied that he was quoted correctly by an editor as to air cover being available. "No such conversation took place," Kennedy said.

In response to a question, Kennedy said he would ask Congress to change its ban on aid to Communist countries.

He had been asked whether he would ask Congress to revise treatment of Yugoslavia and Poland. Kennedy said he hoped Congress would reconsider the action it took last year on the foreign aid bill. He said such legislation denies us the opportunity to exploit things happening behind the Iron Curtain.

Trade Not Aid

The situation may change while the law is in effect, he said. He added that he thought we would be better off to permit the president to extend the most favored nation treatment to those countries if he decides this is in the best interest. He said trade, not aid, is better for those countries and the president should have this weapon in his arsenal.

Other subjects touched on in the conference:

PUERTO RICO—Kennedy was asked if he thought the citizens of Puerto Rico should be allowed to vote in presidential elections even though they remained in a commonwealth and paid no income taxes. He said he had heard of no such proposal, but that to vote for the president he suspected the Puerto Ricans should assume statehood.

NUCLEAR — The President said that he hopes the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States can work out an effective test ban treaty. When and if that is successful, he said, other nations which are ready to test weapons may be included in the treaty.

He was asked whether he sees any room for compromise on the number of on-site inspections needed for a treaty.

He did say the fact of Soviet acceptance of the principle of on-site inspection was very important. He said it was necessary to see if a breakthrough could be effected in the negotiations.

CHURCHILL — Asked about making Winston Churchill an honorary citizen of the United States, Kennedy said "Well, I don't . . . It isn't essential to indicate our

Philadelphia Transit Strike Ends Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Labor and management negotiators agreed Thursday to a new contract for settlement of the 10-day strike that has halted buses, trolleys and subway-elevated trains in America's fourth largest city.

Officials of the Transport Workers Union said they would urge their 5,000 members to approve the proposed two-year contract at secret balloting Friday.

The agreement retains the controversial no-layoff clause which the Philadelphia Transportation Co. sought to drop. It was considered the key issue in the strike, although wages and other benefits also were in dispute.

Michael J. Quill, fiery TWU president, said PTC vehicles should be carrying the city's half million daily riders again by the homeward rush hour Friday.

Quill told newsmen the agreement provides for a 33-cent-an-hour package increase. Broken down, it adds 20 cents an hour to present wage scales and 10 cents in fringes such as pensions and hospitalization.

TWU rates for maintenance and operating employes, those who struck, range from $2.25 to $2.75 an hour.

Reduction Spread Over Three Years

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy unwrapped Friday a tax program aimed at cutting everybody's bill an average of 18 per cent by 1965 but hedged with revisions certain to mingle groans with the cheers.

The big package Kennedy sent to a lukewarm Congress would reduce taxes a net of 39 per cent at the bottom of the income scale and 9 per cent at the top over a three-year span.

But what he termed the most thorough overhaul of tax rates in more than 20 years was geared to such revolutionary changes in the system as a 5 per cent income floor on itemized deductions.

Some 25 million taxpayers now ignore the standard deductions written into tax tables and detail expenses such as interest and state levies which may be taken off their taxable income. Itemized deductions have been averaging 20 per cent of taxable income. Kennedy recommended limiting deductions to the amount they exceed 5 per cent of income subject to tax.

Lower Exemption Rate

If Congress installs the 5 per cent floor, he estimated, the government would gain an additional $2.3 billion of revenue—or the major chunk of the $3.4 billion anticipated from his entire series of proposed revisions.

On the plus side for low-income taxpayers, Kennedy recommended a minimum standard deduction of $300. He preferred this to an increase in the present $600 personal exemption. For persons 65 and older, he proposed replacing the present double exemption and retirement income allowance with a $300 credit against taxes owed. He said "this would be of far greater value" to all older citizens except those in high brackets.

The President advocated major changes in the current treatment of capital gains, which he described as "both inequitable and a barrier to economic growth." He introduced a formula that would shave the maximum rate from 25 per cent to 19.5 and start the scale at 4.2 per cent instead of 10. He also would require the

NEW YORK (AP)—A record five hours of peace talks came to naught Thursday in the 48-day New York newspaper blackout. There was no progress in easing the strike deadlock.

The negotiations were the longest since the strike began. But when they were recessed overnight, Stephen I. Schlossberg, federal mediator, told newsmen: "I am sorry to report that no tangible progress was made and no positions were changed."

Spokesmen for publishers and striking printers agreed with Schlossberg's assessment.

Schlossberg earlier told newsmen the sessions were devoted in large measure to noneconomic items, among which is the touchy subject of automation in the mechanical departments of New York newspapers.

In another newspaper blackout that has closed the two maor papers in Cleveland, Ohio, there were some signs of progress. The 56-day-old strike involves the AFL-CIO Cleveland Newspaper Guild and the independent Teamsters Union against the Plain Dealer and the Press and News.

Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher said the Teamsters are so near agreement with the papers over wages that no further assistance was needed from mediators. Also, Guild members on the Press and News voted to relax union security demands which have been the chief issue in that phase of the strike.

Mixed Reaction Seen In Congress To Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said Thursday they see a rough fight ahead for President Kennedy's tax revision program.

The part about reducing taxes by $13.6 billion would be easy, they said. The hard part comes in the President's proposals for knocking out some special benefits and deductions to raise an offsetting $3.4 billion.

"The President should not feel confident he is going to get that without a hard fight," said Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, second ranking Republicar on the Senate Finance Committee.

A Democrat, Sen. A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, predicted that "What we will get out of all this is a deficit at least as big as the President predicted, and probably bigger tax relief for those in the low-income brackets, and no tax reforms whatsoever."

Kennedy's own party leaders in the House and Senate took a cautious stance as the President's 12,500-word special message, outlining his proposals in detail, was delivered on Capitol Hill.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told newsmen "I am confident that a bill will pass this year," but he did not comment directly on Kennedy's proposals. McCormack said a tax reduction is needed to stimulate the economy and help provide jobs for two-million young people entering the labor market this year.

"If we bring to the President's proposals an open-mindedness, if we approach them as a totality," Mansfield said, "I am persuaded that we can come up with legislation which will act to move the economy forward, put government finances on a sounder footing, prevent inflation and bring greater equity into the payment of the bills of the nation."

An opposing view came from the House Republican whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, who said he did not agree with "the President's thesis that pump-priming will actually stimulate our economy."

Such measures did not solve the unemployment problems during the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal, Arends said.

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House Democratic leader, expressed what he called a personal opinion that tax reduction and tax reform should be handled separately.

Florida Editor Disagrees On Cuban Story

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A Florida newspaper editor said today President Kennedy disclosed a month after the ill-fated Cuban invasion that air cover was canceled by presidential order.

Jack W. Gore, editor and publisher of the Fort Lauderdale News, said Kennedy related that U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was concerned that "any such action woul make a liar out of him in the United Nations."

Gore and six other Florida newspaper executives visited the President at the White House on May 10, 1961. He said after the conference Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., "noted that he hoped that all the Florida editors will understand the President's comments were off the record."

"Along with the other Florida newspaper executives," Gore wrote today, "the News accepted this request and has honored it for almost two years. What (attorney general) Robert Kennedy hoped to accomplish by coming out at this late date and denying that any air cover had ever been planned, the News cannot fathom.

"When the brother of the President of the United States, however, conducts an official autopsy of the sorry affair and makes official comments which are in direct contrast to the words of the President, the News feels that any off-the-record pledge which might apply must be removed in the quest for truth."

The attorney general told newsmen Monday that no U.S. air cover was ever promised Cuban rebels for the 1961 invasion of their homeland.

regard for him, but I would be delighted for Congress to pass a resolution" giving Churchill honorary citizenship or some sort of recognition. "It would be a gracious act at this time."

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION—It has been 34 years since a Democratic National Convention went South, to Houston, a reporter recalled. He asked what did Kennedy think of the Democrats going South again, namely, to Florida.

Kennedy said he thought that would be fine, but pointed out the decision is up to the party negotiators. Miami is bidding for next year's convention.

CONGRESSIONAL TERM—The next question was about former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's suggestion that a limit be placed on terms in Congress. Amid laughter, Kennedy replied he thought he might go into that "in the postpresidential period."

NEWSPAPER STRIKE—Asked for comment on the New York newspaper strike, Kennedy said, "I wish that strike would come to an end." He said it does not come under the Taft-Hartley law because no national emergency is involved, but it is causing great hardship on those involved and, "I would hope that reason would motivate both sides and they would reach the compromise which ultimately they are going to reach anyway."

IMMIGRATION—Kennedy said he will make some proposals to Congress on immigration, especially for redistributing the unused portions of quotas allotted some countries.

OVERSEAS MISSILES — Kennedy was asked whether any concessions were being obtained in return for the withdrawal of U.S. missiles from Italy and Turkey. He said no, that Polaris submarines were being sent into the area with their modern weapons and that the withdrawal was a matter of phasing out obsolescent material.

To a question whether using Polaris missiles would mean that this country would be unable to strike at the heartland of the Soviet Union in case of war, the President said, no, that other missiles, plus bombers, still would give complete coverage.

TAXES—The President was asked how much dependence there was on the size of the revisions and the size of the reductions in connection with his tax proposals.

He said the proposal was a $13-billion cut and a $3-billion reform, as he put it. He said there were inequities in the present law. He said a tax bill this year was essential. Congress must decide whether both revision and reduction could be accomplished this year. "I would hope that they could be," he said.

COMMON MARKET—If Great Britain is kept out of the Common Market, Kennedy was asked, what would it mean to the United States?

Kennedy pointed out that the United States hopes to negotiate with the Common Market, and its policy for 15 years has been for a united Europe. He said he hopes that Great Britain will gain membership, and said it was particularly important that the European community be united and strong since Latin America will be in need of U.S. help.

The time may come, Kennedy said, when Europe no longer needs U.S. aid, but he said he does not think that time has come.

ARGENTINA—Kennedy said the U.S. relationship with Argentina is good. He said the United States is watching a new attempt to analyze the country's economic problems and this might point to new ways to help the country.

POLITICS—On reports that some government employes were pressured to buy tickets to a Democratic fund - raising gala, Kennedy said he was not aware of any such pressure.

Asked about reported overtures to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to be a Republican candidate for president in 1968, Kennedy said, "I have too high a regard for him to launch his candidacy right now." This sally brought a burst of laughter.

STATES—Kennedy was asked whether he planned a president's conference of governors to discuss federal-state problems. He said there was no such plan, but that the White House does maintain liaison with the Governors' Conference. And he added that the federal budget would be balanced if it were not for the help that the national government gives hard-pressed states.

BOMBERS — In reply to a question, Kennedy said yes, he does see some reason why there may continue to be a need for manned bombers on through the 1960s and maybe into the 1970s.

MEREDITH — Kennedy was asked if he thought the federal intervention at the University of Mississippi, which has cost $4 million, would be a failure if James H. Meredith a Negro, withdraws from the school.

The President said that not only was the money spent, but also two lives were lost. But, he said, he cannot see how the federal government could have taken any other course. He said the United States cannot survive if the executive does not carry out the decisions of its courts.

"I would be sorry if Mr. Meredith did leave," the President said. "I hope he continues. It would be a loss not only to Mr. Meredith but to the university."

RIOTING—Kennedy was asked for comment about a riot after a high school football game Thanksgiving Day at the Washington Municipal Stadium.

The President said there was a bad situation after the game. One of the purposes of a separate budget recently submitted for the District of Columbia, he said, was to emphasize need for funds for schools and other programs helping young people.

What we ought to realize, he said, is that the riot highlighted the fact that many young people in the District of Columbia are neglected, that Congress has not provided funds. He said he hopes something will be done. There have been many changes in Washington and much resulting social unrest, Kennedy continued.

FRENCH NUCLEAR — Kennedy said it would be peculiar logic to conclude that what the United States did in Cuba shows that the United States would not defend Europe against the Soviet Union.

This was in reply to a request for comment on reports that some Europeans felt France wanted a nuclear force of its own because of doubts about what support the United States would provide, and that the Cuban experience figured in such doubts.

Kennedy said he did not see how it would be more reassuring if the United States had done nothing in Cuba.

He said there might be various reasons why a country would want its own nuclear capacity. As for the United States commitment to defend Europe, he said while some might doubt it, Soviet Premier Khrushchev believes it.

He said he never had the slightest doubt French President Charles de Gaulle would go to the defense of other European countries. He said our confidence in De Gaulle should be matched by confidence in us.

Young Workers Attack Student Group In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Workers supporting Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi's sweeping social reforms stormed into the Tehran University campus Thursday and beat up students for shouting slogans denouncing the ruler.

The invasion by 2,000 young workers came as steel-helmeted police clashed with mullahs near the downtown bazaar area to break up a demonstration by religious leaders opposed to land reform projects.

Tension built up throughout the ancient Southwest Asian kingdom over the social revolution instituted by the youthful monarch.

The shah went ahead with plans for a nationwide referendum Saturday to get popular approval for his reforms, including distribution among peasants of large land holdings, rental to the peasants of shrine lands owned by Moslem religious groups and a 20 per cent profit-sharing plan for factory workers.

The shah, ruling with strongman powers since dissolving Parliament in May 1961, has support from a majority of the population.

The recently installed governor called a news conference at which he read his brief prepared statement. He declined to answer questions.

Russell said he understands Clemson will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court from the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals order directing that Clemson admit the 20-year-old architectural student. Gantt is to enroll Monday. Classes begin Feb. 1.

"We have sought and we shall continue to seek to maintain our position in this and all similar cases by every lawful means," he added. "When we lose battles, however, we will abide by the lawful process in that case. But we have confidence in the ultimate rightness and vindication of our stand."

Tax Reduction

holding of assets for at least a year—not six months as at present—to qualify for the lower rate on long-term capital gains.

Depletion Allowance

The President decided against proposing a direct slash in the depletion allowances granted mineral operators, allowances that permit oil and gas producers to avoid levies on up to 27.5 per cent of taxable income. By a less direct route, on which he still is sure to meet resistance, he sought to cure what he termed "unintended defects" in tax privileges afforded mineral industries that represent $300 million in revenue.

These were among the features—and there were many—of a 12,500-word message Kennedy sent Congress to spell out the ingredients of a tax program he previously had outlined broadly in terms of totals. The big figures changed slightly with the details—to over-all reductions of $13.6 billion yearly and revisions pulling in an additional $3.4 billion.

Kennedy declared emphatically that reductions and revisions are interdependent. He said his proposals were designed to cut taxes no more than the net of $10.2 billion when the program became fully effective in 1965.

Anticipates Opposition

If Congress scraps any of the revisions—and some are so sensitive to significant taxpayer groups and special interests that they are not likely to survive intact—he said the revenue would have to be made up by sacrifices elsewhere in the over-all program.

Anticipating opposition from critics of the $11.9-billion revenue hole in his $98.8-billion budget for 1963-64, Kennedy rejected the idea of trying to stimulate the economy through massive government spending, but he asserted:

"It would be a grave mistake to require that any tax reduction today be offset by a corresponding cut in expenditures."

Jobs and output would shrink as government contracts were cut back, he said.

Only two days ago Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, the group which actually will write tax legislation for all of Congress to debate, said tax reduction would be healthy for the country but should be preceded by efforts to balance the budget.

Kennedy repeated his argument that tax reduction would invigorate a slackening economy and in a few years broaden the tax base to a point where lower rates actually would produce more revenue and achieve a budget surplus.

Individual Affect

Then he told how his plan would affect individuals and corporations.

For this year, he proposed a rate schedule ranging from 18.5 to 4.5 per cent, down from the present scale of 20 to 91 per cent. Upon enactment — and he said it should be done quickly to create the climate for economic growth—withholding rates would drop from the present level of 18 per cent fo 15.5.

In computing tax bills, the lower schedule would apply to the entire calendar year. Thus for accounting purposes the cuts would reflect a starting date of Jan. 1, which Kennedy had abandoned in favor of July 1. For practical purposes, however, taxpayers will benefit by no more than the originally contemplated cut of $2.8 billion for 1963 and they won't begin to enjoy it until Congress has acted.

For 1964 the President recommended chopping the low-bracket rate to 15.5 per cent in a schedule graduated up to 71.5 per cent. The withholding rate would drop to 13.5 per cent on July 1, 1964.

For 1965 he proposed the final decrease, a scale of 14 to 65 per cent. Withholding would remain at 13.5 per cent.

Examples Given

By that time a married couple with two dependents having taxable income of $5,000 and taking the standard deduction would find its tax cut from the present $420 to $296. If the same couple itemized deductions, a typical return as sketched by the Treasury would show a drop from $300 at present to $245.

The Treasury prepared other examples for a married taxpayer with two dependents and typical itemized deductions. With adjusted gross income of $10,000 from wages and salaries, his bill would decrease from $1,196 to $1,014. With $20,000 it would drop from $3,410 to $2,952. With $100,000 from investments as well as salary, it would drop from $37,560 to $32,436.

Combining effects of reductions and revisions, the Treasury estimated these savings by income groups:

Income subject to tax up to $3,000 — 39 per cent; $3,000 to $5,000 — 28 per cent; $5,000 to $10,000—21 per cent; $10,000 to $20,000—15 per cent; $20,000 to $50,000—12 per cent; $50,000 and over—9 per cent.

It averages out to 18 per cent.

PLYMOUTH BEATS FORD AND CHEVROLET IN 8 OUT OF 10 OFFICIAL TESTS

Plymouth once again proves all-around superiority against its competition. Handling, safety, performance, economy—all of these were measured in the second meeting of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth early in December at the Riverside, Cal., test course. In a "Showdown" asked for by Plymouth, a 1963 Plymouth Fury V-8 whipped a comparably equipped Chevrolet Impala V-8 and Ford Galaxie "500" V-8 in eight out of ten official tests.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute bought the cars, hired the drivers, supplied the officials, made and enforced the rules. The chart at right leaves no question about the results. Plymouth excelled in all-around performance and economy. Add in Plymouth's good looks and 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*. See your dealer. Plymouth's on the move.

Florida Editor Disagrees On Cuban Story

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A Florida newspaper editor said today President Kennedy disclosed a month after the ill-fated Cuban invasion that air cover was canceled by presidential order.

Jack W. Gore, editor and publisher of the Fort Lauderdale News, said Kennedy related that U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was concerned that "any such action woul make a liar out of him in the United Nations."

Gore and six other Florida newspaper executives visited the President at the White House on May 10, 1961. He said after the conference Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., "noted that he hoped that all the Florida editors will understand the President's comments were off the record."

"Along with the other Florida newspaper executives," Gore wrote today, "the News accepted this request and has honored it for almost two years. What (attorney general) Robert Kennedy hoped to accomplish by coming out at this late date and denying that any air cover had ever been planned, the News cannot fathom.

"When the brother of the President of the United States, however, conducts an official autopsy of the sorry affair and makes official comments which are in direct contrast to the words of the President, the News feels that any off-the-record pledge which might apply must be removed in the quest for truth."

The attorney general told newsmen Monday that no U.S. air cover was ever promised Cuban rebels for the 1961 invasion of their homeland.

Power companies from Rome to London appealed to consumers to cut down on electricity.

Frozen water mains were bursting across Europe—1,600 in London alone. The Rome water company told consumers to leave their taps on at night to keep them from freezing.

The straits, connecting the Mediterranean with the Black Sea was closed to shipping. A fierce blizzard swept down and cut a power cable across the Bosporus.

Kennedy News Conference

regard for him, but I would be delighted for Congress to pass a resolution" giving Churchill honorary citizenship or some sort of recognition. "It would be a gracious act at this time."

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION—It has been 34 years since a Democratic National Convention went South, to Houston, a reporter recalled. He asked what did Kennedy think of the Democrats going South again, namely, to Florida.

Kennedy said he thought that would be fine, but pointed out the decision is up to the party negotiators. Miami is bidding for next year's convention.

CONGRESSIONAL TERM—The next question was about former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's suggestion that a limit be placed on terms in Congress. Amid laughter, Kennedy replied he thought he might go into that "in the postpresidential period."

NEWSPAPER STRIKE—Asked for comment on the New York newspaper strike, Kennedy said, "I wish that strike would come to an end." He said it does not come under the Taft-Hartley law because no national emergency is involved, but it is causing great hardship on those involved and, "I would hope that reason would motivate both sides and they would reach the compromise which ultimately they are going to reach anyway."

IMMIGRATION—Kennedy said he will make some proposals to Congress on immigration, especially for redistributing the unused portions of quotas allotted some countries.

OVERSEAS MISSILES — Kennedy was asked whether any concessions were being obtained in return for the withdrawal of U.S. missiles from Italy and Turkey. He said no, that Polaris submarines were being sent into the area with their modern weapons and that the withdrawal was a matter of phasing out obsolescent material.

To a question whether using Polaris missiles would mean that this country would be unable to strike at the heartland of the Soviet Union in case of war, the President said, no, that other missiles, plus bombers, still would give complete coverage.

TAXES—The President was asked how much dependence there was on the size of the revisions and the size of the reductions in connection with his tax proposals.

He said the proposal was a $13-billion cut and a $3-billion reform, as he put it. He said there were inequities in the present law. He said a tax bill this year was essential. Congress must decide whether both revision and reduction could be accomplished this year. "I would hope that they could be," he said.

COMMON MARKET—If Great Britain is kept out of the Common Market, Kennedy was asked, what would it mean to the United States?

Kennedy pointed out that the United States hopes to negotiate with the Common Market, and its policy for 15 years has been for a united Europe. He said he hopes that Great Britain will gain membership, and said it was particularly important that the European community be united and strong since Latin America will be in need of U.S. help.

The time may come, Kennedy said, when Europe no longer needs U.S. aid, but he said he does not think that time has come.

ARGENTINA—Kennedy said the U.S. relationship with Argentina is good. He said the United States is watching a new attempt to analyze the country's economic problems and this might point to new ways to help the country.

POLITICS—On reports that some government employes were pressured to buy tickets to a Democratic fund - raising gala, Kennedy said he was not aware of any such pressure.

Asked about reported overtures to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to be a Republican candidate for president in 1968, Kennedy said, "I have too high a regard for him to launch his candidacy right now." This sally brought a burst of laughter.

STATES—Kennedy was asked whether he planned a president's conference of governors to discuss federal-state problems. He said there was no such plan, but that the White House does maintain liaison with the Governors' Conference. And he added that the federal budget would be balanced if it were not for the help that the national government gives hard-pressed states.

BOMBERS — In reply to a question, Kennedy said yes, he does see some reason why there may continue to be a need for manned bombers on through the 1960s and maybe into the 1970s.

MEREDITH — Kennedy was asked if he thought the federal intervention at the University of Mississippi, which has cost $4 million, would be a failure if James H. Meredith a Negro, withdraws from the school.

The President said that not only was the money spent, but also two lives were lost. But, he said, he cannot see how the federal government could have taken any other course. He said the United States cannot survive if the executive does not carry out the decisions of its courts.

"I would be sorry if Mr. Meredith did leave," the President said. "I hope he continues. It would be a loss not only to Mr. Meredith but to the university."

RIOTING—Kennedy was asked for comment about a riot after a high school football game Thanksgiving Day at the Washington Municipal Stadium.

The President said there was a bad situation after the game. One of the purposes of a separate budget recently submitted for the District of Columbia, he said, was to emphasize need for funds for schools and other programs helping young people.

What we ought to realize, he said, is that the riot highlighted the fact that many young people in the District of Columbia are neglected, that Congress has not provided funds. He said he hopes something will be done. There have been many changes in Washington and much resulting social unrest, Kennedy continued.

FRENCH NUCLEAR — Kennedy said it would be peculiar logic to conclude that what the United States did in Cuba shows that the United States would not defend Europe against the Soviet Union.

This was in reply to a request for comment on reports that some Europeans felt France wanted a nuclear force of its own because of doubts about what support the United States would provide, and that the Cuban experience figured in such doubts.

Kennedy said he did not see how it would be more reassuring if the United States had done nothing in Cuba.

He said there might be various reasons why a country would want its own nuclear capacity. As for the United States commitment to defend Europe, he said while some might doubt it, Soviet Premier Khrushchev believes it.

He said he never had the slightest doubt French President Charles de Gaulle would go to the defense of other European countries. He said our confidence in De Gaulle should be matched by confidence in us.

Young Workers Attack Student Group In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Workers supporting Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi's sweeping social reforms stormed into the Tehran University campus Thursday and beat up students for shouting slogans denouncing the ruler.

The invasion by 2,000 young workers came as steel-helmeted police clashed with mullahs near the downtown bazaar area to break up a demonstration by religious leaders opposed to land reform projects.

Tension built up throughout the ancient Southwest Asian kingdom over the social revolution instituted by the youthful monarch.

The shah went ahead with plans for a nationwide referendum Saturday to get popular approval for his reforms, including distribution among peasants of large land holdings, rental to the peasants of shrine lands owned by Moslem religious groups and a 20 per cent profit-sharing plan for factory workers.

The shah, ruling with strongman powers since dissolving Parliament in May 1961, has support from a majority of the population.

Gov. Russell Anticipates No Racial Trouble In S. C.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Gov. Donald Russell said Thursday South Carolina will meet the issue of Negro Harvey Gantt's admittance to all-white Clemson College "peaceably, without violence, without disorder and with proper regard for the good name of our state and her people."

The recently installed governor called a news conference at which he read his brief prepared statement. He declined to answer questions.

Russell said he understands Clemson will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court from the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals order directing that Clemson admit the 20-year-old architectural student. Gantt is to enroll Monday. Classes begin Feb. 1.

"We have sought and we shall continue to seek to maintain our position in this and all similar cases by every lawful means," he added. "When we lose battles, however, we will abide by the lawful process in that case. But we have confidence in the ultimate rightness and vindication of our stand."

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists report they have completed a geological map of Europe and Asia. The Tass news agency said the map, pinpointing formations of land and surrounding sea areas is the first of its kind in the world. The project took five years.

Tax Reduction

holding of assets for at least a year—not six months as at present—to qualify for the lower rate on long-term capital gains.

Depletion Allowance

The President decided against proposing a direct slash in the depletion allowances granted mineral operators, allowances that permit oil and gas producers to avoid levies on up to 27.5 per cent of taxable income. By a less direct route, on which he still is sure to meet resistance, he sought to cure what he termed "unintended defects" in tax privileges afforded mineral industries that represent $300 million in revenue.

These were among the features—and there were many—of a 12,500-word message Kennedy sent Congress to spell out the ingredients of a tax program he previously had outlined broadly in terms of totals. The big figures changed slightly with the details—to over-all reductions of $13.6 billion yearly and revisions pulling in an additional $3.4 billion.

Kennedy declared emphatically that reductions and revisions are interdependent. He said his proposals were designed to cut taxes no more than the net of $10.2 billion when the program became fully effective in 1965.

Anticipates Opposition

If Congress scraps any of the revisions—and some are so sensitive to significant taxpayer groups and special interests that they are not likely to survive intact—he said the revenue would have to be made up by sacrifices elsewhere in the over-all program.

Anticipating opposition from critics of the $11.9-billion revenue hole in his $98.8-billion budget for 1963-64, Kennedy rejected the idea of trying to stimulate the economy through massive government spending, but he asserted:

"It would be a grave mistake to require that any tax reduction today be offset by a corresponding cut in expenditures."

Jobs and output would shrink as government contracts were cut back, he said.

Only two days ago Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, the group which actually will write tax legislation for all of Congress to debate, said tax reduction would be healthy for the country but should be preceded by efforts to balance the budget.

Kennedy repeated his argument that tax reduction would invigorate a slackening economy and in a few years broaden the tax base to a point where lower rates actually would produce more revenue and achieve a budget surplus.

Individual Affect

Then he told how his plan would affect individuals and corporations.

For this year, he proposed a rate schedule ranging from 18.5 to 4.5 per cent, down from the present scale of 20 to 91 per cent. Upon enactment — and he said it should be done quickly to create the climate for economic growth—withholding rates would drop from the present level of 18 per cent fo 15.5.

In computing tax bills, the lower schedule would apply to the entire calendar year. Thus for accounting purposes the cuts would reflect a starting date of Jan. 1, which Kennedy had abandoned in favor of July 1. For practical purposes, however, taxpayers will benefit by no more than the originally contemplated cut of $2.8 billion for 1963 and they won't begin to enjoy it until Congress has acted.

For 1964 the President recommended chopping the low-bracket rate to 15.5 per cent in a schedule graduated up to 71.5 per cent. The withholding rate would drop to 13.5 per cent on July 1, 1964.

For 1965 he proposed the final decrease, a scale of 14 to 65 per cent. Withholding would remain at 13.5 per cent.

Examples Given

By that time a married couple with two dependents having taxable income of $5,000 and taking the standard deduction would find its tax cut from the present $420 to $296. If the same couple itemized deductions, a typical return as sketched by the Treasury would show a drop from $300 at present to $245.

The Treasury prepared other examples for a married taxpayer with two dependents and typical itemized deductions. With adjusted gross income of $10,000 from wages and salaries, his bill would decrease from $1,196 to $1,014. With $20,000 it would drop from $3,410 to $2,952. With $100,000 from investments as well as salary, it would drop from $37,560 to $32,436.

Combining effects of reductions and revisions, the Treasury estimated these savings by income groups:

Income subject to tax up to $3,000 — 39 per cent; $3,000 to $5,000 — 28 per cent; $5,000 to $10,000—21 per cent; $10,000 to $20,000—15 per cent; $20,000 to $50,000—12 per cent; $50,000 and over—9 per cent.

It averages out to 18 per cent.

Guilty Of Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two young transients were found guilty Thursday of the strangulation murder of a Burbank auto worker last July 13.

Convicted of first degree murder were Andrew G. Dunn, 18, of Zanesville, Ohio, and Charles A. Andrews, 24, of Baltimore, Md.

The prosecution said they robbed and killed Peter D. Follis, 43, a General Motors employe.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute Report:

PLYMOUTH BEATS FORD AND CHEVROLET IN 8 OUT OF 10 OFFICIAL TESTS

Plymouth once again proves all-around superiority against its competition. Handling, safety, performance, economy—all of these were measured in the second meeting of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth early in December at the Riverside, Cal., test course. In a "Showdown" asked for by Plymouth, a 1963 Plymouth Fury V-8 whipped a comparably equipped Chevrolet Impala V-8 and Ford Galaxie "500" V-8 in eight out of ten official tests.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute bought the cars, hired the drivers, supplied the officials, made and enforced the rules. The chart at right leaves no question about the results. Plymouth excelled in all-around performance and economy. Add in Plymouth's good looks and 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*. See your dealer. Plymouth's on the move.

Lee Lawrie, 85 Noted Sculptor Dies At Easton

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Funeral services for Lee Lawrie, 85-year-old sculptor who died Wednesday night in Memorial Hospital here, will be held at nearby Wye Mills Saturday.

Lawrie, who had been ill in recent months, helped sculptor John R. Sinnock, now deceased, work out the bas-relief of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the American dime.

Lawrie was born in Rixdorf, Germany, and came to the United States as an infant. He attended public schools in Illinois and Maryland and studied sculpture while still in his teens under Richard Henry Parks, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, Phillip Martiny and others.

He was a consultant to the architects directing the renovation of the house and senate chambers in the Capitol in Washington, D.C. In 1933, he was appointed by President Hoover as sculptor-member of the National Commission on Fine Arts.

Lawrie's survivors include his widow, Mildred, and a son, Lee Lawrie Jr., of Oxford, Md.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Old Wye Episcopal Church in Wye Mills. Burial will be in Woodlawn Memorial Park, Easton.

Proposes Tax Aid To Small Businesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small businesses would be allowed a tax deduction up to $30,000 for money which was plowed back into the firm under a bill introduced in Congress Thursday by Rep. Richard E. Lankford, D-Md.

He said President Kennedy's tax reduction proposal fails to provide the help small firms need, adding that he planned to ask the house Ways and Means Committee to consider his proposal with the over-all bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., introduced a bill Thursday to correct what he calls inequities in the Federal Salary Act.

A neighbor helped Mrs. Irvin R. Harris, 25, evacuate her five children from a burning row house in north Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Harrison, who lived on the third floor, also were forced to evacuate their four children from the building.

Rockville Gets Renewal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of a $101,950 grant to Rockville, Md., to aid in buying land under the Open Space Land Development Program was announced Thursday.

Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Md., said he was told the grant covers 30 per cent of the total price for 82 acres on four sites known as Lionowes, West Rockville, Carter, and Civic Center.

Replane Given Lie Detector Test By Police

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—William S. Replane, whose wife has been missing since Monday night, was taken to State Police headquarters at Pikesville Thursday and given a lie detector test.

State Police said the polygraph test was merely "an investigative guide," and Replane himself said he agreed to it.

"I was perfectly agreeable to it," Replane told The Associated Press.

Replane's 25-year-old wife, Alene, disappeared after teaching a sewing and tailoring class for adults at Laurel High School Monday night. Her husband said he found her car several hours later parked alongside Maryland 197 about half a mile from their apartment home.

A 13-state alarm has been issued for Mrs. Replane, a brown-eyed, brown-haired woman who was wearing a blue dress, black shoes and a tan coat.

SS Shirley Lykes Leaves Cuba With 1,160 Refugees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Red Cross said that the SS Shirley Lykes headed out of Havana for Florida on Thursday night, packed with 1,160 refugees from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

A Red Cross spokesman in Miami said weather might slow the freighters' northward voyage but she still was expected to dock at 8 a.m. Friday at Port Everglades, Fort Lauderdale's Atlantic Ocean outlet 20 miles north of Miami.

Stewart Queen of the Red Cross said the Shirley Lykes left dock in Havana at 7 p.m. and was outbound through the harbor by 7:30.

Refugees were housed in holds under each of the ship's five hatches. The number taken aboard was considerably over the 800 to 900 whom the Red Cross anticipated would make the trip to join their relatives, liberated prisoners of the 1961 Cuba invasion, in Florida.

A Red Cross medico-nursing team was flown to Havana well before the departure to assist ill and elderly refugees.

Queen praised the Cuban Red Cross for doing "a wonderful job at helping the refugees get aboard. There was a very cordial relationship between their workers and ours."

After debarking at Port Everglades the refugees will be brought in buses to Miami for reunion with their loved ones.

The Shirley Lykes unloaded 7,000 tons of food and medicine in Havana. The cargo was the second installment by ship of a $53 million vital commodity ransom being paid to Castro for his release of 1,113 prisoners captured at the Bay of Pigs on April 17, 1961.

Lee Lawrie, 85 Noted Sculptor Dies At Easton

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Funeral services for Lee Lawrie, 85-year-old sculptor who died Wednesday night in Memorial Hospital here, will be held at nearby Wye Mills Saturday.

Lawrie, who had been ill in recent months, helped sculptor John R. Sinnock, now deceased, work out the bas-relief of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the American dime.

Lawrie was born in Rixdorf, Germany, and came to the United States as an infant. He attended public schools in Illinois and Maryland and studied sculpture while still in his teens under Richard Henry Parks, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, Phillip Martiny and others.

He was a consultant to the architects directing the renovation of the house and senate chambers in the Capitol in Washington, D.C. In 1933, he was appointed by President Hoover as sculptor-member of the National Commission on Fine Arts.

Lawrie's survivors include his widow, Mildred, and a son, Lee Lawrie Jr., of Oxford, Md.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Old Wye Episcopal Church in Wye Mills. Burial will be in Woodlawn Memorial Park, Easton.

Proposes Tax Aid To Small Businesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small businesses would be allowed a tax deduction up to $30,000 for money which was plowed back into the firm under a bill introduced in Congress Thursday by Rep. Richard E. Lankford, D-Md.

He said President Kennedy's tax reduction proposal fails to provide the help small firms need, adding that he planned to ask the house Ways and Means Committee to consider his proposal with the over-all bill.

An aide said the governor, who is suffering from an "influenza-like infection," is not expected to return to his office before Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., introduced a bill Thursday to correct what he calls inequities in the Federal Salary Act.

Long said that because of the irregularity, one employe lost $350 a year as the result of a promotion. Several constituents at Aberdeen Proving Ground complained about the inequity, Long said.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The executive director of the Maryland Port Authority, Joseph L. Stanton, leaves Baltimore Feb. 3 for a two-week business trip to Belgium, England and Ireland.

Stanton, who also is president of the American Association of Port Authorities, will conduct a series of trade development meetings with foreign businessmen and port officials.

He will be accompanied on the trip by Charles I. Hughes, director of trade development for the port authority. They will be joined overseas by Stanley E. Horn, the authority's European director, and Austin G. Tofield, manager of the authority's London office.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two separate fires in Baltimore and its suburbs forced several families, including a dozen children, out of their homes Thursday into the six-degree weather.

A neighbor helped Mrs. Irvin R. Harris, 25, evacuate her five children from a burning row house in north Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Harrison, who lived on the third floor, also were forced to evacuate their four children from the building.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Elizabeth Wilkinson, 20, reported to police she was threatened by a man as she left the Maryland Institute and officers later arrested an escaped mental patient in the area.

Police heard the screams of Mrs. Adele Ulrich, 57, who said she was dragged into an alley. Two patrolmen arrested the attacker, an escapee from the Patuxent Institution.

Rockville Gets Renewal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of a $101,950 grant to Rockville, Md., to aid in buying land under the Open Space Land Development Program was announced Thursday.

Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Md., said he was told the grant covers 30 per cent of the total price for 82 acres on four sites known as Lionowes, West Rockville, Carter, and Civic Center.

The total acquisition costs are estimated at $339,850.

The grant was made by the Urban Renewal Administration.

Replane Given Lie Detector Test By Police

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—William S. Replane, whose wife has been missing since Monday night, was taken to State Police headquarters at Pikesville Thursday and given a lie detector test.

State Police said the polygraph test was merely "an investigative guide," and Replane himself said he agreed to it.

"I was perfectly agreeable to it," Replane told The Associated Press.

Replane's 25-year-old wife, Alene, disappeared after teaching a sewing and tailoring class for adults at Laurel High School Monday night. Her husband said he found her car several hours later parked alongside Maryland 197 about half a mile from their apartment home.

A 13-state alarm has been issued for Mrs. Replane, a brown-eyed, brown-haired woman who was wearing a blue dress, black shoes and a tan coat.

SS Shirley Lykes Leaves Cuba With 1,160 Refugees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Red Cross said that the SS Shirley Lykes headed out of Havana for Florida on Thursday night, packed with 1,160 refugees from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

A Red Cross spokesman in Miami said weather might slow the freighters' northward voyage but she still was expected to dock at 8 a.m. Friday at Port Everglades, Fort Lauderdale's Atlantic Ocean outlet 20 miles north of Miami.

Stewart Queen of the Red Cross said the Shirley Lykes left dock in Havana at 7 p.m. and was outbound through the harbor by 7:30.

Refugees were housed in holds under each of the ship's five hatches. The number taken aboard was considerably over the 800 to 900 whom the Red Cross anticipated would make the trip to join their relatives, liberated prisoners of the 1961 Cuba invasion, in Florida.

A Red Cross medico-nursing team was flown to Havana well before the departure to assist ill and elderly refugees.

Queen praised the Cuban Red Cross for doing "a wonderful job at helping the refugees get aboard. There was a very cordial relationship between their workers and ours."

After debarking at Port Everglades the refugees will be brought in buses to Miami for reunion with their loved ones.

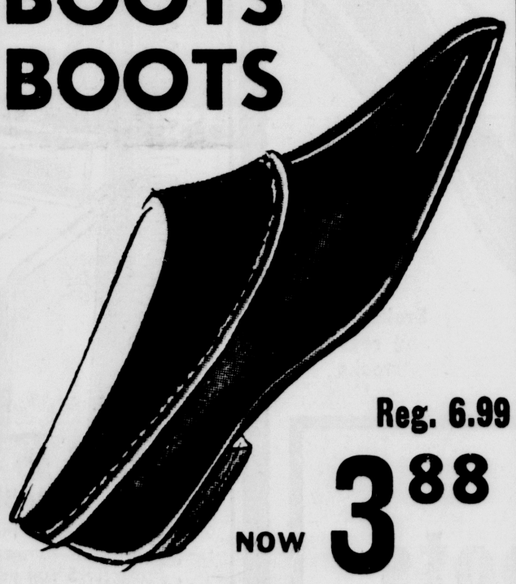

The Shirley Lykes unloaded 7,000 tons of food and medicine in Havana. The cargo was the second installment by ship of a $53 million vital commodity ransom being paid to Castro for his release of 1,113 prisoners captured at the Bay of Pigs on April 17, 1961.

Two U.S. Coast Guard cutters met the Shirley Lykes nine miles out of Havana and escorted her toward Florida.

Many People Pay More Income Tax Than They Actually Owe

Editors Note: This is the fourth of five dispatches on how to hold your federal income tax to the legal minimum. Today's dispatch deals with deductions.
By United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many people pay the federal government more income tax than they actually owe because they're unwilling—or unable—to figure their deducations.

If you've been one of them in the past, this is the year to learn about deductions.

As pointed out in a previous dispatch, you are not taxed on your total income, but on what the government calls your "taxable income." And in computing your taxable income, you are allowed to deduct from your total income money which you spent during the previous year for certain purposes, such as interest payments, church contributions, real estate taxes, etc.

There are two ways in which you can claim deductions:

1. You can itemize all of the deductions to which you are entitled, listing each of them on your tax return.

2. You can claim the so-called "standard deduction," which is exactly 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Taxpayers with incomes of less than $5,000 use the tax table to take the standard deduction.

Up To You

It's entirely up to you which way you do it. The Internal Revenue Service assumes you'll be smart enough to figure your tax both ways and take the cheapest way.

Claiming the standard deduction may appeal to you because it's simpler and easier to do, and can be done on the short-form 1040A if you're otherwise entitled to use it (the ground rules on this were explained in the first dispatch in this series).

If your adjusted gross income, for example, was $8,210, you may claim a standard deduction of $821, without offering any explanation or itemization. For most taxpayers "adjusted gross income" is simply total wages and other income on line 9 of Form 1040.

There is a limitation on the standard deduction, however. You can't claim a deduction larger than $1,000 this way. For example, even if your total income was $12,000, you'd have to settle for a $1,000 deduction if you wanted to claim the standard, non-itemized deduction. Married couples filing separately cannot take over $500 each.

Remember: You can claim the standard deduction whether or not your deductible expenses during the year actually totaled as much as 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Taxpayers Can Save

But many taxpayers—especially those who are liberal givers, who have mortgages on their homes, or who have had a lot of sickness in the family in the past year—can save a good deal by itemizing their deductions.

This is true in any case when the itemized deductions will add up to more than 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

To itemize your deductions, you must use the long form, 1040. There's space for listing deductions on page 2 of the form, or you can write them out on a separate sheet, attach it to the form, and put the totals of the various deductions on the form itself.

In filing a joint return, you may deduct the eligible expenses of both husband and wife. You may not deduct expenses which other dependents paid out of their own funds.

Which expenses are deductible? The major categories which affect most taxpayers are summarized below. You'll find additional details in the little booklet, "How To Prepare Your Income Tax Return," which accompanies Form 1040. Feel free to telephone or call at your local Internal Revenue Service office for advice on doubtful points.

Interest payments: Any interest paid on a debt for which you are liable is deductible. To compute the interest portion of installment purchase carrying charges, follow this formula: Take the amounts you owed on the time purchase at the beginning of each month last year; add these amounts, divide by 12, and take six per cent of that figure. This is your deduction provided it does not exceed the total carrying charge for the year.

Medical expenses: If you were under 65 at the end of 1962 you may deduct medical and dental expenses which exceed three per cent of your adjusted gross income. If either you or your wife was 65 or over before the end of the year, you may claim all medical expenses incurred by you both. But in either case drugs and medicine may be included only if they exceed one per cent of your adjusted gross income.

You may also deduct all medical expenses of your dependent parents who were 65 or over by the end of the year. In a joint return this applies to your wife's parents if they were your dependents and 65 or older. For a dependent parent under 65 the three per cent rule applies.

Deductible medical outlays include payments to physicians, surgeons, dentists, optometrists, qualified psychologists and christian science practitioners.

Also deductible are expenses for hospital bills, nursing, laboratory services, eyeglasses, hearing aids, artificial limbs, ambulance charges and the out-of-pocket cost of transportation to and from a doctors' office or hospital.

Payments for drugs and medicines may be included in medical expenses to the extent they exceed one per cent of your income. This includes drugs for persons of all ages.

You may also deduct payments for hospital and medical care plans. But your medical expense deductions must be reduced by reimbursements you got from health insurance or similar sources during the year.

The maximum deduction you can claim for medical expenses is $5,000 for each member of the household who qualifies as an exemption (including yourself) but not over $10,000 on a separate return and $20,000 on a joint return or head of household return. Not many people are likely to bump into this maximum.

Taxes: Most state and local taxes directly levied on you may be deducted. These include state income, real estate, personal property and state and local sales taxes. If you haven't kept track of your outlays for state and local sales taxes, you can obtain from any Internal Revenue Service office a table showing the "reasonable figure" which you may estimate you spent, considering your income and place of residence. You may not deduct federal excise, Social Security or income taxes; hunting or dog license fees; water assessments; or auto inspection fees.

Child Care: Costs are deductible only if incurred while a woman was working or looking for a job or by men who are divorced, widowers or legally separated. The dependent child must have been under 12. He or she need not be the taxpayer's son or daughter.

Also eligible is the cost of care for any other dependent physically or mentally unable to care for himself.

In all circumstances a child care deduction may not exceed $600. You may not deduct payments to baby-sitters you hired so you could go out socially.

Contributions: Deductible if they go to religious, charitable, educational, scientific or literary organizations. However, the organiza-

GOP Wins Seat In California Special Ballot

Don Clausen, who lost by 3,617 votes last November to a dead Democratic congressman, won Tuesday's special election by 14,000 votes over William F. Grader, who was an aide to the late Rep. Clem Miller.

Miller died in a plane crash while campaigning in October.

The Republican national chairman, William E. Miller, said in Washington that Clausen had achieved a stunning comeback. He called the result "a sharp repudiation of the Kennedy administration's policies."

Roger Kent, Northern California Democratic chairman, contended that reading national significance into the result was silly.

"The decisive factor was that Clausen had succeeded in making his name identified by a full year of campaigning throughout the district. We actually had only three weeks after the holiday season to get Grader's name before the public. It's as simple as that," Kent said.

Dye Kills Woman

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Anna Giordano died this week of poison which entered her system from a dress she dyed black to mourn the death of her father. Doctors said the dye contained a deadly chemical but they did not identify it.

Asian Flu Epidemic Is Spreading

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—The first reported Asian flu epidemic reported in the United States this winter has about runs its course in Robeson County, N. C., and is spreading to a neighboring county.

The U.S. Public Health Service has predicted for months that there might be wide outbreaks of Asian flu in the United States this winter. Officials urged vaccinations for high-risk groups—including the chronically ill, pregnant women and everyone over 45. Health officials fear the disease could spread quickly.

The outbreak in Robeson County, in southeastern North Carolina, is waning, but new cases are being reported in nearby Hoke County.

The Robeson epidemic affected between 4,000 and 5,000 persons, mostly children. The Public Health Service laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., to which specimens were sent, confirmed it as the Asian type.

Influenza, somewhat delayed in arriving this winter, also has struck in Baltimore.

But it's not known yet whether Baltimore's is the more serious Asian strain.

Two Marines Die In Freak Mishap

HOLLY HILL, N. C. (UPI)—Two Marines escaped injury early Wednesday in a two-car collision, then were killed five minutes later when struck by a car while standing beside the wreckage.

They were identified as Eugene Valunas, 21, of Torrington, Conn., and Robert A. White Jr., 22, of Gaffney, S. C.

They had been riding in a compact car driven by another Marine, Curtis G. Brewer, 21, which had crossed the centerline and struck an oncoming car driven by Mrs. Fannie L. Mincey, 52, of Wilmington.

Only slight damage was done to Mrs. Mincey's car, but the compact containing the Marines overturned on the shoulder of the road.

The two victims were standing next to their wrecked car when another vehicle, also driven by a Marine, Walter J. Stickney Jr., ran over them.

British To Up Old Age Pensions

LONDON (AP) — The Conservative government announced Wednesday plans to raise pensions and other benefits of the British welfare state by the equivalent of 635.6 million a year.

Old age pension—payable at 65—will go up from $8.05 a week for a single person to $9.45. Pensions for retired married couples will rise from $12.95 a week to $15.26.

The increases were announced in the House of Commons by Niall McPherson, the minister of pensions and national insurance.

Hard Luck Town Makes Comeback

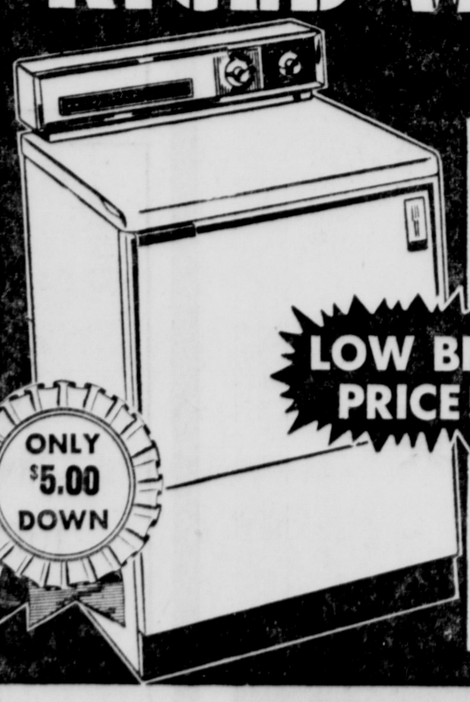

AMHERST, Nova Scotia (AP)—The hard-luck town of Springhill, beset by two mine disasters and a big fire between 1956 and 1958, is making a comeback. A building boom and the establishment of small industries, including a new coal mine, have helped.

Cumberland County Warden Earl B. Fullerton announced Tuesday that Springhill, which lost 114 men in the mine disasters met its financial obligations to the county in 1962 and paid off $16,000 of the $53,000 it owed from previous years.

GOP Wins Seat In California Special Ballot

Don Clausen, who lost by 3,617 votes last November to a dead Democratic congressman, won Tuesday's special election by 14,000 votes over William F. Grader, who was an aide to the late Rep. Clem Miller.

Miller died in a plane crash while campaigning in October.

The Republican national chairman, William E. Miller, said in Washington that Clausen had achieved a stunning comeback. He called the result "a sharp repudiation of the Kennedy administration's policies."

Roger Kent, Northern California Democratic chairman, contended that reading national significance into the result was silly.

"The decisive factor was that Clausen had succeeded in making his name identified by a full year of campaigning throughout the district. We actually had only three weeks after the holiday season to get Grader's name before the public. It's as simple as that," Kent said.

Dye Kills Woman

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Anna Giordano died this week of poison which entered her system from a dress she dyed black to mourn the death of her father. Doctors said the dye contained a deadly chemical but they did not identify it.

Asian Flu Epidemic Is Spreading

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—The first reported Asian flu epidemic reported in the United States this winter has about runs its course in Robeson County, N. C., and is spreading to a neighboring county.

The U.S. Public Health Service as predicted for months that there might be wide outbreaks of Asian flu in the United States this winter. Officials urged vaccinations for high-risk groups—including the chronically ill, pregnant women and everyone over 45. Health officials fear the disease could spread quickly.

The outbreak in Robeson County, in southeastern North Carolina, is waning, but new cases are being reported in nearby Hoke County.

The Robeson epidemic affected between 4,000 and 5,000 persons, mostly children. The Public Health Service laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., to which specimens were sent, confirmed it as the Asian type.

Influenza, somewhat delayed in arriving this winter, also has struck in Baltimore.

But it's not known yet whether Baltimore's is the more serious Asian strain.

Two Marines Die In Freak Mishap

HOLLY HILL, N. C. (UPI)—Two Marines escaped injury early Wednesday in a two-car collision, then were killed five minutes later when struck by a car while standing beside the wreckage.

They were identified as Eugene Valunas, 21, of Torrington, Conn., and Robert A. White Jr., 22, of Gaffney, S. C.

They had been riding in a compact car driven by another Marine, Curtis G. Brewer, 21, which had crossed the centerline and struck an oncoming car driven by Mrs. Fannie L. Mincey, 52, of Wilmington.

Only slight damage was done to Mrs. Mincey's car, but the compact containing the Marines overturned on the shoulder of the road.

The two victims were standing next to their wrecked car when another vehicle, also driven by a Marine, Walter J. Stickney Jr., ran over them.

British To Up Old Age Pensions

LONDON (AP) — The Conservative government announced Wednesday plans to raise pensions and other benefits of the British welfare state by the equivalent of 63.6 million a year.

Old age pension—payable at 65—will go up from $8.05 a week for a single person to $9.45. Pensions for retired married couples will rise from $12.95 a week to $15.26.

The increases were announced in the House of Commons by Niall MacPherson, the minister of pensions and national insurance.

Hard Luck Town Makes Comeback

AMHERST, Nova Scotia (AP)—The hard-luck town of Springhill, beset by two mine disasters and a big fire between 1956 and 1958, is making a comeback. A building boom and the establishment of small industries, including a new coal mine, have helped.

Cumberland County Warden Earl B. Fullerton announced Tuesday that Springhill, which lost 114 men in the mine disasters met its financial obligations to the county in 1962 and paid off $16,000 of the $53,000 it owed from previous years.

County Is Represented At Conference

Mrs. John S. Cook Sr., Cumberland; and Mrs. Earl Richardson, Frostburg, delegates from Allegany County League of Women Voters, attended the fifth national area meeting of the United Nations conference called by the Overseas Education Fund, which was held in Washington Monday and Tuesday, at Twin Bridges Marriott Motor Hotel.

They will report at the general county meeting, which will be held next month, with Mrs. Alexander Ganyu presiding.

Arthur Larson, former director of the United States Information Agency and now director of the World Rule of Law Center at Duke University, was keynote speaker. He said he believes that the successful conclusion of the UN Congo operation marks a turning point for the world organization. He pointed out that the UN has emerged as a new and positive force and it is the first time an international organization has proven to have a purpose and character of its own.

According to Mr. Larson, the UN devices for peace-keeping range from outright armed action to verbal debate. Previous precedents for military intervention have been Korea, the U. N. E. F., in the Middle East, and the maintenance of 1,000 Pakistan troops in West Irian (western New Guinea).

Until the success of the Congo, in Mr. Larson's view, the UN had the function of keeping order rather than of asserting international authority. Unification of the Congo, Mr. Larson believes, has prevented a third World War. Had Katanga been allowed to secede, the European powers would have come to her defense, with Russia welcoming the opportunity to defend the Central Congo government.

A question and answer period followed.

Kathleen McLaughlin of the New York Times and author of "The World's War on Want" spoke on the UN and World Economic Development. She gave examples of ways the UN has provided funds to help countries develop their own resources.

Answering those who complain the U. S. is "footing the bills" for the UN, she pointed out that the per capita share for the U. S. is far below that of some other nations. "This year," she said, "I am informed that our share per individual will be 16 cents. Sweden will be paying 75 cents for each of her citizens, and Denmark, 78 cents for each Dane."

The final speaker was Herbert F. Weiss, who spent a year in the Congo. He spoke on "The Building of the Congo."

Anthony Shultz, 429 Arch Street, is a medical patient in Memorial Hospital.

Much "pumpkin" pie is really made with squash. Hard-shelled winter squash has been an important American food since Indian days.

James H. Filsinger, 47, of Eckhart, has been elected president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, in balloting by the 2,300-member union at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

Filsinger won out over John G. Thomas, incumbent, Earl Snyder and William Atkinson. He had been serving as vice president and also was on the executive board for three separate terms.

Counties Postpone Meeting

A scheduled meeting of the county commissioners of Allegany and Garrett counties to discuss a boundary location problem affecting residents of the Big Savage Mountain area has been postponed until further notice.

Lewis R. Jones, attorney to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, wrote the Allegany County board Tuesday that until definite information can be obtained the meeting should be delayed.

Hoops On Outside

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Whisky barrels contain metal only on the outside, in the form of iron hoops. If metal were used on the inside, it would contaminate the whisky.

In its heyday, Rome was the paramount power in the world and Roman architecture was distributed over Syria, North Africa, France, Spain and Great Britain.

GOP Council Committee Appointed

A regular meeting date was selected and plans were formulated for celebration of the first anniversary of the Co-ordinating Council of Republican Clubs of Allegany County at the meeting of the council conducted by Mrs. George Barnard Monday evening in GOP headquarters.

It was decided to meet the fourth Monday of each month. A committee, composed of the president of each club is to meet with Mrs. Noel Speir Cook, who was named chairman, to draw up by-laws for the council. They will be presented for adoption at the next meeting.

Officers will be elected from the floor at the February 25 meeting. Due to the election, it was decided to postpone the first anniversary celebration and observe it at the installation in March. The council, composed of three members of each club in the county and three members of the state central committee, was organized last March.

The council also agreed to assist with the Lincoln Day dinner in March.

County Is Represented At Conference

Mrs. John S. Cook Sr., Cumberland; and Mrs. Earl Richardson, Frostburg, delegates from Allegany County League of Women Voters, attended the fifth national area meeting of the United Nations conference called by the Overseas Education Fund, which was held in Washington Monday and Tuesday, at Twin Bridges Marriott Motor Hotel.

They will report at the general county meeting, which will be held next month, with Mrs. Alexander Ganyu presiding.

Arthur Larson, former director of the United States Information Agency and now director of the World Rule of Law Center at Duke University, was keynote speaker. He said he believes that the successful conclusion of the UN Congo operation marks a turning point for the world organization. He pointed out that the UN has emerged as a new and positive force and it is the first time an international organization has proven to have a purpose and character of its own.

According to Mr. Larson, the UN devices for peace-keeping range from outright armed action to verbal debate. Previous precedents for military intervention have been Korea, the U. N. E. F., in the Middle East, and the maintenance of 1,000 Pakistan troops in West Irian (western New Guinea).

Until the success of the Congo, in Mr. Larson's view, the UN had the function of keeping order rather than of asserting international authority. Unification of the Congo, Mr. Larson believes, has prevented a third World War. Had Katanga been allowed to secede, the European powers would have come to her defense, with Russia welcoming the opportunity to defend the Central Congo government.

A question and answer period followed.

Kathleen McLaughlin of the New York Times and author of "The World's War on Want" spoke on the UN and World Economic Development. She gave examples of ways the UN has provided funds to help countries develop their own resources.

Answering those who complain the U. S. is "footing the bills" for the UN, she pointed out that the per capita share for the U. S. is far below that of some other nations. "This year," she said, "I am informed that our share per individual will be 16 cents. Sweden will be paying 75 cents for each of her citizens, and Denmark, 78 cents for each Dane."

The final speaker was Herbert F. Weiss, who spent a year in the Congo. He spoke on "The Building of the Congo."

Anthony Shultz, 429 Arch Street, is a medical patient in Memorial Hospital.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — In a surprise from Boston, it was announced at a luncheon that John Huston, colorful and talented motion picture director, will play the role of Cardinal Glennon of Boston in the film version of "The Cardinal." It was pointed out that Huston hasn't acted in a picture for years.

Otto Preminger stated in a speech he made that he went to England in a terrible blizzard to ask Huston to accept the role of Cardinal Glennon.

Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Boston Record-American, and Suday Advertiser, also a speaker, said that the movie will be filmed partly in greater Boston, and the premiere will be held there on Dec. 18.

They are a long time getting 'round to it, but Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin have decided to combine her dancing talent with his vocal chords and make a movie called "Bedtime Story" — which can get past the censors because they're married anyway.

For several years, Cyd and Tony have flirted with the idea of making a picture and there was a time they were touted for a Broadway show "the Fun Couple." Luckily, after the quick way that play folded, it's good the Martins didn't go into it. But now they've found a plot they like and have agreed to do "Bedtime Story" for producer Jack Harris in June.

Realizing that the best thing for June Allyson is to go back to work as soon as possible, Tom McDermott, president of Four Star Productions, and Dick Powell's protege, came up with a good idea for her.

Tom commissioned S. Leo Pogostin to write a special script for June. Naturally, it's for the Dick Powell Theatre show, and is titled, "Third Side of a Coin." June begins work at Four Star studio on Jan. 31.

The mother of Mary Badham, that nine-year-old child wonder from Birmingham who captured all our hearts as Gregory Peck's daughter in "To Kill a Mockingbird," just thought (or hoped) she was taking her talented daughter home to stay after that picture. Guess mama reckoned without her child's great talent because so persistent have been the demands from MGM that Mary is back here for "Sister Mike," a TV segment for "Dr. Kildare."

The youngster and her mother arrived in Beverly Hills today — but mama still insists the stay is a short one. She figures Mary can polish off the TC show while on vacation between school terms. Then, back to Birmingham for her "normal childhood."

When trouble comes along you can't ask for a better friend than Frank Sinatra, as Nelson Riddle could tell you. Composer-conductor Riddle was on his way to keep a recording date with Frank when he was flagged down that his and Doreen's 12-year-old son, Christopher, had been struck by a car on the highway near their Malibu home. Nelson headed immediately to Santa Monica Hospital where Chris had been rushed with a broken pelvis bone and brain bruises.

Frank heard the alarming "flash" on a radio news broadcast and just about the time the distraught parents showed up, Frank was at the hospital, too, after putting in a call to a battery of specialists to come immediately.

Back on the Hollywood scene is Curtis Bernhardt who has been living and directing pictures in Europe for the past three years, his latest being "Damon and Pythias."

Now Curt tells me he is home for a spell. "There's no better place to work, don't let anyone tell you otherwise. I have two properties I intend to film in Hollywood. The first will be 'Me and My Brother' for which I'm hoping to get Peter Sellers.

"The second will be 'Kisses For My President' which will be made here with exteriors in Washington, D. C." Now let's just hope some of the other wanderers follow Curt's example and come home where they belong.

Asbury Park, N. J., was founded in 1869 and named after Bishop Francis Asbury. Summer tourist trade is the city's prime industry.

Unemployment In State Drops To 4-Year Low

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Employment Security reported today that fewer Marylanders were unemployed during 1962 than in the past four years.

The department's year - end report showed statewide unemployment last year comprised only 5.3 per cent of the state work force. The unemployment rate during the past four years has ranged from 5.6 to 6.4 per cent.

The department attributed the low unemployment rate to a general recovery from a recession in 1961, new industry in the state and a large increase in white collar jobs.

Stephen G. Cromwell, department director, said however, there was still a hard-core of unemployment among unskilled laborers.

Cromwell said more than half the job openings referred to the department were for white collar workers, while only 22 per cent of the placements were made in the unskilled labor class.

Counties Postpone Meeting

A scheduled meeting of the county commissioners of Allegany and Garrett counties to discuss a boundary location problem affecting residents of the Big Savage Mountain area has been postponed until further notice.

Lewis R. Jones, attorney to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, wrote the Allegany County board Tuesday that until definite information can be obtained the meeting should be delayed.

Hoops On Outside

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Whisky barrels contain metal only on the outside, in the form of iron hoops. If metal were used on the inside, it would contaminate the whisky.

In its heyday, Rome was the paramount power in the world and Roman architecture was distributed over Syria, North Africa, France, Spain and Great Britain.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — In a surprise from Boston, it was announced at a luncheon that John Huston, colorful and talented motion picture director, will play the role of Cardinal Glennon of Boston in the film version of "The Cardinal." It was pointed out that Huston hasn't acted in a picture for years.

Otto Preminger stated in a speech he made that he went to England in a terrible blizzard to ask Huston to accept the role of Cardinal Glennon.

Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Boston Record-American, and Suday Advertiser, also a speaker, said that the movie will be filmed partly in greater Boston, and the premiere will be held there on Dec. 18.

They are a long time getting 'round to it, but Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin have decided to combine her dancing talent with his vocal chords and make a movie called "Bedtime Story" — which can get past the censors because they're married anyway.

For several years, Cyd and Tony have flirted with the idea of making a picture and there was a time they were touted for a Broadway show "the Fun Couple." Luckily, after the quick way that play folded, it's good the Martins didn't go into it. But now they've found a plot they like and have agreed to do "Bedtime Story" for producer Jack Harris in June.

Realizing that the best thing for June Allyson is to go back to work as soon as possible, Tom McDermott, president of Four Star Productions, and Dick Powell's protege, came up with a good idea for her.

Tom commissioned S. Leo Pogostin to write a special script for June. Naturally, it's for the Dick Powell Theatre show, and is titled, "Third Side of a Coin." June begins work at Four Star studio on Jan. 31.

The mother of Mary Badham, that nine-year-old child wonder from Birmingham who captured all our hearts as Gregory Peck's daughter in "To Kill a Mockingbird," just thought (or hoped) she was taking her talented daughter home to stay after that picture. Guess mama reckoned without her child's great talent because so persistent have been the demands from MGM that Mary is back here for "Sister Mike," a TV segment for "Dr. Kildare."

The youngster and her mother arrived in Beverly Hills today — but mama still insists the stay is a short one. She figures Mary can polish off the TC show while on vacation between school terms. Then, back to Birmingham for her "normal childhood."

When trouble comes along you can't ask for a better friend than Frank Sinatra, as Nelson Riddle could tell you. Composer-conductor Riddle was on his way to keep a recording date with Frank when he was flagged down that his and Doreen's 12-year-old son, Christopher, had been struck by a car on the highway near their Malibu home. Nelson headed immediately to Santa Monica Hospital where Chris had been rushed with a broken pelvis bone and brain bruises.

Frank heard the alarming "flash" on a radio news broadcast and just about the time the distraught parents showed up, Frank was at the hospital, too, after putting in a call to a battery of specialists to come immediately.

Back on the Hollywood scene is Curtis Bernhardt who has been living and directing pictures in Europe for the past three years, his latest being "Damon and Pythias."

Now Curt tells me he is home for a spell. "There's no better place to work, don't let anyone tell you otherwise. I have two properties I intend to film in Hollywood. The first will be 'Me and My Brother' for which I'm hoping to get Peter Sellers.

"The second will be 'Kisses For My President' which will be made here with exteriors in Washington, D. C." Now let's just hope some of the other wanderers follow Curt's example and come home where they belong.

Asbury Park, N. J., was founded in 1869 and named after Bishop Francis Asbury. Summer tourist trade is the city's prime industry.

Unemployment In State Drops To 4-Year Low

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Employment Security reported today that fewer Marylanders were unemployed during 1962 than in the past four years.

The department's year - end report showed statewide unemployment last year comprised only 5.3 per cent of the state work force. The unemployment rate during the past four years has ranged from 5.6 to 6.4 per cent.

The department attributed the low unemployment rate to a general recovery from a recession in 1961, new industry in the state and a large increase in white collar jobs.

Stephen G. Cromwell, department director, said however, there was still a hard-core of unemployment among unskilled laborers.

Cromwell said more than half the job openings referred to the department were for white collar workers, while only 22 per cent of the placements were made in the unskilled labor class.

West Virginian Gets Term Of 5-23 Years

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI)—Willard Vance, 32, changed his plea to guilty of second degree murder Thursday following completion of testimony in his trial, and was sentenced immediately to 5-to-23 years in prison.

Vance was charged with the hammer slaying last September of Clarence D. Wiley, 52, in the Dingess area of Mingo County where both men lived.

Circuit Judge C. W. Gerfusion was preparing to give instructions to the jury when defense attorney Walter Copley told him Vance wanted to change his plea.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter from the woman who yelled bloody murder because her husband leaned on the wallpaper and left grease spots was the last straw. Are the females in America having a mass nervous breakdown? It's no wonder the divorce rate is going through the roof.

A wife in Philadelphia can't stand her husband because he squeezes the toothpaste tube in the middle. A woman in California doesn't want to iron bedsheets. A loon in Kentucky won't let her husband smoke a cigar in the house. Another crazy dame wants to strap a bicycle horn on her husband's head at night so it will wake him up when he snores. Still another nut wants to know what to wear to her husband's funeral—and he isn't even dead yet.

I'm convinced that the real trouble-makers in this world are the wacky women. All a person has to do is read your column for a week and he can get plenty of evidence.—R.D.

DEAR R.D.: Men have been complaining about women from the beginning of time and they continue to marry them. If you can think of a better combination I'll buy it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my husband and I are with adults he speaks openly about how much things cost and is not the least bit reluctant to admit we can't afford certain things. I feel this is perfectly all right as most of our friends are in the same boat and we share similar economic problems.

I believe, however, that my husband should not make our children feel underprivileged by telling them we can't afford to buy them things which their friends have. Isn't it better to try to interest them in substitute toys? Or perhaps get them two inexpensive items in the place of one which is costly?

I keep telling him they will find out soon enough that life is cruel and full of inequities. Youngsters should not carry this burden. Am I right?—FRANCINE

DEAR FRANCINE: You're wrong. Where did you ever get the notion that it's harmful for children to hear the words "No, we can't afford it." If more people used this phrase instead of hocking their eyeballs to please their kids, they'd be better off. Parents who spend time with their children and give them love and attention needn't be concerned about the youngsters feeling "underprivileged." Theirs are the lucky ones who grow up straight and strong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school senior who wants to ask a question that has been bugging me. Why do teens who were going steady write after they break up and ask how to get back into circulation?

In our high school, and it's a pretty big one, everyone knows within the hour who the break-ups are. The news spreads like a forest fire and both kids are automatically back in circulation. So what's the problem?—DEE-DEE

DEAR DEEDEE: I don't know what goes on in your school, Buttercup, but most teenagers who write after the Big Breakup do want to know how to get back into circulation. These kids long to be part of the group, which they have ignored, and they don't know how to manage it. So they write to Mother Landers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BELOW ZERO: Six months is a long time for a girl to use a cold as an excuse for no goodnight kiss. Considering you are both in your middle 20s I suggest you look for a girl who is in better health.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: There seems to be a good deal of divided opinion on the meaning of dreams. Some people say dreams have no significance—that they are jumbled, unrelated thoughts which flash through a person's mind for no explainable reason. Others say dreams are the key to our innermost desires—desires we won't even admit to ourselves.

My husband is a great dreamer. He is also a pretty good talker—along with the dreams. I'd like to know whether a person dreams about things which have already happened. If this is true the old buzzard has plenty of explaining to do. On second thought, I can't figure out when he would find the time or energy for all the high-jinks. Please set me straight, Ann. I'd hate to blow my top for no good reason.

—THE OLD GREY MARE

Dear Mare: People do dream about things which have happened. And then again, some people dream about things they WISH would happen. I don't know if this will help you feel better or worse.

All dreams have some significance, but figuring out the real meaning of dreams requires a trained specialist.

Dear Ann Landers: Aren't teenagers difficult enough to handle without you getting into the act and taking their side against their parents?

The other day my 16-year-old daughter cut out your column and waved it under my nose saying, "See, Ann Landers says teenagers should have privacy."

I refer to the severe criticism you gave the mother who opened her daughter's mail and read the girl's diary.

Don't you realize that parents are responsible for their children so long as the children live under their roof? We have a right to know where they are, with whom, who else will be there and when they will be home.

My daughter thinks complete privacy means answering to no one. Will you clarify this in your column? —CONSTANT READER

Dear Reader: I have clarified this in my column—times without number. Where have you been? There's a world of difference between reading a teenager's mail and snooping in his diary and knowing where he is at all times, with whom, and when he will be at home.

Mail and diaries are personal and private information. A teenager's activities are not personal and private information. These are matters of vital concern to his parents. No teenager should be free to roam around without accounting for his whereabouts.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by the letter from the mother who was concerned because her son was nick-named "Runt." She was worried that it might interfere with his chances for a dignified legal career. You told her not to worry—that a guy nick-named "Whizzer" did all right.

Frankly, I think the mother must be off her rocker. An unusual nick-name can be a tremendous asset. It sticks in people's minds. A politician in Southern Illinois was recently re-elected. His name appeared on the ballot as follows: "Runt" Bishop.

Thought you'd like to know.

—HARRY A.

DEAR HARRY: Thanks for the clue - in. And congratulations, Runt.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PISTOL PACKIN' MAMA: This is about as funny as a fire in an Old Folks Home. If this woman is carrying a gun without a permit she should be turned in.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request ten cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

4 ◇	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
5 ◇	Pass	5 ♡	Pass
6 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣

South, in today's hand, delivered a neat performance in both the bidding and the play.

The opening two heart bid is well chosen, for South would hardly wish to play for less than game. North's decision to fix the trump suit by raising hearts directly is worthy of note. There will be time enough to show the other features of his holding, and it is good psychology to apprise partner at once of the fact that the trumps appear to be solid.

South's three spade call is of course, a cue bid designating the ace. North observed a similar procedure when he mentioned the clubs, whereupon South showed the ace of diamonds. North's repeat of the club suit is intended to show second round control, in other words the king. South's next bid was well chosen. If his partner happened to have either the king of spades or a singleton, in addition to the values already shown, then the partnership could contemplate a grand slam. In an effort to give North an opportunity to show second round control of spades, South rebid five diamonds. It was perfectly safe to make this call, for North could hardly pass, with hearts as the agreed trump suit. When the latter merely returned to five hearts, South settled for the small slam.

West led the jack of clubs and declarer made a somewhat unusual, but nevertheless sound, play at trick one. He permitted his opponent to hold the trick. He saw that, in order to avoid the risk of a spade finesse, it would be necessary to develop North's club suit. Since there was only one side entry to the dummy—the queen of hearts—it appeared that he would require a three-three break in clubs, which is distinctly against the percentages.

Conceding an apparently unnecessary trick in clubs has the effect of aiding development fo the suit in the event that one of the opponents holds a double stopper, as was actually the case. West shifted to a diamond at trick two. South was in with the ace and, after cashing two high trumps from his hand, he crossed over to the king of clubs. On the ace he threw a small spade, and then he ruffed a club dropping West's 10 and establishing the eight in dummy. A heart was led over to the queen, and declarer's queen of spades went on the eight of clubs.

United Over A Stove

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Brothers Bert and Robert Liscum lost track of each other after they attended their mother's funeral nine years ago in Charlottesville, Va.

Bert was in the Army, and Robert in the Air Force.

They now have been reunited. Bert has switched to the Air Force and both are cooks assigned to Davis-Monthan Air Force Base.

Seen Through A Mist

Sheriff's deputies answered her call and found the culprit — a six-foot cardboard figure erected by the city in its anti-litterburg campaign.

Circuit Judge C. W. Gerfusion was preparing to give instructions to the jury when defense attorney Walter Copley told him Vance wanted to change his plea.

Wilson, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, yesterday called on all chamber members and all Allegany County businessmen and women to support the "1963 Aircade for Citizenship Action" to be held at the Baltimore, Maryland Civic Center on February 7 and in Pittsburgh on February 8.

"The Aircade program will bring to Baltimore and Pittsburgh a top-flight panel of experts from the national Chamber to discuss vital legislative issues facing the 88th Congress now in session," Mr. Wilson said, adding:

"As businessmen and women and as Americans, we all have a responsibility to learn from these people about the proposed laws and their implications so we can advise our representatives in Congress."

Baltimore and Pittsburgh, where the "1963 Aircade" is expected to draw more than 2,000 each business and civic leaders from a five-state area, will be the fourth and fifth of 15 cities to be visited by the U. S. Chamber-sponsored panel of experts from the fields of urban affairs, education, agriculture, labor relations, banking and finance, taxation and health insurance.

Among those on the panel will be Eugene P. Conser, executive vice president, National Association of Real Estate Boards; K. Health Dept. Report Lists Future Goals

Short and long term goals of Allegany County Health Department were listed in a report of the department's activities for July 1 through December 31, 1962, submitted to the County Commissioners, by Dr. Arthur F. Jones, deputy state health officer.

The five goals set include work with the sanitarians to develop a food poisoning control program; establishment of mother's classes for maternity clinic patients; to maintain an affiliation with Memorial Hospital School of Nursing to enable student nurses to obtain experience in public health nursing; to conduct a dental clinic and to improve adult eye services.

The report outlined the organization of the department at the present time with an acting deputy state health officer, a county health officer, an administrative assistant, a senior public health nurse, 12 field nurses, a chief sanitarian, four sanitarians, three senior stenographers, one senior clerk, one intermediate clerk, two junior stenographers, one psychiatric social worker, one physiotherapist, 22 part time clinicians, (12 local, nine from Johns Hopkins, one from Crownsville State Hospital,) one part-time X-ray technician and one part-time psychologist.

Services offered to the county by the local health department include nursing care and health guidance to individuals and families in the home, school and clinic by the public health nurses, a planned parenthood program, adult foster care program, dental health, mental health; pre-school examinations, communicable disease immunization, medical care, sanitation programs; milk program, medical self-help program, restaurant program, air sampling for pollution, dental x-ray survey, water sampling and supplies for analysis.

The report also lists supporting groups who assist the Health Department such as lay health groups and health centers; Lions Club with its conservation of sight and hearing programs; Medical Society, Dental Society, Pharmaceutical Society, Board of Education, the courts and Crippled Children's Service.

Statistics for the six-month period covered by the report showed 4,920 attendance at clinics, this includes child health, maternity, hearing, seizure, tuberculosis, vision, pediatric consultation, multi-purpose, mental health, orthopedic and spastic clinics.

Immunizations totalled 4,752, including 741 injections of flu vaccine given to state, county and city employes.

Some 1,536 medical care interviews were conducted during the six months. Other interviews were 451 by psychiatric social workers, 58 for psychological testing, 571 for vital statistics. A total of 1,196 X-rays were taken and 514 treatments given by physiotherapist.

The sanitation department completed 315 percolations tests and inspected 237 septic tank installations. Water samples collected installed 1,009 and 1,204 milk samples were collected.

Other sanitarian activities included 32 ice cream samples collected, 101 food and drink establishments inspected, 16 swimming pool inspections, 88 school inspections, 16 dairy farm inspections and 249 sewage complaints.

Verdict Goes To Defendants

A verdict for the defendants was returned yesterday by a Garrett County Circuit Court petit jury which heard a civil suit involving a septic tank and drainage field in Bloomington.

The suit was brought by Robert Lewis and Ethel Virginia Larue of Bloomington against Charles Pattison and Bernard Guy, of Bloomington, trading as the P&G Construction Company and the P&G Supply Company.

Ten persons testified in the all-day trial and the jury considered the case for about an hour before reaching its verdict.

The plaintiffs claimed negligence on the part of the defendants in connection with the installation of a septic tank and drainage field near the dwelling they purchased from the firm in 1960.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport, was attorney for the defendants and Clarence Penman, of Barton, was counsel for the plaintiffs.

Associate Judge Stuart Hamill presided at the trial.

Car Causes Damage At Service Station

Frank Stahlman, operator of the service station, said a car driven by Donald Hansrote of Ellerslie was traveling north and went out of control on a slippery spot on the highway.

Mr. Stahlman said two of the pumps are back in operation. A section of the station was knocked out and the car was a total loss. Hansrote was reported to have sustained a few scratches in the accident.

Spot Bar Entered; Money Stolen

Allegany County authorities are investigating the breaking and entering and theft of about $50 in cash and some merchandise from the Spot Bar on Oldtown Road.

Deputy Sheriff Lewis Tyree is assisting William F. Baker, criminal investigator of the county, in probing the case.

The deputy said yesterday that a crowbar was used to force a side window of the establishment. Fingerprints were in evidence and taken at the scene by Baker.

The money was taken from a music box and another machine in the establishment, according to the deputy, who said a quantity of merchandise was taken.

Meeting Postponed

City Forwards Bid For Federal Aid On Project

Mayor Earl D. Chaney has forwarded to the Housing and Home Finance Agency an application for federal aid toward a sewer project here.

Estimated to cost $10,000, the project calls for the installation of a 10-inch sanitary sewer line on Golden Lane from Willowbrook Road north for about 1,050 feet.

In the application, Mayor Chaney said the city would boost its capital improvements budget enough to finance the city's half of the costs.

Power Plant Bill Killed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Machinery that would have set up the possible sale of Hagerstown's electric power plant came to a sudden halt Thursday.

The bill by Del. R. Noel Spence, R-Washington, was killed in the House Judiciary Committee.

Although Spence wanted only to pave the way for sale of the Hagerstown plant, he had to write the bill to apply to any municipally owned utility in the state because of the home rule law.

Del. Richard Grumbacher, D-Washington, informed the committee that the attorney general advised him state authority was unnecessary and that Hagerstown could take local action if it wanted to sell the plant.

Chairman Thomas H. Lowe, D-Talbot, then quickly said he was exempting Easton's plant from the bill and that made it unconstitutional. So an unfavorable report was adopted promptly.

Spence's bill would have required approval by a majority of voters before a city council could sell the plant.

Introduces Bill

Seeing-Eye Dogs would be referred to as dog guides under legislation sponsored by Del. Charles M. See of Allegany County. It was introduced as HB 162.

bid with prime contractors for sub-contract work on various missiles and other defense projects.

Stating that he is "optimistic" of the outcome of the conferences, Sen. Beall said he is convinced such a plan would permit ABL to maintain a more stable work force. He also said he is convinced any cutback will be only of a temporary nature.

Others who have been in contact with federal officials on the local situation are Govs. Tawes and Barron of Maryland and West Virginia, respectively, and Maryland Attorney General Thomas B. Finan.

Step To End Isolation Of Area Taken By ARA

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $13,000 study to determine transportation needs in eight states of the Appalachian region was announced Thursday by the Area Redevelopment Administration.

The study is in response to a request from the Conference of Appalachian Governors. The conference contends that inaccessibility is a primary obstacle to economic growth in the region.

The study will involve portions of Alabama, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Among the subjects to be studied will be the advisability of new highway routes, feeder roads, highway improvements, and the aspects of public investment in roads combined with expected private and public investment in other forms of transportation.

An ARA spokesman said a contract for conducting the study will be awarded later.

In Annapolis, Gov. Tawes said the approval of the study represents the first major stride to end the isolation of the area.

"I am delighted to learn that the federal government has given recognition to one of the major problems we have considered in our effort to resolve the persistent economic distress of the Applachian region, including Maryland's three westernmost counties.

"As I said in my address to the Appalachian Conference in Cumberland last August, steps should be taken to end the isolation of the area.

"In my judgement, the approval of this application represents a first major stride in this direction," said Tawes.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter from the woman who yelled bloody murder because her husband leaned on the wallpaper and left grease spots was the last straw. Are the females in America having a mass nervous breakdown? It's no wonder the divorce rate is going through the roof.

A wife in Philadelphia can't stand her husband because he squeezes the toothpaste tube in the middle. A woman in California doesn't want to iron bedsheets. A loon in Kentucky won't let her husband smoke a cigar in the house. Another crazy dame wants to strap a bicycle horn on her husband's head at night so it will wake him up when he snores. Still another nut wants to know what to wear to her husband's funeral—and he isn't even dead yet.

I'm convinced that the real trouble-makers in this world are the wacky women. All a person has to do is read your column for a week and he can get plenty of evidence.—R.D.

DEAR R.D.: Men have been complaining about women from the beginning of time and they continue to marry them. If you can think of a better combination I'll buy it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my husband and I are with adults he speaks openly about how much things cost and is not the least bit reluctant to admit we can't afford certain things. I feel this is perfectly all right as most of our friends are in the same boat and we share similar economic problems.

I believe, however, that my husband should not make our children feel underprivileged by telling them we can't afford to buy them things which their friends have. Isn't it better to try to interest them in substitute toys? Or perhaps get them two inexpensive items in the place of one which is costly?

I keep telling him they will find out soon enough that life is cruel and full of inequities. Youngsters should not carry this burden. Am I right?—FRANCINE

DEAR FRANCINE: You're wrong. Where did you ever get the notion that it's harmful for children to hear the words "No, we can't afford it." If more people used this phrase instead of hocking their eyeballs to please their kids, they'd be better off. Parents who spend time with their children and give them love and attention needn't be concerned about the youngsters feeling "underprivileged." Theirs are the lucky ones who grow up straight and strong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school senior who wants to ask a question that has been bugging me. Why do teens who were going steady write after they break up and ask how to get back into circulation?

In our high school, and it's a pretty big one, everyone knows within the hour who the breakups are. The news spreads like a forest fire and both kids are automatically back in circulation. So what's the problem?—DEEDEE

DEAR DEEDEE: I don't know what goes on in your school, Buttercup, but most teenagers who write after the Big Breakup do want to know how to get back into circulation. These kids long to be part of the group, which they have ignored, and they don't know how to manage it. So they write to Mother Landers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BELOW ZERO: Six months is a long time for a girl to use a cold as an excuse for no goodnight kiss. Considering you are both in your middle 20s I suggest you look for a girl who is in better health.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: There seems to be a good deal of divided opinion on the meaning of dreams. Some people say dreams have no significance—that they are jumbled, unrelated thoughts which flash through a person's mind for no explainable reason. Others say dreams are the key to our innermost desires—desires we won't even admit to ourselves.

My husband is a great dreamer. He is also a pretty good talker—along with the dreams. I'd like to know whether a person dreams about things which have already happened. If this is true the old buzzard has plenty of explaining to do. On second thought, I can't figure out when he would find the time or energy for all the high-jinks. Please set me straight, Ann. I'd hate to blow my top for no good reason.

—THE OLD GREY MARE

Dear Mare: People do dream about things which have happened. And then again, some people dream about things they WISH would happen. I don't know if this will help you feel better or worse.

All dreams have some significance, but figuring out the real meaning of dreams requires a trained specialist.

Dear Ann Landers: Aren't teenagers difficult enough to handle without you getting into the act and taking their side against their parents?

The other day my 16-year-old daughter cut out your column and waved it under my nose saying, "See, Ann Landers says teenagers should have privacy."

I refer to the severe criticism you gave the mother who opened her daughter's mail and read the girl's diary.

Don't you realize that parents are responsible for their children so long as the children live under their roof? We have a right to know where they are, with whom, who else will be there and when they will be home.

My daughter thinks complete privacy means answering to no one. Will you clarify this in your column? —CONSTANT READER

Dear Reader: I have clarified this in my column—times without number. Where have you been? There's a world of difference between reading a teenager's mail and snooping in his diary and knowing where he is at all times, with whom, and when he will be at home.

Mail and diaries are personal and private information. A teenager's activities are not personal and private information. These are matters of vital concern to his parents. No teenager should be free to roam around without accounting for his whereabouts.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by the letter from the mother who was concerned because her son was nick-named "Runt." She was worried that it might interfere with his chances for a dignified legal career. You told her not to worry—that a guy nick-named "Whizzer" did all right.

Frankly, I think the mother must be off her rocker. An unusual nick-name can be a tremendous asset. It sticks in people's minds. A politician in Southern Illinois was recently re-elected. His name appeared on the ballot as follows: "Runt" Bishop.

Thought you'd like to know.

—HARRY A.

DEAR HARRY: Thanks for the clue - in. And congratulations, Runt.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PISTOL PACKIN' MAMA: This is about as funny as a fire in an Old Folks Home. If this woman is carrying a gun without a permit she should be turned in.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request ten cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead: Jack of ♣ South, in today's hand, delivered a neat performance in both the bidding and the play.

The opening two heart bid is well chosen, for South would hardly wish to play for less than game. North's decision to fix the trump suit by raising hearts directly is worthy of note. There will be time enough to show the other features of his holding, and it is good psychology to apprise partner at once of the fact that the trumps appear to be solid.

South's three spade call is of course, a cue bid designating the ace. North observed a similar procedure when he mentioned the clubs, whereupon South showed the ace of diamonds. North's repeat of the club suit is intended to show second round control, in other words the king. South's next bid was well chosen. If his partner happened to have either the king of spades or a singleton, in addition to the values already shown, then the partnership could contemplate a grand slam. In an effort to give North an opportunity to show second round control of spades, South rebid five diamonds. It was perfectly safe to make this call, for North could hardly pass, with hearts as the agreed trump suit. When the latter merely returned to five hearts, South settled for the small slam.

West led the jack of clubs and declarer made a somewhat unusual, but nevertheless sound, play at trick one. He permitted his opponent to hold the trick. He saw that, in order to avoid the risk of a spade finesse, it would be necessary to develop North's club suit. Since there was only one side entry to the dummy—the queen of hearts—it appeared that he would require a three-three break in clubs, which is distinctly against the percentages.

Conceding an apparently unnecessary trick in clubs has the effect of aiding development fo the suit in the event that one of the opponents holds a double stopper, as was actually the case. West shifted to a diamond at trick two. South was in with the ace and, after cashing two high trumps from his hand, he crossed over to the king of clubs, On the ace he threw a small spade, and then he ruffed a club dropping West's 10 and establishing the eight in dummy. A heart was led over to the queen, and declarer's queen of spades went on the eight of clubs.

Deficit To Top All Deficits

That much is evident from the reaction in Congress and around the country to his legislative plans. With or without the tax cuts, it's a deficit budget. It could turn into a deficit to end all deficits — or at least to overshadow them.

As Treasury Secretary Dillon has pointed out, the government will run $9.4 billion in the red next year even if the tax reduction plan is left on the shelf in Congress. So the choice is between a deficit and a big deficit. Or a big deficit and a great big deficit.

Mr. Kennedy proposes to spend substantially more on national defense and space programs. Increases are also in category after category of domestic spending. And some of the recommendations which pass for decreases would come about largely through disposal of government assets.

Congress will do no violence to the President's stated objective—a healthy and faster-growing American economy — if it pares off some of the fat which Mr. Kennedy and his budget advisers appear to have overlooked. Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee has set his sights on trimming $12 billion from the budget.

Is this really the irreducible minimum? Congress should be able to do better than that.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

An Arm Of The State

The pressure on Congress to "do something" about strikes and lockouts is building up, and the danger is that an unholy trade will be made, with the big union chiefs yielding to some form of compulsory arbitration in exchange for the union shop. This would give the union chiefs security for themselves by delivering the working men to them without their having to lift a finger to persuade anybody in the rank and file.

Since, according to the well-known law of the conservation of energy, nobody likes to expend any effort that can be avoided, I suspect that the big union bosses would cheerfully accept a limitation on the right to strike if, in so doing, they would be eliminating all the difficult problems of organization.

Much is being made at the moment about the discomforts that are caused by labor strife. Newspaper readers, deprived of the metropolitan press in New York City and in Cleveland, Ohio have had to get their news via out-of-town papers or radio. The East Coast longshoremen's strike has caused a hitch in the flow of many things, from bananas to imported Volkswagens. People have had to walk to work in Philadelphia. But these are mere inconveniences; they deprive nobody of basic liberties for the long pull.

The real menace of the union movement is its drive to compulsion on the human being. The notion that men must be forced into unions as a condition of employment is deeply ingrained in the fundamental philosophy of big union chiefs; they have come to regard the big union as a sort of substitute for the political state.

This assumption is immediately apparent in all their actions. James Carey, head of the International Union of Electrical Workers, is girding to wring the union shop out of Westinghouse and General Electric. On the Pacific Coast the leaders of the aerospace unions are trying to connive with the federal government to force the union shop on their own reluctant followers. But the real temper of the union leaders comes out even more strongly in their words.

For example, there is the record of an old exchange between Senator Barry Goldwater and Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Automobile Workers. When Goldwater asked Reuther, "What about the man who just does not want to belong to a union?" the labor chief replied: "Well, if a fellow works in a General Motors plant and does not want to belong to a union, he does not have to work there."

"But suppose he wants to work there?" Goldwater insisted. Whereupon Mr. Reuther let his Statist preconceptions come to the surface. "If you want to live in a certain community," he said, "and you want the benefits of the work of that community, you have to pay taxes in that community. You do not have to live in that community. That is the freedom of choice."

Thus the cat emerges from the bag: Mr. Reuther considers union dues, levied compulsorily on every employee in an automobile plant, to be the equivalent of taxes. They are not a voluntary contribution freely agreed upon by union members who hope to get their quid pro quo in higher wages in exchange for relinquishing a part of their weekly pay checks.

When a union boss starts thinking about union dues as taxes that must be paid to his organization willy-nilly, it is easy to see how the Statist frame of mind gets extended to other things. States not only have the power to levy taxes, they also have a monopoly of police and military force in the territory subject to their jurisdiction. The union boss who is granted the power to tax his followers will hardly boggle about raising an army or a squad of cops to defend his realm. Thus the practice of employing goons to whip recalcitrants into line is just a step away from the imposition of compulsory taxes.

No doubt Reuther, who is a nice enough fellow in his personal relationships, fails to realize the full implications of his dues-equal-taxes philosophy. But if Reuther and his kind succeed in foisting compulsory unionization on the country as a general condition of employment, they will create an administrative monster which, in the hands of a less scrupulous generation of labor leaders, could mean slavery for practically everybody.

'Think I'll Open The Inspection Door A Little'

Will Next UN Expedition Liberate Hungary?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Now that the United Nations has subdued the warring factions in the Congo and exerted its arbitrary power over a supposedly sovereign state, will its next expedition be sent to liberate Hungary?

This question is being asked hereabouts because the U.N. has lately assumed the role of a supergovernment and deems it to be its mission in the world to bring about — by armed force, if necessary — the settlement of any internal controversy that could conceivably have outside repercussions.

One spokesman for the United Nations secretariat sent a letter the other day to various newspapers to answer critics who had complained that the U.N. was "setting a dangerous precedent" by interfering in a civil war — a purely internal matter — in the Congo. The letter said:

"To start with, outside interference, actual and potential, was so heavy that this was hardly a civil war when the U.N. became involved. More fundamentally, however, I think we must consider the consequences of the thermonuclear era in which we live.

"It is no longer possible for one or another great power to impose world peace as did the Roman and British Empires. No one power can undertake such a task without risking war and a thermonuclear war will have no victors —only vanquished.

"Yet, occasionally, order still breaks down, chaos occurs, some vacuum is created, inviting outside interference and becoming thus the fuse that could explode our earth. Mankind, therefore, has seen itself obliged to seek some new means of preserving international law and order. We cannot stop seeking or experimenting."

But not so long ago two big powers — the United States and the Soviet Union — stood poised against one another in the Cuban situation. The United Nations was in session and presumably had the same concern then about a thermonuclear war. But the U.N. didn't even discuss the possible mobilization of an armed force of several member natoins to go into Cuba and remove the Soviet missiles or later on to inspect the bases to see if all the nuclear weapons had been withdrawn.

Surely this was not an internal matter at all, but an international affair and clearly a basis for action as provided in the charter of the U.N.

Logically, the United Nations now has set a precedent in the Congo which could readily be applied to Hungary and the other satellite states. The argument, for instance, is being made by U.N. spokesmen that "genocide" was taking place in the Congo and caused the U. N. to intervene. But the same type of crime was noted at the time of the Hungarian revolution in 1956, when innocent men, women and children were killed.

The U.N. tried to send a team of investigators to that ill-fated country but was refused permission by the Soviet - controlled regime. Plenty of resolutions demanding that the investigating body be permitted to enter the country have since been passed by the U. N. General Assembly, but to no avail. Just a few weeks ago the U. N. surrendered. It gave up any idea of compelling the Soviets to let the U. N. even take a look. For all practical purposes, the U. N. forsook Hungary and the other captive countries.

It will be said that the U. N. cannot act unless the Security Council agrees, as it did in connection with the Congo dispute, and that the Soviets would use their veto in the council to thwart any action. But the U.N. managed to act in Korea when the Soviets were temporarily absent. Maybe they'll be away again sometime! The General Assembly, however, isn't subject to any veto and can at any time authorize collective action under Article 51, irrespective of Soviet objections.

The record to date shows that the U. N. has been cravenly abandoning the captive countries of Europe and leaving them subjugated by the Soviet oppressors. The United States government, under this and the preceding administration, has favored U. N. intervention in the Congo, but no pressure has been put on the U. N. to act in Eastern Europe. President Kennedy, in his formal statement after the surrender of Tshombe's forces in Katanga, said:

"The United States objective in the Congo is neither more nor less than the establishment of conditions under which the Congolese people themselves can peacefully work out their own future. This was impossible as long as the territorial integrity of the nation was challenged by secessions, with consequent political instability and a standing invitation to intervention by the great powers."

The same thing can, however, be said about Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. All the peoples of these countries want to "work out their own future." Yet the "territorial integrity" of these nations continues to be violated by Soviet troops which occupy and control every one of them by force.

Here is a task for a courageous U. N., since obviously no one or two powers can do the job. It certainly is a field in which the U. N. ought not to "stop seeking or experimenting." For, otherwise, it will be said that the U. N. likes to operate as a supergovernment over the weak and the helpless countries like the Congo, but turns a cold shoulder toward Cuba and the other states now controlled by the Soviet Union.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ESPANOL—The late Sen. Dennis Chavez, D-N. M., was as proud of his Spanish background as the grandest of the grandees. He was the U. S. Senate's outstanding link with the Spanish-speaking countries and peoples of the world.

Chavez worked for many years to advance the cause of Spanish-speaking U. S. citizens, and one of his constant laments was that there were few men in public life in Washington he could converse with in Spanish.

It is no wonder, then, that Chavez had a warm spot in his heart for a fellow senator, a Republican, Thomas H. Kuchel, of California.

Shortly before his death, Chavez wrote Kuchel a letter which he now treasures and shows to friends. "I want to congratulate you and send you my best wishes for your candidacy for the third time as U. S. senator from California," Chavez wrote. The New Mexican did not live to see Kuchel elected by a heavy majority that has projected him into political prominence as a possible GOP vice presidential candidate in 1964.

But what Kuchel likes most about the letter was that it was written in Spanish. And the reason for this is that Kuchel was one of the very few senators who could carry on a conversation in Spanish with Chavez.

Oklahoma Psychiatrists Research In A Big Way

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Oklahoma psychiatrists do things in a big way, when it comes to research. They bypassed the usual laboratory animals and selected Tusko, a male Asiatic elephant from the Lincoln park zoo in Oklahoma City. The scientists had good reasons for making the selection, even though the experiment backfired.

The male elephant is unique in that he goes berserk once or twice a year. The period of madness (musth) lasts two weeks and is of particular interest to psychiatrists. The bull becomes dangerous when on musth, which is the chief reason why there are so few male elephants in captivity. They are likely to attack or destroy anything in their path when on the rampage.

But there is one pecularity about this elephantine madness. The animal's eyes begin to water, and a brown sticky fluid oozes from the temporal glands, located midway between the eyes and the ears. What is this fluid and does it have anything to do with his behavior?

The question makes sense because of the ability of certain chemicals to produce temporary insanity in animals and man. Lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) is the drug used most frequently for experimental purposes.

The story of this research project, which appeared in Science, was written by Dr. Louis J. West and Dr. Chester M. Pierce, of the Oklahoma school of medicine, and Warren D. Thomas of the zoo. They wanted to find out whether they could duplicate musth in Tusko, including the discharge from the temporal glands.

A dose of LSD, comparable to that used in humans, was administered via a cartridge syringe. The old boy began to sway, trumpeted, collapsed, and went into convulsions. He died in an hour and 40 minutes.

An autopsy was done and there was no dark fluid in the ducts of the temporal glands. Studies showed that the gland also produces an internal secretion that might contribute to the male animal's madness.

But there is another side to the experiment that should be mentioned. LSD is being used by irresponsible persons to produce temporary illusions and vivid visual hallucinations. If it will kill an elephant, it might kill these blockheads.

EXCESS SALT

J. F. writes: What are the consequences of using too much salt?

REPLY

The excess is excreted by the kidneys in the normal individual. On the other hand, high blood pressure and dropsy are aggrevated by too much salt. This is why a low sodium diet is recommended in these disorders.

NEVER TOO OLD

Mrs. F. writes: My husband says I'm too old to take the tablets against polio and that besides, they would make me sick and do no good. Is this true for a 52 year old?

REPLY

No. Reactions to this vaccine are rare and it should be taken by everyone, regardless of age.

NERVE CANCER

M. M. writes: Can cancer affect a nerve?

REPLY

Yes, but it is not a common type of tumor.

DAMP WEATHER HEADACHE

REPLY

Aching in the back part of the head may represent referred pain from an arthritic condition in the spine. If discomfort is located elsewhere, investigate the sinuses and nasal passageways.

ANGINA AND REST

H. M. writes: Should a person with angina rest more?

REPLY

This is a good idea, especially if chest pain follows exertion. This does not mean, however, the individual should become an invalid.

TOMORROW: Letters from readers.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A husband who was not exactly masterly when his wife was around came home at about 4:00 a. m. one time to receive the tongue-lashing he expected. "Fine hour to sneak in," shrilled his wife. "I suppose you're going to give me that old routine about being out somewhere holding a sick friend's hand."

"My dear," said the husband sadly, "if I had been holding his hand, we'd be considerably wealthier today."

At the Hillcrest Country Club in Beverly Hills, the afternoon bridge games are taken very seriously. George Burns tells of one hand where he and his partner bid seven spades, vulnerable. One of their opponents had recently recovered from a heart attack. After some deliberation, he took out a nitroglycerin tablet, placed it under his tongue, looked at his cards again, and said with a deep sigh, "I double."

In Miami Beach, Hotel Impresario Ben Novack asked an 8-year-old visitor whether he planned to swim in the pool or the ocean. "The pool," said the boy firmly. "The ocean's too tall for me."

Sen. McCarthy's Chief Inquisitor Now Under Investigation Himself

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Bored, baleful Roy Cohn, the late Sen. Joe McCarthy's chief inquisitor, is now finding out what it's like to be on the receiving end of an investigation. During the height of McCarthy's investigations, it was Cohn who harassed and heckled sometimes helpless witnesses, took a junket to Europe where he burned books snatched from U. S. government libraries, and ordered U. S. diplomats around as if they were office boys.

Today, Cohn's own multi-corporate manipulations are being scrutinized by no less than Attorney Robert F. Kennedy, who, at one time, also served as counsel for Joe McCarthy. Kennedy, however, got fed up with McCarthy's tactics and went on to other things.

Cohn, after the censure of the Senator from Wisconsin, also went on to other things, moved to the Big Town where he has made a name for himself as a financial tycoon, toy train king, and boxing promoter. He has also become addicted to monogrammed shirts, silk suits, and chauffeur-driven Cadillacs.

He is known on Wall Street as the "baleful boy with cheek," whose enterprises range from mail-order vacations to swimming pools. He has usually made money for himself, sometimes lost money for his stockholders.

It was his boxing promotions that first started the Justice Department digging into his activities.

Pitiful Profits

In 1960, Cohn bought out Feature Sports, Inc., which held the rights to the return match between Heavyweight Champ Ingemar Johansson and challenger Floyd Patterson.

Cohn's first experience as a fight promoter produced such a scramble at the box office that 18,000 fans happily crashed the gates. This still left 50,000 who paid for their seats and rang up $1,315,364 on the cash register.

A mere $181,241 of this, however, was reported as profit before taxes. The subsequent match between Johansson and Patterson in Miami produced even less profit—a pitiful $9,608.

Cohn explained sorrowfully that legal fees, travel expenses, and salaries had eaten up all the gain.

It later turned out that $76,250 in legal fees had gone to Cohn's law firm, $82,440 had been paid to a travel agency owned by Cohn's co-promoter, W. D. Fugazy, and $107,200 in salaries had been drawn, chiefly by Cohn and Fugazy.

Internal Revenue also discovered that Feature Sports hadn't bothered to file tax returns for 1959, 1960, or 1961. Much of this was before Cohn took over. But not until T-men started checking did the company finally file delinquent returns for all three years on Feb. 15, 1962.

On top of this, the agents found that Feature Sports had violated a written agreement with Internal Revenue not to send money out of the country until the taxes had been deducted.

However, the company shipped $250,000 to a Swiss bank as an advance on Johannson's purse, $100,000 of which was after the written agreement was signed.

Mystifying Multiplicity

Agents heard, too, that either Cohn's company or those working for it had sold complimentary press tickets for $50 each without paying the excise tax.

As Feature Sports became entangled in lawsuits and federal probes, Cohn simply discarded it like an old coat and formed a new company to promote his championship fights.

In March, 1961, he organized Championship Sports, Inc., as a Delaware corporation. Three months later, he set up a separate company by the same name in Massachusetts.

It isn't clear whether Championship Sports of Delaware or Championship Sports of Massachusetts promoted the next championship bout between Patterson and challenger Tom McNeeley in Toronto the following December. But it was the Delaware corporation which asked the Treasury for a time extension to file its tax returns, then went out of business in August, 1962, without paying any taxes at all.

Meanwhile, two more corporations called Championship Sports, Inc., materialized in New York and Illinois. This made a total of four participating in the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston promotion last fall.

Internal Revenue also learned that Cohn had a hand in the Nevada corporation which had received the television-radio-newsreel rights to the Patterson-Liston fight.

Not knowing which of the multiple corporations would end up with the bag, Internal Revenue moved in on all of them and seized the receipts. This time Uncle Sam made sure he got his share first.

This is just a small chapter in the mystifying multiplicity of financial operations which the Treasury is trying to unravel in the affairs of bored, baleful Roy Cohn. More will be reported later.

Angry $1,000 Democrats

A good many Democrats who plunked down one thousand hard-earned simoleons at the exclusive fund-raising dinner last week vow they will never do it again.

It wasn't just the expenditure of $1,000 for a $10 meal that hurt their feelings. It was the fact that they got no status.

At the last minute, some anonymous manager in command of the dinner decided there were to be no place cards. Guests could sit wherever they chose. There was to be undiluted democracy.

This was something of a blow to out-of-town Democrats. Nor was it welcomed by local Democrats. Most of those who spent $1,000 were looking for status. Where they sat at dinner mattered a lot. So when it was announced that all could sit where they pleased, the guests stood, awkward and embarrassed, looking desperately for the right people.

The more they looked, the madder they got. Some finally found seatmates with status. Others kept seat-shopping so long that the dinner was delayed 45 minutes. And a few wouldn't sit down at all.

Said one irate Democrat as he stomped out: "You can take your ——— —— dinner and you know what you can do with it. You won't catch me here again!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Irvington, New Jersey is a crowded town. I was driving through it, thinking: "I know a man from this place. Quite a man." His name is Irving Cowan, and he is only 30, but he is one of the most successful business men I know. We don't meet often, these days. He's in Florida. I'm north.

Cowan is a smiler. He has jet hair in deep waves and a movie star face. He likes to dress and he has a persuasive voice. He was born on Paine Avenue, son of a Jewish meat packer. The father made a good living until the black market began to flourish in World War II. Then he quit the business and took his brood to Florida.

The father had some money, and he liked to say that he had retired, but he was lying to himself. In north Florida, he went back into the business of bidding for animals on the hoof and selling them in side to New York wholesalers.

The oldest son, Herman, studied medicine and became an internist. A daughter, Frances, married. Irving—the one who is my friend —might have become a good lawyer, or perhaps an engineer. His natural talent was business. Just plain business. As a college kid, he was the sort of nut who liked to work on the side: beach boy, bus boy, bag boy in a grocery store. He dug ditches for a dollar an hour.

Irving left the University of Miami in the Korean crisis and enlisted. When he got out, his father said: "I bought a slaughter house in Bartow, Florida. Will you manage it for me?" Irving said sure. The kid never doubted that he could do a good job. He attended cattle auctions and bought $75,000 in live meat per week.

The business earned money. It also grew in size. But father had no notion of spoiling his son. Irving got $75 a week and a $15 allowance for the use of his car. He was 23, when his dad sold the business and retired again.

The boy was out of work. He found a man in the hide business who sold lots of hides for leather, and was going broke doing it. Cowan studied the business a little, offered the man more money for the hides, and resold them at a higher price. In his first deal, Irving made $5,000.

He remained around Bartow until he had $15,000. Then he began to miss girls, and bright lights, and Miami Beach. He took the money home and rented a cabana at the Fontainebleu. Girls. He was introduced to several, but he liked a pretty brunette named Margie Friedland and began to date her.

Miss Friedland was serious. A few months of dates convinced Cowan that he wanted to marry her. The wedding occurred at Christmastime 1956. There was only one weakness: she was the daughter of Sam Friedland. Mr. Friedland is chairman of the board of Food Fair—500 big stores. He was a man who started in the meat business in Bayonne, N. J., at $18 a week.

Irving didn't want to be the boy who married the millionaire's daughter. So, to be independent, he went into the fat rendering business with his father. Sam, however, is a logician. He said that if Irving was such a smart businessman, why not start work behind a butcher's block in a Food Fair store? Well, why not?

Cowan accepted the challenge. He cut chops and loins of pork and ground beef. He got $80 a week. His father-in-law was building a huge hotel called The Diplomat in Hollywood, Florida. Irving wasn't interested. He cut meat until he worked his way up to meat merchandizer.

Sam was immersed in the hotel business. He built the Shelburne in Miami Beach and bought the Monte Carlo. He put $20,000,000 of his own money into the Diplomat, with three golf ourses, swimming pools, 700 rooms and 60,000 guests a year.

Irving had worked himself up to $15,000 a year at Food Fair when Sam asked him to take over management of the Diplomat. A topflight hotel man, Eugene Suits, broke Cowan in. The young man didn't know room service from curb service. Cowan learned so fast that Suits said: "I came here to teach you the hotel business; instead, you're teaching it to me."

Today, Cowan is managing director. He's 30. Last year, the Diplomat did $5,000,000 in business. This year, it's $6,000,000. His salary is $42,000 a year and is going up. His father-in-law never tells him he's doing a good job. "Irving," he says, "is the only one I can talk the meat business with."

Driving through Irvington, I thought of these things. I like a young man who wants to make good on his own. This is the man.

Other sanitarian activities included 32 ice cream samples collected, 101 food and drink establishments inspected, 16 swimming pool inspections, 88 school inspections, 16 dairy farm inspections and 249 sewage complaints.

Verdict Goes To Defendants

A verdict for the defendants was returned yesterday by a Garrett County Circuit Court petit jury which heard a civil suit involving a septic tank and drainage field in Bloomington.

The suit was brought by Robert Lewis and Ethel Virginia Larue of Bloomington against Charles Pattison and Bernard Guy, of Bloomington, trading as the P&G Construction Company and the P&G Supply Company.

Ten persons testified in the all-day trial and the jury considered the case for about an hour before reaching its verdict.

The plaintiffs claimed negligence on the part of the defendants in connection with the installation of a septic tank and drainage field near the dwelling they purchased from the firm in 1960.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport, was attorney for the defendants and Clarence Penman, of Barton, was counsel for the plaintiffs.

Associate Judge Stuart Hamill presided at the trial.

Car Causes Damage At Service Station

Three gasoline pumps were knocked down, island lights and an oil rack damaged when an auto went out of control on Pennsylvania Route 96 at Stahlman's Service Station on the outskirts of Ellerslie.

Frank Stahlman, operator of the service station, said a car driven by Donald Hansrote of Ellerslie was traveling north and went out of control on a slippery spot on the highway.

Mr. Stahlman said two of the pumps are back in operation. A section of the station was knocked out and the car was a total loss. Hansrote was reported to have sustained a few scratches in the accident.

Spot Bar Entered; Money Stolen

Allegany County authorities are investigating the breaking and entering and theft of about $50 in cash and some merchandise from the Spot Bar on Oldtown Road.

Deputy Sheriff Lewis Tyree is assisting William F. Baker, criminal investigator of the county, in probing the case.

The deputy said yesterday that a crowbar was used to force a side window of the establishment. Fingerprints were in evidence and taken at the scene by Baker.

The money was taken from a music box and another machine in the establishment, according to the deputy, who said a quantity of merchandise was taken.

Meeting Postponed

City Forwards Bid For Federal Aid On Project

Mayor Earl D. Chaney has forwarded to the Housing and Home Finance Agency an application for federal aid toward a sewer project here.

Matching federal funds were asked under the Accelerated Public Works program for the Golden Lane sewer project.

Estimated to cost $10,000, the project calls for the installation of a 10-inch sanitary sewer line on Golden Lane from Willowbrook Road north for about 1,050 feet.

In the application, Mayor Chaney said the city would boost its capital improvements budget enough to finance the city's half of the costs.

Power Plant Bill Killed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Machinery that would have set up the possible sale of Hagerstown's electric power plant came to a sudden halt Thursday.

Although Spence wanted only to pave the way for sale of the Hagerstown plant, he had to write the bill to apply to any municipally owned utility in the state because of the home rule law.

Del. Richard Grumbacher, D-Washington, informed the committee that the attorney general advised him state authority was unnecessary and that Hagerstown could take local action if it wanted to sell the plant.

Chairman Thomas H. Lowe, D-Talbot, then quickly said he was exempting Easton's plant from the bill and that made it unconstitutional. So an unfavorable report was adopted promptly.

Spence's bill would have required approval by a majority of voters before a city council could sell the plant.

Step To End Isolation Of Area Taken By ARA

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $13,000 study to determine transportation needs in eight states of the Appalachian region was announced Thursday by the Area Redevelopment Administration.

The study is in response to a request from the Conference of Appalachian Governors. The conference contends that inaccessibility is a primary obstacle to economic growth in the region.

The study will involve portions of Alabama, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Among the subjects to be studied will be the advisability of new highway routes, feeder roads, highway improvements, and the aspects of public investment in roads combined with expected private and public investment in other forms of transportation.

An ARA spokesman said a contract for conducting the study will be awarded later.

In Annapolis, Gov. Tawes said the approval of the study represents the first major stride to end the isolation of the area.

"I am delighted to learn that the federal government has given recognition to one of the major problems we have considered in our effort to resolve the persistent economic distress of the Applachian region, including Maryland's three westernmost counties.

"As I said in my address to the Appalachian Conference in Cumberland last August, steps should be taken to end the isolation of the area.

"In my judgement, the approval of this application represents a first major stride in this direction," said Tawes.

Mineral Farmers May Participate In Conservation

KEYSER — Farmers who are interested in establishing soil and water conservation practices on their farms under the 1963 Agriculture Conservation Program should file their requests as soon as possible, suggests John S. Arnold, Jr., chairman, Mineral County ASC Committee.

Requests to participate in the program must be filed at the County ASCS Office in City Building, Davis St., and the conservation practice approved before work is begun. Final deadline for the initial sign-up under the program is Monday, February 11th, Mr. Arnold points out.

Under the 1963 program, farmers may get help averaging about one-half the cost of carrying out such conservation practices as establishing and improving vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, installing erosion control structures and practices for the conservation or more efficient use of water. In addition, the 1963 program also provides for similar cost-sharing assistance to farmers in developing soil and water conservation practices beneficial to wildlife.

Barron, informed of the new appointment by Washington Gov. Albert D. Rosellini, conference chairman, has served for the last two years as a member of the committee on civil defense and post-attack recovery.

Junior License Bill Is Backed In Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Bills affecting teenage drivers and first graders were recommended for passage Thursday by two House committees.

Education Chairman W. R. Wilson, D-Marion, reported out a bill which would keep five-year-olds out of first grade unless they reach their sixth birthday by Nov. 1 of the same school year.

Reported out by Road Chairman Harry R. Pauley, D-McDowell, was a bill to raise the minimum driving age from 16 to 18 and allow 16-year-olds to obtain "junior licenses."

Pauley's committee also recommended adoption of measures to:

—Have license plates displayed only on the rear of an automobile.

—Direct the State Road Commission to provide rock and rock crushers in each of its 10 districts.

—Allow welfare workers to use surplus equipment of the State Road Commission.

—Study the parking problem at the statehouse.

Commissioners Report Breakdown On 1963 Tax Levy For Garrett County

OAKLAND—Estimated amounts to be collected and spent to provide Garrett County with services and facilities necessary, reasonable and expected on a sound financial basis for 1963 were reported Wednesday by the county commissioners.

In 1962 the tax rate for general county purposes was $2.30 with an additional five cents for volunteer fire departments, making a total tax rate of $2.35. This year the rate for general county purposes was raised to $2.55, making a total tax rate of $2.60 per $100 of assessment.

Last year the assessable basis for the county was $42,839,156, and it was calculated that taxes totaling $951,300.58 would be collected. Other estimated revenues upon which the levy was based, calculated to be $340,827.70 of which $41,327.70 was cash on hand, made a total levey of $1,292,128.28, for general county purposes.

For 1963 the assessable basis has been given as $44,473,566.00, and it is calculated that taxes totaling $1,088,075.93 will be collected. Other estimated revenues are calculated at $328,985.16, of which $34,135.16 is cash on hand, making a total for general county purposes of $1,417,061.09. This represents an increase in total revenues of $124,932.81.

Several Items Lower

In addition to certain increased expenditures, there are several income items which are known or estimated to be lower in 1963 than in 1962. Last year the natural gas fund provided $24,181.23 toward the expense of operating Garrett County Memorial Hospital. For 1963, there are no funds for this purpose from this source. There is $49,141.00 in the natural gas fund, but the law provides that the first $50,000 each year will be used to retire school bonds so the entire amount is so applied for 1963.

On the basis of receipts for 1962, it was necessary to reduce the estimated returns from income tax by $2,000, beer tax by $2,000, cigaret tax by $3,000, beer licenses by $1,000, Class B licenses by $2,000 and miscellaneous income by $2,000.

There are two items of income which, on the same basis, are estimated to be increased over 1962: State Forestry Department, $1,500 and bank stock, $5,200. This leaves a net decrease in estimated revenues from sources other than real estate and property taxes of approximately $35,700.

In several instances, expenditures for 1963 are known or estimated to be substantially larger than 1962. Judicial expenses, including the Circuit Court, trial magistrates and state's Attorney, will increase $3,020; auditing and accounting, $1,450, and retired teachers' pensions, $1,200. The contingent fund was increased by $1,715.33.

Road Expense Up

The amount levied for borrowed money and interest is $500 more than 1962. This represents repayment of part of the money borrowed by the county and advanced to the Garrett County Development Corporation which made loans of $30,000 and $20,000 to Oakland Knitting Mills, Inc., and a grant of $29,750 to the flood wall project at Kitzmiller. A total of $30,000 of these loans was repaid by the county in 1962 (although the county has not been repaid) and the amount levied for 1963 will be applied toward a further reduction of the outstanding debt. The loans to Oakland Knitting Mills, Inc., were secured by chattel mortgages, but the grant to the Kitzmiller project is not repayable to the county.

The largest increase is for the roadway operating expense for the Garrett County Roads Department. For the last nine years, the department has been operating partly on funds borrowed from the State Roads Commission against future gasoline taxes to become payable to the county. The amount now owed on these loans is over $1,400,000. In order to avoid further borrowing and place the department on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, it was necessary to reduce the total budget for the department as well as increase the amount of the levy. In order to meet commitments already made and to provide proper road maintenance, repairs and snow removal, it was necessary to add $89,410.29. While further loans could have been obtained under the 12-year program of approximately $200,000 per year, this would increase the total debt and reduce the amount the county would receive in the future.

The levy for the Health Department was increased by $8,903. This was necessary to cover a deficit created in 1962 and to meet all current expenses for 1963.

It was necessary to levy the entire amount of $29,000 for the hospital for 1963 instead of $4,818.77 in 1962 because the natural gas fund was required for payment on school bonds.

The amount levied for public welfare increased $3,915.56, but this results from the increase in the assessable basis. Most of this levy is made up of the minimum required by law for matching funds of 10 cents on each $100 of assessment, and could not be reduced if state and federal funds are to be received.

Teacher Pay Hiked

Both increases and decreases were made in the school levy. The amount provided for teachers' salaries was increased from $60,400 to $80,100. This was necessary to meet the present salary contracts of teachers, based on an increase granted for the 1962-63 school year and allows no increase in the salary scale. The current expense allowance was raised from $385,100 to $403,025 as a result of the increased assessable basis as the county is required by law to levy 87 cents for this purpose. The amount for debt service was reduced from $16,109 to $12,302 and the capital outlay from $20,000 to $10,800 to meet reduced requirements. The incentive fund was increased from $21,000 to $21,900, based on a required minimum assessment of five cents for this purpose. The last amount is applied toward the payment of the school construction bonds by the county.

In 1962 the Garrett County Airport required $57,000 for construction and other costs. For 1963 this amount was reduced to $30,000 which is sufficient to complete the payment of the balance due on the construction contract. A total of $5,000 has been provided for the Wilson Run Watershed Association to apply toward the cost of flood control for Oakland and the surrounding area.

Estimated expenses of the election board were reduced from $16,000 to $8,665 as there is no election scheduled for 1963. Court House salaries have been reduced from $8,900 to $4,000.

There are other smaller changes but the above will account for the increase in the total revenues and expenses. In future levies, some of these items can be omitted but other items will increase.

It should be noted that all accounts in the 1962 levy have been paid. In order for this to be done, it was necessary for the county to borrow $165,000 against outstanding unpaid taxes. Neither these loans nor the uncollected taxes are included in the 1963 levy.

Deficit To Top All Deficits

That much is evident from the reaction in Congress and around the country to his legislative plans. With or without the tax cuts, it's a deficit budget. It could turn into a deficit to end all deficits — or at least to overshadow them.

As Treasury Secretary Dillon has pointed out, the government will run $9.4 billion in the red next year even if the tax reduction plan is left on the shelf in Congress. So the choice is between a deficit and a big deficit. Or a big deficit and a great big deficit.

Mr. Kennedy proposes to spend substantially more on national defense and space programs. Increases are also in category after category of domestic spending. And some of the recommendations which pass for decreases would come about largely through disposal of government assets.

Congress will do no violence to the President's stated objective—a healthy and faster-growing American economy — if it pares off some of the fat which Mr. Kennedy and his budget advisers appear to have overlooked. Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee has set his sights on trimming $12 billion from the budget.

Is this really the irreducible minimum? Congress should be able to do better than that.

These Days

An Arm Of The State

The pressure on Congress to "do something" about strikes and lockouts is building up, and the danger is that an unholy trade will be made, with the big union chiefs yielding to some form of compulsory arbitration in exchange for the union shop. This would give the union chiefs security for themselves by delivering the working men to them without their having to lift a finger to persuade anybody in the rank and file.

Since, according to the well-known law of the conservation of energy, nobody likes to expend any effort that can be avoided, I suspect that the big union bosses would cheerfully accept a limitation on the right to strike if, in so doing, they would be eliminating all the difficult problems of organization.

Much is being made at the moment about the discomforts that are caused by labor strife. Newspaper readers, deprived of the metropolitan press in New York City and in Cleveland, Ohio have had to get their news via out-of-town papers or radio. The East Coast longshoremen's strike has caused a hitch in the flow of many things, from bananas to imported Volkswagens. People have had to walk to work in Philadelphia. But these are mere inconveniences; they deprive nobody of basic liberties for the long pull.

The real menace of the union movement is its drive to compulsion on the human being. The notion that men must be forced into unions as a condition of employment is deeply ingrained in the fundamental philosophy of big union chiefs; they have come to regard the big union as a sort of substitute for the political state.

This assumption is immediately apparent in all their actions. James Carey, head of the International Union of Electrical Workers, is girding to wring the union shop out of Westinghouse and General Electric. On the Pacific Coast the leaders of the aerospace unions are trying to connive with the federal government to force the union shop on their own reluctant followers. But the real temper of the union leaders comes out even more strongly in their words.

For example, there is the record of an old exchange between Senator Barry Goldwater and Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Automobile Workers. When Goldwater asked Reuther, "What about the man who just does not want to belong to a union?" the labor chief replied: "Well, if a fellow works in a General Motors plant and does not want to belong to a union, he does not have to work there."

"But suppose he wants to work there?" Goldwater insisted. Whereupon Mr. Reuther let his Statist preconceptions come to the surface. "If you want to live in a certain community," he said, "and you want the benefits of the work of that community, you have to pay taxes in that community. You do not have to live in that community. That is the freedom of choice."

Thus the cat emerges from the bag: Mr. Reuther considers union dues, levied compulsorily on every employee in an automobile plant, to be the equivalent of taxes. They are not a voluntary contribution freely agreed upon by union members who hope to get their quid pro quo in higher wages in exchange for relinquishing a part of their weekly pay checks.

When a union boss starts thinking about union dues as taxes that must be paid to his organization willy-nilly, it is easy to see how the Statist frame of mind gets extended to other things. States not only have the power to levy taxes, they also have a monopoly of police and military force in the territory subject to their jurisdiction. The union boss who is granted the power to tax his followers will hardly boggle about raising an army or a squad of cops to defend his realm. Thus the practice of employing goons to whip recalcitrants into line is just a step away from the imposition of compulsory taxes.

No doubt Reuther, who is a nice enough fellow in his personal relationships, fails to realize the full implications of his dues-equal-taxes philosophy. But if Reuther and his kind succeed in foisting compulsory unionization on the country as a general condition of employment, they will create an administrative monster which, in the hands of a less scrupulous generation of labor leaders, could mean slavery for practically everybody.

Will Next UN Expedition Liberate Hungary?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Now that the United Nations has subdued the warring factions in the Congo and exerted its arbitrary power over a supposedly sovereign state, will its next expedition be sent to liberate Hungary?

This question is being asked hereabouts because the U.N. has lately assumed the role of a super-government and deems it to be its mission in the world to bring about — by armed force, if necessary — the settlement of any internal controversy that could conceivably have outside repercussions.

One spokesman for the United Nations secretariat sent a letter the other day to various newspapers to answer critics who had complained that the U.N. was "setting a dangerous precedent" by interfering in a civil war — a purely internal matter — in the Congo. The letter said:

"To start with, outside interference, actual and potential, was so heavy that this was hardly a civil war when the U.N. became involved. More fundamentally, however, I think we must consider the consequences of the thermonuclear era in which we live.

"It is no longer possible for one or another great power to impose world peace as did the Roman and British Empires. No one power can undertake such a task without risking war and a thermonuclear war will have no victors —only vanquished.

"Yet, occasionally, order still breaks down, chaos occurs, some vacuum is created, inviting outside interference and becoming thus the fuse that could explode our earth. Mankind, therefore, has seen itself obliged to seek some new means of preserving international law and order. We cannot stop seeking or experimenting."

But not so long ago two big powers — the United States and the Soviet Union — stood poised against one another in the Cuban situation. The United Nations was in session and presumably had the same concern then about a thermonuclear war. But the U.N. didn't even discuss the possible mobilization of an armed force of several member natoins to go into Cuba and remove the Soviet missiles or later on to inspect the bases to see if all the nuclear weapons had been withdrawn.

Surely this was not an internal matter at all, but an international affair and clearly a basis for action as provided in the charter of the U.N.

Logically, the United Nations now has set a precedent in the Congo which could readily be applied to Hungary and the other satellite states. The argument, for instance, is being made by U.N. spokesmen that "genocide" was taking place in the Congo and caused the U. N. to intervene. But the same type of crime was noted at the time of the Hungarian revolution in 1956, when innocent men, women and children were killed. The U.N. tried to send a team of investigators to that ill-fated country but was refused permission by the Soviet-controlled regime. Plenty of resolutions demanding that the investigating body be permitted to enter the country have since been passed by the U. N. General Assembly, but to no avail. Just a few weeks ago the U. N. surrendered. It gave up any idea of compelling the Soviets to let the U. N. even take a look. For all practical purposes, the U. N. forsook Hungary and the other captive countries.

It will be said that the U. N. cannot act unless the Security Council agrees, as it did in connection with the Congo dispute, and that the Soviets would use their veto in the council to thwart any action. But the U.N. managed to act in Korea when the Soviets were temporarily absent. Maybe they'll be away again sometime! The General Assembly, however, isn't subject to any veto and can at any time authorize collective action under Article 51, irrespective of Soviet objections.

The record to date shows that the U. N. has been cravenly abandoning the captive countries of Europe and leaving them subjugated by the Soviet oppressors. The United States government, under this and the preceding administration, has favored U. N. intervention in the Congo, but no pressure has been put on the U. N. to act in Eastern Europe. President Kennedy, in his formal statement after the surrender of Tshombe's forces in Katanga, said:

"The United States objective in the Congo is neither more nor less than the establishment of conditions under which the Congolese people themselves can peacefully work out their own future. This was impossible as long as the territorial integrity of the nation was challenged by secessions, with consequent political instability and a standing invitation to intervention by the great powers."

The same thing can, however, be said about Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. All the peoples of these countries want to "work out their own future." Yet the "territorial integrity" of these nations continues to be violated by Soviet troops which occupy and control every one of them by force.

Here is a task for a courageous U. N., since obviously no one or two powers can do the job. It certainly is a field in which the U. N. ought not to "stop seeking or experimenting." For, otherwise, it will be said that the U. N. likes to operate as a supergovernment over the weak and the helpless countries like the Congo, but turns a cold shoulder toward Cuba and the other states now controlled by the Soviet Union.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ESPANOL—The late Sen. Dennis Chavez, D-N. M., was as proud of his Spanish background as the grandest of the grandees. He was the U. S. Senate's outstanding link with the Spanish-speaking countries and peoples of the world.

Chavez worked for many years to advance the cause of Spanish-speaking U. S. citizens, and one of his constant laments was that there were few men in public life in Washington he could converse with in Spanish.

It is no wonder, then, that Chavez had a warm spot in his heart for a fellow senator, a Republican, Thomas H. Kuchel, of California.

Shortly before his death, Chavez wrote Kuchel a letter which he now treasures and shows to friends. "I want to congratulate you and send you my best wishes for your candidacy for the third time as U. S. senator from California," Chavez wrote. The New Mexican did not live to see Kuchel elected by a heavy majority that has projected him into political prominence as a possible GOP vice presidential candidate in 1964.

But what Kuchel likes most about the letter was that it was written in Spanish. And the reason for this is that Kuchel was one of the very few senators who could carry on a conversation in Spanish with Chavez.

Sen. McCarthy's Chief Inquisitor Now Under Investigation Himself

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Bored, baleful Roy Cohn, the late Sen. Joe McCarthy's chief inquisitor, is now finding out what it's like to be on the receiving end of an investigation. During the height of McCarthy's investigations, it was Cohn who harassed and heckled sometimes helpless witnesses, took a junket to Europe where he burned books snatched from U. S. government libraries, and ordered U. S. diplomats around as if they were office boys.

Today, Cohn's own multi-corporate manipulations are being scrutinized by no less than Attorney Robert F. Kennedy, who, at one time, also served as counsel for Joe McCarthy. Kennedy, however, got fed up with McCarthy's tactics and went on to other things.

Cohn, after the censure of the Senator from Wisconsin, also went on to other things, moved to the Big Town where he has made a name for himself as a financial tycoon, toy train king, and boxing promoter. He has also become addicted to monogrammed shirts, silk suits, and chauffeur-driven Cadillacs.

He is known on Wall Street as the "baleful boy with cheek," whose enterprises range from mail-order vacations to swimming pools. He has usually made money for himself, sometimes lost money for his stockholders.

It was his boxing promotions that first started the Justice Department digging into his activities.

Pitiful Profits

Cohn's first experience as a fight promoter produced such a scramble at the box office that 13,000 fans happily crashed the gates. This still left 50,000 who paid for their seats and rang up $1,315,364 on the cash register.

A mere $181,241 of this, however, was reported as profit before taxes. The subsequent match between Johansson and Patterson in Miami produced even less profit—a pitiful $9,608.

Cohn explained sorrowfully that legal fees, travel expenses, and salaries had eaten up all the gain.

It later turned out that $76,250 in legal fees had gone to Cohn's law firm, $82,440 had been paid to a travel agency owned by Cohn's co-promoter, W. D. Fugazy, and $107,200 in salaries had been drawn, chiefly by Cohn and Fugazy.

Internal Revenue also discovered that Feature Sports hadn't bothered to file tax returns for 1959, 1960, or 1961. Much of this was before Cohn took over. But not until T-men started checking did the company finally file delinquent returns for all three years on Feb. 15, 1962.

On top of this, the agents found that Feature Sports had violated a written agreement with Internal Revenue not to send money out of the country until the taxes had been deducted.

However, the company shipped $250,000 to a Swiss bank as an advance on Johannson's purse, $100,000 of which was after the written agreement was signed.

Mystifying Multiplicity

Agents heard, too, that either Cohn's company or those working for it had sold complimentary press tickets for $50 each without paying the excise tax.

As Feature Sports became entangled in lawsuits and federal probes, Cohn simply discarded it like an old coat and formed a new company to promote his championship fights.

In March, 1961, he organized Championship Sports, Inc., as a Delaware corporation. Three months later, he set up a separate company by the same name in Massachusetts.

It isn't clear whether Championship Sports of Delaware or Championship Sports of Massachusetts promoted the next championship bout between Patterson and challenger Tom McNeeley in Toronto the following December. But it was the Delaware corporation which asked the Treasury for a time extension to file its tax returns, then went out of business in August, 1962, without paying any taxes at all.

Meanwhile, two more corporations called Championship Sports, Inc., materialized in New York and Illinois. This made a total of four participating in the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston promotion last fall.

Internal Revenue also learned that Cohn had a hand in the Nevada corporation which had received the television-radio-newsreel rights to the Patterson-Liston fight.

Not knowing which of the multiple corporations would end up with the bag, Internal Revenue moved in on all of them and seized the receipts. This time Uncle Sam made sure he got his share first.

This is just a small chapter in the mystifying multiplicity of financial operations which the Treasury is trying to unravel in the affairs of bored, baleful Roy Cohn. More will be reported later.

Angry $1,000 Democrats

A good many Democrats who plunked down one thousand hard-earned simoleons at the exclusive fund-raising dinner last week vow they will never do it again.

It wasn't just the expenditure of $1,000 for a $10 meal that hurt their feelings. It was the fact that they got no status.

At the last minute, some anonymous manager in command of the dinner decided there were to be no place cards. Guests could sit wherever they chose. There was to be undiluted democracy.

This was something of a blow to out-of-town Democrats. Nor was it welcomed by local Democrats. Most of those who spent $1,000 were looking for status. Where they sat at dinner mattered a lot. So when it was announced that all could sit where they pleased, the guests stood, awkward and embarrassed, looking desperately for the right people.

The more they looked, the madder they got. Some finally found seatmates with status. Others kept seat-shopping so long that the dinner was delayed 45 minutes. And a few wouldn't sit down at all.

Said one irate Democrat as he stomped out: "You can take your ——— —— dinner and you know what you can do with it. You won't catch me here again!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Irvington, New Jersey is a crowded town. I was driving through it, thinking: "I know a man from this place. Quite a man." His name is Irving Cowan, and he is only 30, but he is one of the most successful business men I know. We don't meet often, these days. He's in Florida. I'm north.

Cowan is a smiler. He has jet hair in deep waves and a movie star face. He likes to dress and he has a persuasive voice. He was born on Paine Avenue, son of a Jewish meat packer. The father made a good living until the black market began to flourish in World War II. Then he quit the business and took his brood to Florida.

The father had some money, and he liked to say that he had retired, but he was lying to himself. In north Florida, he went back into the business of bidding for animals on the hoof and selling them in side to New York wholesalers.

The oldest son, Herman, studied medicine and became an internist. A daughter, Frances, married. Irving—the one who is my friend —might have become a good lawyer, or perhaps an engineer. His natural talent was business. Just plain business. As a college kid, he was the sort of nut who liked to work on the side: beach boy, bus boy, bag boy in a grocery store. He dug ditches for a dollar an hour.

Irving left the University of Miami in the Korean crisis and enlisted. When he got out, his father said: "I bought a slaughter house in Bartow, Florida. Will you manage it for me?" Irving said sure. The kid never doubted that he could do a good job. He attended cattle auctions and bought $75,000 in live meat per week.

The business earned money. It also grew in size. But father had no notion of spoiling his son. Irving got $75 a week and a $15 allowance for the use of his car. He was 23, when his dad sold the business and retired again.

The boy was out of work. He found a man in the hide business who sold lots of hides for leather, and was going broke doing it. Cowan studied the business a little, offered the man more money for the hides, and resold them at a higher price. In his first deal, Irving made $5,000.

He remained around Bartow until he had $15,000. Then he began to miss girls, and bright lights, and Miami Beach. He took the money home and rented a cabana at the Fontainebleu. Girls. He was introduced to several, but he liked a pretty brunette named Margie Friedland and began to date her.

Miss Friedland was serious. A few months of dates convinced Cowan that he wanted to marry her. The wedding occurred at Christmastime 1956. There was only one weakness: she was the daughter of Sam Friedland. Mr. Friedland is chairman of the board of Food Fair—500 big stores. He was a man who started in the meat business in Bayonne, N. J., at $18 a week.

Irving didn't want to be the boy who married the millionaire's daughter. So, to be independent, he went into the fat rendering business with his father. Sam, however, is a logician. He said that if Irving was such a smart businessman, why not start work behind a butcher's block in a Food Fair store? Well, why not?

Cowan accepted the challenge. He cut chops and loins of pork and ground beef. He got $80 a week. His father-in-law was building a huge hotel called The Diplomat in Hollywood, Florida. Irving wasn't interested. He cut meat until he worked his way up to meat merchandizer.

Sam was immersed in the hotel business. He built the Shelburne in Miami Beach and bought the Monte Carlo. He put $20,000,000 of his own money into the Diplomat, with three golf ourses, swimming pools, 700 rooms and 60,000 guests a year.

Irving had worked himself up to $15,000 a year at Food Fair when Sam asked him to take over management of the Diplomat A topflight hotel man, Eugene Suits, broke Cowan in. The young man didn't know room service from curb service. Cowan learned so fast that Suits said: "I came here to teach you the hotel business; instead, you're teaching it to me."

Today, Cowan is managing director. He's 30. Last year, the Diplomat did $5,000,000 in business. This year, it's $6,000,000. His salary is $42,000 a year and is going up. His father-in-law never tells him he's doing a good job. "Irving," he says, "is the only one I can talk the meat business with."

Driving through Irvington, I thought of these things. I like a young man who wants to make good on his own. This is the man.

Oklahoma Psychiatrists Research In A Big Way

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Oklahoma psychiatrists do things in a big way, when it comes to research. They bypassed the usual laboratory animals and selected Tusko, a male Asiatic elephant from the Lincoln park zoo in Oklahoma City. The scientists had good reasons for making the selection, even though the experiment backfired.

The male elephant is unique in that he goes berserk once or twice a year. The period of madness (musth) lasts two weeks and is of particular interest to psychiatrists. The bull becomes dangerous when on musth, which is the chief reason why there are so few male elephants in captivity. They are likely to attack or destroy anything in their path when on the rampage.

But there is one pecularity about this elephantine madness. The animal's eyes begin to water, and a brown sticky fluid oozes from the temporal glands, located midway between the eyes and the ears. What is this fluid and does it have anything to do with his behavior?

The question makes sense because of the ability of certain chemicals to produce temporary insanity in animals and man. Lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) is the drug used most frequently for experimental purposes.

The story of this research project, which appeared in Science, was written by Dr. Louis J. West and Dr. Chester M. Pierce, of the Oklahoma school of medicine, and Warren D. Thomas of the zoo. They wanted to find out whether they could duplicate musth in Tusko, including the discharge from the temporal glands.

A dose of LSD, comparable to that used in humans, was administered via a cartridge syringe. The old boy began to sway, trumpeted, collapsed, and went into convulsions. He died in an hour and 40 minutes.

An autopsy was done and there was no dark fluid in the ducts of the temporal glands. Studies showed that the gland also produces an internal secretion that might contribute to the male animal's madness.

But there is another side to the experiment that should be mentioned. LSD is being used by irresponsible persons to produce temporary illusions and vivid visual hallucinations. If it will kill an elephant, it might kill these blockheads.

EXCESS SALT

J. F. writes: What are the consequences of using too much salt?

REPLY

The excess is excreted by the kidneys in the normal individual. On the other hand, high blood pressure and dropsy are aggrevated by too much salt. This is why a low sodium diet is recommended in these disorders.

NEVER TOO OLD

Mrs. F. writes: My husband says I'm too old to take the tablets against polio and that besides, they would make me sick and do no good. Is this true for a 52 year old?

REPLY

No. Reactions to this vaccine are rare and it should be taken by everyone, regardless of age.

NERVE CANCER

M. M. writes: Can cancer affect a nerve?

REPLY

Yes, but it is not a common type of tumor.

DAMP WEATHER HEADACHE

C. R. writes: What makes me suffer from headaches in damp, rainy weather?

REPLY

Aching in the back part of the head may represent referred pain from an arthritic condition in the spine. If discomfort is located elsewhere, investigate the sinuses and nasal passageways.

ANGINA AND REST

H. M. writes: Should a person with angina rest more?

REPLY

This is a good idea, especially if chest pain follows exertion. This does not mean, however, the individual should become an invalid.

TOMORROW: Letters from readers.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A husband who was not exactly masterly when his wife was around came home at about 4:00 a. m. one time to receive the tongue-lashing he expected. "Fine hour to sneak in," shrilled his wife. "I suppose you're going to give me that old routine about being out somewhere holding a sick friend's hand."

"My dear," said the husband sadly, "if I had been holding his hand, we'd be considerably wealthier today."

At the Hillcrest Country Club in Beverly Hills, the afternoon bridge games are taken very seriously. George Burns tells of one hand where he and his partner bid seven spades, vulnerable. One of their opponents had recently recovered from a heart attack. After some deliberation, he took out a nitroglycerin tablet, placed it under his tongue, looked at his cards again, and said with a deep sigh, "I double."

In Miami Beach, Hotel Impresario Ben Novack asked an 8-year-old visitor whether he planned to swim in the pool or the ocean. "The pool," said the boy firmly. "The ocean's too tall for me."

Frostburg State Testing Program Now Underway

"NGTP is designed to enhance the usefulness of test results to individual students, and to reduce the costs of school testing through provision of low cost scoring service," states Dr. VanNewkirk.

Some 400 students will take the SCAT (School and College Ability Tests) and a series of achievement tests, referred to as STEP (Sequential Tests of Educational Progress.)

SCAT is used to estimate a student's capacity to do academic work, while the STEP tests evaluate skills in reading, writing and ability to apply what one has learned to the solution of new problems in mathematics, science and social studies.

Students mark a single answer sheet which accomodates responses to as many as seven different tests. Answer sheets are forwarded to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, for scoring on specially designed electronic data processing equipment.

Interpretations of the tests scores are provided on special forms which enable each student to compare his performance with that of other students at his grade level throughout the country.

Assisting Dr. VanNewkirk in the administration of the tests will be Miss Cleo Campbell, social director; John Allison, counselor to men; Dr. Syed Hasan and Frank Miller, psychology professors, and Thomas Crogan, advanced student.

Proctors for the testing will be upperclass students. They include Barbara Blazie, Ned Beehm, Samuel DeBone, Michael Todd and Rilla Whitten for the morning sessions; William Buttrill, Judith Castle, Rose Marie DelBusso, Robert Lewis, Giles Maurey and Mary Jo Sirna for the afternoon sessions. Larry Tyree and Allan Mumma will be alternate proctors at both sessions.

Kindergarten Speaker Named

KEYSER — The public is invited to hear Dr. Sara Ann Brown, professor of home economics at West Virginia University, who will be the guest speaker of the Keyser Kindergarten Association at its January meeting next Wednesday evening in the Science Hall at Potomac State College, said Mrs. Kenneth Grace, program chairman.

During the afternoon Dr. Brown will visit the kindergarten to observe its operation and will meet afterwards with the teachers.

Before joining the University faculty in 1946, Dr. Brown served as homemaking teacher and high school principal at Schleswig, Iowa, and city supervisor of home economics and cafeteria at Cedar Rapids.

She has bachelor, master, and doctor of philosophy degrees from Iowa State College and also has done graduate study at the University of Iowa, the University of Chicago, and Ohio State University.

Despite her many duties she has found time in the past years to travel in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland. In 1954 she received a Fulbright scholarship for a lectureship in Denmark and lectured at all home economics training colleges in that country, in addition to others in Norway and Sweden.

Fire Destroys Restaurant

A fairly new restaurant and souvenir shop on Route 50 about 15 miles east of Romney was leveled by fire during the night.

Firemen from Capon Bridge, Augusta and Romney fought the blaze that destroyed the modern, well equipped Cobb's Coffee Shop near Capon Bridge.

The structure had just been purchased by Harlan C. Hannum. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

The alarm was sounded at 11 p.m. Wednesday and the Romney Volunteer Fire Company was the last to leave the smouldering ruins at 5:30 a.m. yesterday.

The firefighters faced frozen pumps and lines as they fought the fire in below-zero temperature.

The restaurant blaze was the second alarm in four hours answered by the Romney firemen.

At 7 p. m. they joined Fort Ashby firemen in extinguishing a fire on the outside of the home of Harold Stewart in Springfield.

Mineral County Detention Home Plans Advance

KEYSER — Initial steps have been taken toward the possibility of renovating Mineral County Court House to provide for a Juvenile Detention Home and additional space for the county clerk's office and circuit judge's quarters.

Officials conferred Wednesday with Robert J. Bennett, Morgantown, W. Va. architect, who submitted general recommendations for the project.

Bennett was in Keyser in connection with work at Potomac State College where he was architect for the new women's dormitory. He was called in by county officials for consultation and suggestions.

Attending the meeting were John Bane, president of the county court, O. A. Harman, court member, Judge David E. Cuppett, Jr., prosecuting attorney C. Reeves Taylor, and circuit clerk James A. Dixon.

Preliminary talks indicated that the logical place for the renovation and building program would be at the area to the left rear of the building, between the jail and court house.

Court members are talking in terms of a two-room addition to the present structure.

Judge Cuppett has long advocated Juvenile Detention quarters and renewed his plea as the January term of court opened two weeks ago.

The county clerk's office is in dire need of space for office work, it was brought out, and it was also stated that space was needed for storage of valuable court records and deeds.

On Monday, the county court will meet with John Hey, community facilities administrator from West Virginia Department of Commerce, to discuss obtaining federal financial support for such a project.

Wednesday's discussions revealed that in the event of such an undertaking Hey would be the one to process an application for the federal grant as part of the accelerated Public Works program.

Federal government would provide, 58 per cent of the total cost and the local or county government must guarantee the remaining 42 per cent.

Hey will be in Keyser Monday for another meeting of the Mineral County Rural Area Redevelopment Commission, Inc.

Moorefield Lions Plan Anniversary

Program Scheduled For February 18

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — J. Kenneth Frye, former district governor of Lions International, who is chairman of the 25th anniversary of the charter night program of the Moorefield Lions Club scheduled for February 18, reported on the progress of the plans at a meeting of the local service club.

He said that international officers of the world's largest civic organization and representatives of state and district groups will be present along with representatives of neighboring Lions Clubs.

The charter night anniversary banquet will be held at the firemen's hall, said Mr. Frye.

Wendel Hester narrated the story of the West Virginia Centennial as William Clark showed the colored slides sent out by the West Virginia Centennial Commission to the local Lions who met at the Hotel McNeill. Depicted in the West Virginia scenes were the historical and recreational places in the state and breath taking views of the grandeur of the mountain state.

Donald Baker, county chairman for the Centennial, spoke briefly on the plans for the events in Hardy County and of the participation in the House and Garden Tour which is being revived this year by the Hardy County Public Library Association members.

Guy Lang, president of the Lions Club, turned the meeting over to the seven charter members present who are still active. They are Earl B. Thrush, H. Gus Muntzing, R. E. Fisher, Chester B. Hiett, W. C. H. Poole, S. L. Dodd and E. L. Puffenberger who conducted the meeting. C. R. Powers was unable to be present.

Mr. Lang urged the members to cast their ballots for Sports Greats in the state-wide balloting conducted by the Lions Clubs. Hardy County is entitled to 12 nominees.

James Swadley, Keyser, will be the speaker at the February 4th meeting of the Moorefield Club.

Mineral Farmers May Participate In Conservation

KEYSER — Farmers who are interested in establishing soil and water conservation practices on their farms under the 1963 Agriculture Conservation Program should file their requests as soon as possible, suggests John S. Arnold, Jr., chairman, Mineral County ASC Committee.

Requests to participate in the program must be filed at the County ASCS Office in City Building, Davis St., and the conservation practice approved before work is begun. Final deadline for the initial sign-up under the program is Monday, February 11th, Mr. Arnold points out.

Under the 1963 program, farmers may get help averaging about one-half the cost of carrying out such conservation practices as establishing and improving vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, installing erosion control structures and practices for the conservation or more efficient use of water. In addition, the 1963 program also provides for similar cost-sharing assistance to farmers in developing soil and water conservation practices beneficial to wildilfe.

Commissioners Report Breakdown On 1963 Tax Levy For Garrett County

OAKLAND—Estimated amounts to be collected and spent to provide Garrett County with services and facilities necessary, reasonable and expected on a sound financial basis for 1963 were reported Wednesday by the county commissioners.

In 1962 the tax rate for general county purposes was $2.30 with an additional five cents for volunteer fire departments, making a total tax rate of $2.35. This year the rate for general county purposes was raised to $2.55, making a total tax rate of $2.60 per $100 of assessment.

Last year the assessable basis for the county was $42,839,156, and it was calculated that taxes totaling $951,300.58 would be collected. Other estimated revenues upon which the levy was based, calculated to be $340,827.70 of which $41,327.70 was cash on hand, made a total levey of $1,292,128.28, for general county purposes.

For 1963 the assessable basis has been given as $44,473,566.00, and it is calculated that taxes totaling $1,088,075.93 will be collected. Other estimated revenues are calculated at $328,985.16, of which $34,135.16 is cash on hand, making a total for general county purposes of $1,417,061.09. This represents an increase in total revenues of $124,932.81.

Several Items Lower

In addition to certain increased expenditures, there are several income items which are known or estimated to be lower in 1963 than in 1962. Last year the natural gas fund provided $24,181.23 toward the expense of operating Garrett County Memorial Hospital. For 1963, there are no funds for this purpose from this source. There is $49,141.00 in the natural gas fund, but the law provides that the first $50,000 each year will be used to retire school bonds so the entire amount is so applied for 1963.

On the basis of receipts for 1962, it was necessary to reduce the estimated returns from income tax by $2,000, beer tax by $2,000, cigaret tax by $3,000, beer licenses by $1,000, Class B licenses by $2,000 and miscellaneous income by $2,000.

There are two items of income which, on the same basis, are estimated to be increased over 1962: State Forestry Department, $1,500 and bank stock, $5,200. This leaves a net decrease in estimated revenues from sources other than real estate and property taxes of approximately $35,700.

In several instances, expenditures for 1963 are known or estimated to be substantially larger than 1962. Judicial expenses, including the Circuit Court, trial magistrates and state's Attorney, will increase $3,020; auditing and accounting, $1,450, and retired teachers' pensions, $1,200. The contingent fund was increased by $1,715.33.

Road Expense Up

The amount levied for borrowed money and interest is $500 more than 1962. This represents repayment of part of the money borrowed by the county and advanced to the Garrett County Development Corporation which made loans of $30,000 and $20,000 to Oakland Knitting Mills, Inc., and a grant of $29,750 to the flood wall project at Kitzmiller. A total of $30,000 of these loans was repaid by the county in 1962 (although the county has not been repaid) and the amount levied for 1963 will be applied toward a further reduction of the outstanding debt. The loans to Oakland Knitting Mills, Inc., were secured by chattel mortgages, but the grant to the Kitzmiller project is not repayable to the county.

The largest increase is for the roadway operating expense for the Garrett County Roads Department. For the last nine years, the department has been operating partly on funds borrowed from the State Roads Commission against future gasoline taxes to become payable to the county. The amount now owed on these loans is over $1,400,000. In order to avoid further borrowing and place the department on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, it was necessary to reduce the total budget for the department as well as increase the amount of the levy. In order to meet commitments already made and to provide proper road maintenance, repairs and snow removal, it was necessary to add $89,410.29. While further loans could have been obtained under the 12-year program of approximately $200,000 per year, this would increase the total debt and reduce the amount the county would receive in the future.

The levy for the Health Department was increased by $8,903. This was necessary to cover a deficit created in 1962 and to meet all current expenses for 1963.

It was necessary to levy the entire amount of $29,000 for the hospital for 1963 instead of $4,818.77 in 1962 because the natural gas fund was required for payment on school bonds.

The amount levied for public welfare increased $3,915.56, but this results from the increase in the assessable basis. Most of this levy is made up of the minimum required by law for matching funds of 10 cents on each $100 of assessment, and could not be reduced if state and federal funds are to be received.

Teacher Pay Hiked

Both increases and decreases were made in the school levy. The amount provided for teachers' salaries was increased from $60,400 to $80,100. This was necessary to meet the present salary contracts of teachers, based on an increase granted for the 1962-63 school year and allows no increase in the salary scale. The current expense allowance was raised from $385,100 to $403,025 as a result of the increased assessable basis as the county is required by law to levy 87 cents for this purpose. The amount for debt service was reduced from $16,109 to $12,302 and the capital outlay from $20,000 to $10,800 to meet reduced requirements. The incentive fund was increased from $21,000 to $21,900, based on a required minimum assessment of five cents for this purpose. The last amount is applied toward the payment of the school construction bonds by the county.

In 1962 the Garrett County Airport required $57,000 for construction and other costs. For 1963 this amount was reduced to $30,000 which is sufficient to complete the payment of the balance due on the construction contract. A total of $5,000 has been provided for the Wilson Run Watershed Association to apply toward the cost of flood control for Oakland and the surrounding area.

Estimated expenses of the election board were reduced from $16,000 to $8,665 as there is no election scheduled for 1963. Court House salaries have been reduced from $8,900 to $4,000.

There are other smaller changes but the above will account for the increase in the total revenues and expenses. In future levies, some of these items can be omitted but other items will increase.

It should be noted that all accounts in the 1962 levy have been paid. In order for this to be done, it was necessary for the county to borrow $165,000 against outstanding unpaid taxes. Neither these loans nor the uncollected taxes are included in the 1963 levy.

Boxing's Babe Ruth Wins 17th Straight Bout

Left Hook Decides Scrap In Pittsburgh Before 11,238 Fans

By DICK FONTANA
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Cassius Clay, the Babe Ruth of boxing, called his shot again Thursday night by knocking out Charley Powell in the third round and moving a step closer to a heavyweight title bout with champion Sonny Liston.

Clay, former Olympic light heavyweight champion from Louisville, caught Powell in a barrage of punches in a neutral corner and then landed the knockout punch at 2:04 of the third round.

The decisive blow was a vicious left hook.

Powell went down on his hands and knees, made a valiant effort to get up at the count of eight and then shook his head as referee Ernie Sesto counted him out.

Teddy Brenner of Madison Square Garden immediately announced he was signing Clay to fight Doug Jones March 13 in New York.

Clay's fast hands and feet completely outclassed Powell, the former professional football star, who had vowed to make it big in this, his second crack at a high-ranking in the heavyweight division.

It was the 17th straight win for Clay, whose predictions for calling his knockouts have been compared with Ruth's home-run call against the Chicago Cubs in the 1932 World Series.

Clay now has successfully forecast the end for his opponents in 13 of 14 knockout victories.

The Louisville resident weighed 205 compared to Powell's 214.

11,238 See Fight

A record local crowd of 11,238 watched the fight at the Civic Arena. It paid a gross of $55,782 and a net of $47,360. Ten per cent of the net or $4,736 went to a fund for families of 37 miners killed in an explosion at Carmichaels, Pa., Dec. 6.

In the second round, Clay stuck three jabs in Powell's face without a return. They moved out of a corner and Clay lashed four more jabs, drawing in return only a token left.

Powell chased Clay around the ring but the stalking ended when Clay shot a straight right to Powell's nose which stopped him in his tracks.

It was no contest in the fateful third as Clay scored at will before landing the final punch.

Clay Says He'll KO Jones In Six

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Jubilant Cassius Clay proudly declared Thursday night "I am the prophet of the fight game," after knocking out Charley Powell in the third round of their 10-round bout at the Civic Arena.

He then exploited his oracle claim by announcing he will knock out Doug Jones "in six."

"I would like to fight Doug Jones and Billy Daniels on the same night," he said. "In this way I can make greater progress."

Clay, now undefeated in 17 professional bouts, has called the shot in 13 of 14 knockout victories.

"I'm working on a timetable," Clay said. "My schedule is to win the championship in 10 months. I am the Louisville Lip. My lips break records when I move them."

Clay will meet Jones in Madison Square Garden on March 13.

Meehan Is Honored — Pirates Are Popular
The Dope On Paw Paw — Vandy Trails By 23

By C. V. BURNS

JOHN "Chick" Meehan, who was honored along with the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame," namely, Harry Stuhldreher, Elmer Layden, Don Miller and Jim Crowley, at the 29th annual Touchdown Club dinner in New York last week, once played in the Cumberland and Georges Creek Baseball League.

CHICK MEEHAN

At the Touchdown Club dinner Meehan was honored as "the individual who has done the most good for the sport over a period of years." The famed "Four Horsemen" were honored as a group which aided the sport.

Meehan played under the name of Johnny Francis in 1915 when he started the season as second baseman for Midland under Manager Price Poland and wound up the same campaign at Lonaconing where James F. "Jimmie" McGuire was at the helm, according to Richard J. "Dick" Stakem, the Georges Creek baseball historian. In those days Meehan was a grid star at Syracuse.

PAW PAW High School's undefeated basketball team could sneak in and win the Potomac Valley Conference title this season if Piedmont and Keyser knock each other off in their home-and-home series which gets under way next Wednesday at Keyser.

The Pirates from Morgan county, sparked by the high scoring Roland Hamilton, are 6-0 and it looks like they'll go all the way with only four games remaining — two with Wardensville and one each with Fort Ashby and the West Virginia School for the Deaf.

Piedmont is 9-0 and meets Keyser twice and Petersburg, Southern and Moorefield in the remaining games on its 14-game slate. Keyser also plays 14 games, is 8-0, and must play Piedmont twice and Ridgeley, Moorefield, Fort Ashby and Beall.

The championship goes to the school with the highest percentage.

JUDGING from the number of telephone calls on the Paw Paw-Romney game Tuesday night and the comments expressed when the score was given there are a lot of folks rooting for the Pirates from principal Tom Small's school.

Tom is the son of the late Patrick Small, well known Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineer, hails from Piedmont, and is an alumnus of St. Peter's School, Westernport. He also attended Potomac State, West Virginia University and Georgetown U. Lewis Close, a product of Berkeley Springs High School, is Paw Paw's coach.

THE West Virginia Blue Book says the name Paw Paw was derived from a wild fruit of that name which formerly grew in abundance throughout this section of the state. The town was incorporated in 1891.

WHILE singing the praises of Paw Paw we note that one of the school's former coaches was honored at a banquet last week in Baltimore.

Rex Bowen, now head of the Pittsburgh Pirates' scouting system, is credited with signing 34 players who reached the big leagues, including Maury Wills, Bo Belinsky, Ray Moore, Eddie Miksis, Dick Hall, Bill Mazeroski and Dick Groat.

LAST SEASON when LaSalle's Michael Long was on his way to a new city scoring record for a 21-game season (545 points) he had 300 tallies for the first 12 games.

Steve Vandenberg, Allegany's current top gunner, has participated in 12 games and has 277 points to his credit.

A FAN called the other evening and asked if Wilt Chamberlain ever scored 100 points in a game We told him we were quite sure Wilt had hit the century mark and he said such a feat was hard to believe.

Chamberlain, then with the Philadelphia Warriors, scored 100 points against the New York Knicks at Hershey, Pa., March 2, 1962. The Warriors won, 169-147.

ELDON SHIPMAN, principal of the West Virginia School for the Deaf, reports the annual Eastern States Deaf Schools basketball tournament will be held this year in Washington, D. C.

Kendall School, located on the campus of Gallaudet College, will be the host. The dates are February 14, 15 and 16.

IF you don't believe minor league baseball is dying how about these figures.

There are now only 123 cities with minor league franchises and many not so well off financially. In 1950 the number exceeded 400.

W. GORDON EISMON executive secretary of the West Virginia High School Activities Commission, doesn't believe there is a chance of the two-point option on conversions after touchdowns passing in his state.

Eismon points out that coaches were polled before and they have always turned it down.

MICK COOPER, of Harman High School in Randolph county, W. Va., who is averaging over 30 points a game recently scored 49 points against Coalton High School.

BALTIMORE Junior College's Red Devils are pacing the Tri-State Junior College basketball race in which Potomac State and Allegany Community College are represented with an 11-1 record.

AL MAMAUX, 68, who died the other day at Santa Monica, Cal., won 42 games for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1915 and 1916 and was a product of the Wilkinsburg (Pa.) sandlots where John "Lefty" Fike was "discovered" by Cumberland over 40 years ago.

"Lefty" had been employed by Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh when a strike closed down the plant. "Lefty" Diehl made him an offer to come to Cumberland and pitch for the Colts and he accepted.

Fike will be remembered as the pitcher who twirled all six games in the Midland - Cumberland championship series of 1919, outdueled Lefty Grove in two out of three games, 2-0, 5-6 and 11-4 and fanned 16 to Grove's 11 in the opening battle.

In 1920, Fike was with Jack Dunn's famed Orioles and posted a 14-14 record for Gabby Street's last place Suffolk team in the Virginia League in 1921 when an arm injury ended his diamond career.

Fike, who resides at 13 Mary street, retired last year after 45 years service here with the B. & O. Railroad.

Welu, Ladewig Lead In All-Star Bowling

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Billy Welu of St. Louis took over the lead Thursday night in the 22nd annual all-star bowling tournament with five decisions in eight games.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, of Grand Rapids, Mich., seven-time women's division all-star champion, retained her lead, despite losing her opening match to Betty Kuczynski of Chicago. Mrs. Ladewig regrouped by taking both games from defending champion Shirley Garms of Chicago, who skidded to the bottom of the list of 16 finalists after 12 games.

After 24 games in the men's division, the tournament appeared to be an all-St. Louis affair. Four St. Louis bowlers, Welu, defending champ Dick Weber, Ray Bluth and Don Carter, head the list of 16 finalists.

Problems Over Pittsburgh Stadium May Be Solved

Final Stumbling Block Appears To Be Removed

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The final stumbling block for a proposed municipal stadium appeared to be removed Thursday following a two-hour meeting between the Allegheny County Commissioners and the architects and prospective users of the plant.

Commission Chairman Dr. William D. McClelland said afterward:

"The commissioners have more light on the subject now and are better prepared to make an intelligent decision on whether or not this stadium is to be given the go sign."

McClelland said the session, which he termed "a right to know meeting" on behalf of county taxpayers, said it was "a satisfying meeting which brought out for the first time some of the things that would be in the contemplated leases."

Questions On Financing

The issues to which he referred were questions the commissioners raised concerning financing of the $45 million project, $23 million of which will go toward construction of the stadium.

They were:

—Are the leases for stadium and parking area operators adequately secured?

—Do they provide fair return to the public in the event of increased revenues over those now anticipated?

—Will monies earned be applied first to amortization of bonds?

—Will the public have a voice in the future development of air rights involved?

Want Assurances

Specifically, the commissioners wanted concrete assurances from the Pittsburgh Pirates, who would serve as operators of the stadium, that they could meet annual rental fees of $625,000 and from the Alco Corp. that it would post a $200,000 guaranty bond and pay $500,000 annually in fees.

All questions were answered in the affirmative.

Testifying before the commissioners were John Galbreath, president of the Pirates, Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Nicholas Stabile, vice president of Alco and Edward J. Magee, executive director of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development.

McClelland said he was pleased with the answers the men gave.

"Everybody cooperated real well, McClelland said. "The county commissioners should have an announcement shortly."

St. Michael's	6	4	.600
St. Peter's	4	5	.444
St. Ambrose	1	9	.100
Mt. Savage	0	9	.000

St. Patrick's of Cumberland's nine-game winning streak in the Catholic Youth League came to an end last night at the hands of SS. Peter and Paul's Flying Dutchmen, who snapped a halftime deadlock and went on to score a 36-23 victory.

The struggle highlighted a CYL tripleheader at the SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium, in which St. Michael's downed Mt. Savage St. Patrick's, 72-48, and St. Peter's of Westernport defeated St. Ambrose, 31-24.

Despite the streak-snapping setback, St. Patrick's maintained its hold on first place in the league standings with a 9-1 record. The victorious Dutchmen closed in, however, upping their mark to 7-2.

Tied At Halftime

The two clubs battled on even terms in the first half, which ended in a 14-14 tie. But the Dutchmen outscored the Fighting Irish 12-2 in the third frame and went on to atone for an earlier 37-34 defeat.

Teddy Mallow was the big man in the winners' scoring attack with 12 points. Mike Mullaney and Gary Neus excelled under the boards, and Kevin Mattingly and Pat McLean made the difference with their ball handling. Ricky Scaletta was high scorer for the losers with eight tallies.

St. Michael's of Frostburg gaind on idle St. Mary's in the standings by scoring victory number six in ten games. St. Mary's is in the third spot with a 6-3 log.

Arnold Scores 40

Regis Arnold exploded for 40 points, highest single game total of the season, in pacing the Frostburg quint's triumph. Arnold banged in 20 field goals to up his ten-game output to 191, for a 19.1 average. The losers' Joe Shaffer also had a productive evening, as he fired in 29 tallies.

St. Peter's played with only four players, but still managed to snap a three-game losing spin. Terry Davis led the Westernporters with 20 points, while Carl Cecil and Floyd Skelley had seven apiece for St. Ambrose.

Wall, Cupit Set Pace In Frisco Golf

Shoot 4-Under-Par 67's, Lead By Stroke

By Jack Stevenson
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran Pennsylvanian Art Wall and 24-year-old Texan Jacky Cupit conquered bumpy greens Thursday to share the first round lead in the $50,000 San Francisco International Open Golf Tournament with scores of 67, 4-under-par.

Five Tie For Second

They finished just one stroke ahead of five golfers—Charlie Sifford, Dick Mayer, Bobby Nichols, Phil Rodgers and Rookie Terry Dill over the Harding Park municipal course on a sunny day.

Wall, the 39-year old former Masters champion from Pocono Manor, Pa., fired three birdies and an eagle while collecting only one bogey on his ninth straight competitive round on which he bettered or equalled par.

Half Dozen Post 69s

A half dozen were bracketed at 69 including Billy Casper, winner of the Bing Crosby tournament Sunday and Canadian George Knudson who was runner-up to Gene Littler in the 1961 San Francisco event.

Also at 69 came Gardner Dickinson Jr., Miller Barber, Buster Cupit, Jacky's older brother, and Jack Bissegger from Val Morin, Canada, Wes Ellis Jr., West Caldwell, N. J., and Bud Holscher, North Hollywood, Calif.

Proposed Bill Would Restrict Ownership Of Maryland Tracks

Delegate Hoffman Will Introduce Legislation Today

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A Washington County delegate wants to keep persons who own a horse racing track in another state from operating one in Maryland.

Del. Irwin F. Hoffman, D-Washington, will introduce Friday a bill to refuse licenses to individuals or corporations whose majority of officers manage a track outside of Maryland.

Hoffman cited one specific example of Pimlico and Charles Town, W.Va., tracks which are controlled by the same people.

Bowie also is controlled by Canadian interests.

Hoffman's bill will come before the Maryland Legislature where the steam is beginning to rise as usual on horse racing.

Edward F. Farrell Jr., owner of the Marlboro Track, and Joseph M. Wyatt, a Baltimore lawyer, registered Thursday as lobbyists. Wyatt will represent Marlboro and the Rosecroft Harness Track at Oxon Hill.

Gov. Tawes has come out strongly for discontinuance of racing at Cumberland, Bel Air and Baltimore Raceway. The days would be transferred to Bowie, Pimlico, Laurel, and Timonium.

Farrell is protesting that the 24 days at Timonium would be unfair to his track and Hagerstown. All are half mile tracks.

World Boxing Champ Retires

Italy's Duilio Loi Gives Up Two Titles

Loi fought back tears and sobbed silently as he signed the official letters addressed to the World Boxing Association (WBA), the European Boxing Union (EBU) and the Italian Boxing Federation (IBF), announcing that he was stepping out of the ring—for good.

Duilio has been a professional since Aug. 29, 1948. Since then he had 126 fights. He won 89 on decisions, 25 on knockouts and one on a disqualification. He lost three decisions and had eight draws. He never was knocked out nor even floored.

Frostburg State Testing Program Now Underway

"NGTP is designed to enhance the usefulness of test results to individual students, and to reduce the costs of school testing through provision of low cost scoring service," states Dr. VanNewkirk.

Some 400 students will take the SCAT (School and College Ability Tests) and a series of achievement tests, referred to as STEP (Sequential Tests of Educational Progress.)

SCAT is used to estimate a student's capacity to do academic work, while the STEP tests evaluate skills in reading, writing and ability to apply what one has learned to the solution of new problems in mathematics, science and social studies.

Students mark a single answer sheet which accomodates responses to as many as seven different tests. Answer sheets are forwarded to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, for scoring on specially designed electronic data processing equipment.

Interpretations of the tests scores are provided on special forms which enable each student to compare his performance with that of other students at his grade level throughout the country.

Assisting Dr. VanNewkirk in the administration of the tests will be Miss Cleo Campbell, social director; John Allison, counselor to men; Dr. Syed Hasan and Frank Miller, psychology professors, and Thomas Crogan, advanced student.

Proctors for the testing will be upperclass students. They include Barbara Blazie, Ned Beehm, Samuel DeBone, Michael Todd and Rilla Whitten for the morning sessions; William Buttrill, Judith Castle, Rose Marie DelBusso, Robert Lewis, Giles Maurey and Mary Jo Sirna for the afternoon sessions. Larry Tyree and Allan Mumma will be alternate proctors at both sessions.

Accepts Gavel Of Office

Kindergarten Speaker Named

KEYSER — The public is invited to hear Dr. Sara Ann Brown, professor of home economics at West Virginia University, who will be the guest speaker of the Keyser Kindergarten Association at its January meeting next Wednesday evening in the Science Hall at Potomac State College, said Mrs. Kenneth Grace, program chairman.

During the afternoon Dr. Brown will visit the kindergarten to observe its operation and will meet afterwards with the teachers.

Before joining the University faculty in 1946, Dr. Brown served as homemaking teacher and high school principal at Schleswig, Iowa, and city supervisor of home economics and cafeteria at Cedar Rapids.

She has bachelor, master, and doctor of philosophy degrees from Iowa State College and also has done graduate study at the University of Iowa, the University of Chicago, and Ohio State University.

Despite her many duties she has found time in the past years to travel in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland. In 1954 she received a Fulbright scholarship for a lectureship in Denmark and lectured at all home economics training colleges in that country, in addition to others in Norway and Sweden.

Fire Destroys Restaurant

A fairly new restaurant and souvenir shop on Route 50 about 15 miles east of Romney was leveled by fire during the night.

Firemen from Capon Bridge, Augusta and Romney fought the blaze that destroyed the modern, well equipped Cobb's Coffee Shop near Capon Bridge.

The structure had just been purchased by Harlan C. Hannum. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

The alarm was sounded at 11 p.m. Wednesday and the Romney Volunteer Fire Company was the last to leave the smouldering ruins at 5:30 a.m. yesterday.

The firefighters faced frozen pumps and lines as they fought the fire in below-zero temperature.

The restaurant blaze was the second alarm in four hours answered by the Romney firemen.

At 7 p. m. they joined Fort Ashby firemen in extinguishing a fire on the outside of the home of Harold Stewart in Springfield.

Mineral County Detention Home Plans Advance

KEYSER — Initial steps have been taken toward the possibility of renovating Mineral County Court House to provide for a Juvenile Detention Home and additional space for the county clerk's office and circuit judge's quarters.

Officials conferred Wednesday with Robert J. Bennett, Morgantown, W. Va. architect, who submitted general recommendations for the project.

Bennett was in Keyser in connection with work at Potomac State College where he was architect for the new women's dormitory. He was called in by county officials for consultation and suggestions.

Attending the meeting were John Bane, president of the county court, O. A. Harman, court member, Judge David E. Cuppett, Jr., prosecuting attorney C. Reeves Taylor, and circuit clerk James A. Dixon.

Preliminary talks indicated that the logical place for the renovation and building program would be at the area to the left rear of the building, between the jail and court house.

Court members are talking in terms of a two-room addition to the present structure.

Judge Cuppett has long advocated Juvenile Detention quarters and renewed his plea as the January term of court opened two weeks ago.

The county clerk's office is in dire need of space for office work, it was brought out, and it was also stated that space was needed for storage of valuable court records and deeds.

On Monday, the county court will meet with John Hey, community facilities administrator from West Virginia Department of Commerce, to discuss obtaining federal financial support for such a project.

Wednesday's discussions revealed that in the event of such an undertaking Hey would be the one to process an application for the federal grant as part of the accelerated Public Works program.

Federal government would provide, 58 per cent of the total cost and the local or county government must guarantee the remaining 42 per cent.

Hey will be in Keyser Monday for another meeting of the Mineral County Rural Area Redevelopment Commission, Inc.

Dean In Hospital

KEYSER — K. S. McKee, dean and registrar at Potomac State College, remains a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital where he was admitted early Monday morning. Hospital attaches said his condition is "satisfactory."

Moorefield Lions Plan Anniversary

Program Scheduled For February 18

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — J. Kenneth Frye, former district governor of Lions International, who is chairman of the 25th anniversary of the charter night program of the Moorefield Lions Club scheduled for February 18, reported on the progress of the plans at a meeting of the local service club.

He said that international officers of the world's largest civic organization and representatives of state and district groups will be present along with representatives of neighboring Lions Clubs.

The charter night anniversary banquet will be held at the firemen's hall, said Mr. Frye.

Wendel Hester narrated the story of the West Virginia Centennial as William Clark showed the colored slides sent out by the West Virginia Centennial Commission to the local Lions who met at the Hotel McNeill. Depicted in the West Virginia scenes were the historical and recreational places in the state and breath taking views of the grandeur of the mountain state.

Donald Baker, county chairman for the Centennial, spoke briefly on the plans for the events in Hardy County and of the participation in the House and Garden Tour which is being revived this year by the Hardy County Public Library Association members.

Guy Lang, president of the Lions Club, turned the meeting over to the seven charter members present who are still active. They are Earl B. Thrush, H. Gus Muntzing, R. E. Fisher, Chester B. Hiett, W. C. H. Poole, S. L. Dodd and E. L. Puffenberger who conducted the meeting. C. R. Powers was unable to be present.

Mr. Lang urged the members to cast their ballots for Sports Greats in the state-wide balloting conducted by the Lions Clubs. Hardy County is entitled to 12 nominees.

James Swadley, Keyser, will be the speaker at the February 4th meeting of the Moorefield Club.

Werkman Holds 4-Point Lead In College Scoring

NYU's Kramer Trails Seton Hall Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Nick Werkman of Seton Hall, the nation's major college scoring leader since the start of the basketball season, has opened up a four-point lead over his nearest challenger, Barry Kramer of New York University.

Werkman padded his average to 32.8 during the past week while taking advantage of Kramer's idleness. The sharpshooting junior clicked for 76 points in two games, according to figures released by the NCAA Service Bureau Thursday.

NYU, meanwhile, was inactive because of mid-year examinations and runner-up Kramer's average remained at 28.8. Records include games through last Tuesday.

Sophomore Bill Bradley of Princeton had the biggest gain, increasing his average from 26.3 to 27.3 to move into third place. Bradley found the range for 67 points in two games last week.

Jay Buckley of Duke continued as the most effective field goal marksman with a 66.0 per cent average by making 70 of 106 shots. Cincinnati's Ron Bonham still ranks as the top free throw shooter with a 92.4 per cent mark on 85 of 92 attempts. Paul Silas of Creighton has averaged 19.7 rebounds to maintain his supremacy in that department.

In team offense, undefeated Loyola of Chicago is setting the fastest early pace in major college history. The Ramblers have averaged an unprecedented 97.7 in 17 games compared to 88.6 for runner-up Illinois.

SPARKLES FOR MOUNTAINEERS—Mike Wanda, a graduate of Fort Hill High School, has been a winner for West Virginia University's swimming team in the 100-yard freestyle and 200-yard freestyle and breast stroke events. Wanda is among the top scorers on the Mountaineers team and has 24 points to his credit. West Virginia will be seeking its fifth win in seven meets against Bucknell at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Mountaineer pool at Morgantown.

Liston-Patterson Bout Will Be Seen On Closed-Circuit

NEW YORK (UPI) — The return Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight at Miami Beach, April 4, will be sent on closed-circuit television to theaters in the United States and Canada, Tom Bolan announced Thursday.

Bolan, president of Championship Sports, Inc. (CSI) said: "We explored the possibilities of home television for this match but decided it would do much better on closed circuit."

He emphasized that "an informal survey by our people this week" indicated almost as much interest nationally in the Miami Beach bout as in the first fight at Chicago last Sept. 25, despite Liston's first-round victory at Chicago.

Notices to 10 possible bidders were sent out by CSI. Bids will be opened Monday afternoon at CSI headquarters in New York.

He disclosed that the gross take for the Chicago fight was more than $4,500,000 — including the gross live gate of $635,000 at Chicago's Comiskey Park and the gross receipts of $3,900,000 for theater-TV, radio, movies, etc. Owners of theaters and other locations got one half the gross receipts for theater television, Bolan said.

Seven Tigers Come To Terms

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers Thursday signed seven players for the coming season, all but one of them members of the 1962 squad.

Regan had an 11-9 record with Detroit last year. Gallagher, a southpaw, lost four early-season decisions with the Tigers and then went to Denver where he posted a 9-5 record.

Wood, regular second baseman, batted only .226 but led the club in stolen bases with 30. Wertz, used chiefly as a pinch - hitter, batted .324 and will be starting his 16th season in the majors.

Christino is an 18-year-old first baseman drafted by Detroit from Baltimore. He was with Bluefield, W. Va., last year and batted .246.

Brotherhood Group Honors Alvin Dark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alvin Dark, manager of the San Francisco Giants, Thursday was named winner of the Sportsmanship Award of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood Organization.

At the same time, Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former president of the National Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Olympic Committee, was honored with the John Perry Bowditch Memorial Award.

Dark, who guided the Giants to the National League championship in 1962, is the first baseball figure to win the Sportsmanship Brotherhood Award since Stan Musial in 1958. Previous baseball representatives honored were Walter Johnson, Lou Gehrig, Mel Ott and Billie Southworth.

In announcing the awards, Daniel Chase, new president of Sportsmanship Brotherhood, said:

"Dark was honored not only for his fame as a player and manager but also on his qualifications as a man of integrity and character who, in his personal life and on the competitive field, has set an example of rectitude and the good sportsmanship for which the brotherhood stands."

Uelses Regains Amateur Status

Vaulter Enters Millrose Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Uelses, the first 16-foot pole vaulter, was formally reinstated as an amateur Thursday by the National AAU and promptly entered the 56th annual Millrose A.A. Track and Field Games at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 1.

Directors of the Millrose games were notified of Uelses' reinstatement by Capt. Stephen Archer, secretary for the amateur Athletic Union.

Uelses was suspended by the AAU last year for accepting excessive expenses to compete in a meet in Florida. He since has returned the excessive expense money amounting to more than $130 and was reinstated by the Florida Association of the AAU.

Uelses, who enrolled at LaSalle University in Philadelphia following his discharge from the Marine Corps, vaulted 16 feet, ¼ inch last year in the Millrose Games to become the first man ever to clear the 16-foot barrier.

The following night in Boston, he topped that feat by one-half inch. His world indoor mark was broken last week by Pentti Nikula of Finland, who vaulted 16 feet, 2½ inches.

The entries include Dave Tork of Charleston, W. Va., and national outdoor champion Ron Morris of Los Angeles, both of whom have cleared 16 feet or higher. Others entered are Henry Wadsworth, the national indoor champion; John Belitza of Maryland, the NCAA co-champion; Maurice Houvion of France, making his American debut; Rolando Cruz of Villanova and Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern, a left-handed vaulter.

Ryan Is First Brown To Sign

Expected To Be Number One QB

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns announced Thursday that quarterback Frank Ryan was the first player to agree to terms for the 1963 football season.

Ryan, currently working on his doctor's degree in mathematics at Rice Institute, took over as quarterback midway through the 1962 season after Jim Ninowski suffered a fractured collarbone.

The 6-foot 3-inch Texan showed steady improvement and wound up with a fine 57.7 completion percentage, second only to Eddie LeBaron in this department.

Coach Blanton Collier, who announced the signing, said "based on his performance last year, Ryan has earned the right to first crack at the No. 1 job. Its' up to him to hang on to it."

Statistics show that during the 1962 season the 26-year-old Ryan hit on 112 of 194 attempts for 1,541 yards and 10 touchdowns. He had only seven passes intercepted—lowest in the league.

Collier, who succeeded Paul Brown recently as head coach, announced the signing shortly before leaving for Miami, where he will attend the annual National Football League meeting.

Bowling Green Coach Resigns

Anderson Quits After 21 Years

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) W. Harold Anderson, whose Bowling Green basketball teams ranked among the nation's finest during many of his 21 years as coach, announced his resignation Thursday.

"My health is good, but I want to keep it that way and devote more time to my family," Anderson said in announcing his resignation effective at the end of the current season. He will continue as the school's athletic director.

University President Ralph G. Harshman said Anderson's successor will be Warren J. Scholler, who currently is assistant basketball coach.

MacPhail Calls Orioles' Gaines Fastest In AL

Speedster Came From Cincinnati

BALTIMORE (AP) — President Lee MacPhail says the Baltimore Orioles will have the fastest man in the American League, perhaps the majors, this year.

The player is outfielder Joe Gaines, whom the Orioles bought from the Cincinnati Reds of the National League during the off-season.

"I think we can safely say that Gaines is the fastest man in the American League, if not the majors," MacPhail said.

Pat Friday, general manager of the Kansas City Athletics, has boasted in the past that the A's has the fastest player in centerfielder Jose Tartabull.

Crossing the finish line in first place, by a good margin, was Gaines. Second was Julio Gotay, recently traded by St. Louis to Pittsburgh, and Tartabull was third.

"The American League has some fast runners, including Mickey Mantle, Jim Landis, Chuck Hinton, Luis Aparicio, Lenny Green, Marv Breeding, Dick Howser, Russ Snyder and Tartabull," MacPhail said.

"But I don't think any of them are as fast as Gaines. Mantle in his prime, yes, but not now. I'll take Gaines.

"And although you might not get Cincinnati to admit it now, there are reliable reports that Gaines beat the Reds' Vada Pinson in a match race last year, and many people say that Pinson's the fastest in the National League."

Gaines, who batted only .231 in a reserve capacity with the [illegible] in 1962, led the Puerto Rican League in hitting this winter with a .348 average.

Johnson Wants Shot At Mina March 30 In New York Ring

But, Markson added regretfully, "Mina doesn't want to fight Johnson on that date, he says. He wants to fight him later in the year."

Said Markson: "If Mina really refuses to take this opportunity to win the title on March 30, we will have to match Johnson with some good heavyweight for an over-the-weight bout and let him make his title defense later against Mina or some other challenger."

Mina of Lima, champion of South America, registered his 34th straight victory last Friday night at Lima. Before a record Peruvian crowd of 45,000 in Lima's National Stadium, he again outpointed Eddie Cotton of Seattle.

Ex-Phillie Hurler Gets College Job

DETROIT (UPI) — Bob Miller, a former pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies for nine seasons, Thursday was named assistant baseball coach at the University of Detroit.

Miller, 36, had a 45-45 won-lost record in a career cut short in 1958 by a broken arm. He had an 11-5 mark when the Phillies won the National League pennant in 1950.

Left Hook Decides Scrap In Pittsburgh Before 11,238 Fans

By DICK FONTANA
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Cassius Clay, the Babe Ruth of boxing, called his shot again Thursday night by knocking out Charley Powell in the third round and moving a step closer to a heavyweight title bout with champion Sonny Liston.

Clay, former Olympic light heavyweight champion from Louisville, caught Powell in a barrage of punches in a neutral corner and then landed the knockout punch at 2:04 of the third round.

The decisive blow was a vicious left hook.

Powell went down on his hands and knees, made a valiant effort to get up at the count of eight and then shook his head as referee Ernie Sesto counted him out.

Clay's fast hands and feet completely outclassed Powell, the former professional football star, who had vowed to make it big in this, his second crack at a high-ranking in the heavyweight division.

It was the 17th straight win for Clay, whose predictions for calling his knockouts have been compared with Ruth's home-run call against the Chicago Cubs in the 1932 World Series.

Clay now has successfully forecast the end for his opponents in 13 of 14 knockout victories.

The Louisville resident weighed 205 compared to Powell's 214.

11,238 See Fight

A record local crowd of 11,238 watched the fight at the Civic Arena. It paid a gross of $55,782 and a net of $47,360. Ten per cent of the net or $4,736 went to a fund for families of 37 miners killed in an explosion at Carmichaels, Pa., Dec. 6.

In the second round, Clay stuck three jabs in Powell's face without a return. They moved out of a corner and Clay lashed four more jabs, drawing in return only a token left.

Powell chased Clay around the ring but the stalking ended when Clay shot a straight right to Powell's nose which stopped him in his tracks.

It was no contest in the fateful third as Clay scored at will before landing the final punch.

Clay Says He'll KO Jones In Six

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Jubilant Cassius Clay proudly declared Thursday night "I am the prophet of the fight game," after knocking out Charley Powell in the third round of their 10-round bout at the Civic Arena.

He then exploited his oracle claim by announcing he will knock out Doug Jones "in six."

"I would like to fight Doug Jones and Billy Daniels on the same night," he said. "In this way I can make greater progress."

Clay, now undefeated in 17 professional bouts, has called the shot in 13 of 14 knockout victories.

"I'm working on a timetable," Clay said. "My schedule is to win the championship in 10 months. I am the Louisville Lip. My lips break records when I move them."

Clay will meet Jones in Madison Square Garden on March 13.

Meehan Is Honored Pirates Are Popular

By C. V. BURNS

JOHN "Chick" Meehan, who was honored along with the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame," namely, Harry Stuhldreher, Elmer Layden, Don Miller and Jim Crowley, at the 29th annual Touchdown Club dinner in New York last week, once played in the Cumberland and Georges Creek Baseball League.

CHICK MEEHAN

At the Touchdown Club dinner Meehan was honored as "the individual who has done the most good for the sport over a period of years." The famed "Four Horsemen" were honored as a group which aided the sport.

Meehan played under the name of Johnny Francis in 1915 when he started the season as second baseman for Midland under Manager Price Poland and wound up the same campaign at Lonaconing where James F. "Jimmie" McGuire was at the helm, according to Richard J. "Dick" Stakem, the Georges Creek baseball historian. In those days Meehan was a grid star at Syracuse.

PAW PAW High School's undefeated basketball team could sneak in and win the Potomac Valley Conference title this season if Piedmont and Keyser knock each other off in their home-and-home series which gets under way next Wednesday at Keyser.

The Pirates from Morgan county, sparked by the high scoring Roland Hamilton, are 6-0 and it looks like they'll go all the way with only four games remaining — two with Wardensville and one each with Fort Ashby and the West Virginia School for the Deaf.

Piedmont is 9-0 and meets Keyser twice and Petersburg, Southern and Moorefield in the remaining games on its 14-game slate. Keyser also plays 14 games, is 8-0, and must play Piedmont twice and Ridgeley, Moorefield, Fort Ashby and Beall.

The championship goes to the school with the highest percentage.

JUDGING from the number of telephone calls on the Paw Paw-Romney game Tuesday night and the comments expressed when the score was given there are a lot of folks rooting for the Pirates from principal Tom Small's school.

Tom is the son of the late Patrick Small, well known Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineer, hails from Piedmont, and is an alumnus of St. Peter's School, Westernport. He also attended Potomac State, West Virginia University and Georgetown U. Lewis Close, a product of Berkeley Springs High School, is Paw Paw's coach.

THE West Virginia Blue Book says the name Paw Paw was derived from a wild fruit of that name which formerly grew in abundance throughout this section of the state. The town was incorporated in 1891.

WHILE singing the praises of Paw Paw we note that one of the school's former coaches was honored at a banquet last week in Baltimore.

Rex Bowen, now head of the Pittsburgh Pirates' scouting system, is credited with signing 34 players who reached the big leagues, including Maury Wills, Bo Belinsky, Ray Moore, Eddie Miksis, Dick Hall, Bill Mazeroski and Dick Groat.

LAST SEASON when LaSalle's Michael Long was on his way to a new city scoring record for a 21-game season (545 points) he had 300 tallies for the first 12 games.

Steve Vandenberg, Allegany's current top gunner, has participated in 12 games and has 277 points to his credit.

A FAN called the other evening and asked if Wilt Chamberlain ever scored 100 points in a game We told him we were quite sure Wilt had hit the century mark and he said such a feat was hard to believe.

Chamberlain, then with the Philadelphia Warriors, scored 100 points against the New York Knicks at Hershey, Pa., March 2, 1962. The Warriors won, 169-147.

ELDON SHIPMAN, principal of the West Virginia School for the Deaf, reports the annual Eastern States Deaf Schools basketball tournament will be held this year in Washington, D. C.

Kendall School, located on the campus of Gallaudet College, will be the host. The dates are February 14, 15 and 16.

IF you don't believe minor league baseball is dying how about these figures.

There are now only 123 cities with minor league franchises and many not so well off financially. In 1950 the number exceeded 400.

W. GORDON EISMON executive secretary of the West Virginia High School Activities Commission, doesn't believe there is a chance of the two-point option on conversions after touchdowns passing in his state.

Eismon points out that coaches were polled before and they have always turned it down.

MICK COOPER, of Harman High School in Randolph county, W. Va., who is averaging over 30 points a game recently scored 49 points against Coalton High School.

BALTIMORE Junior College's Red Devils are pacing the Tri-State Junior College basketball race in which Potomac State and Allegany Community College are represented with an 11-1 record.

AL MAMAUX, 68, who died the other day at Santa Monica, Cal., won 42 games for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1915 and 1916 and was a product of the Wilkinsburg (Pa.) sandlots where John "Lefty" Fike was "discovered" by Cumberland over 40 years ago.

"Lefty" had been employed by Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh when a strike closed down the plant. "Lefty" Diehl made him an offer to come to Cumberland and pitch for the Colts and he accepted.

Fike will be remembered as the pitcher who twirled all six games in the Midland - Cumberland championship series of 1919, outdueled Lefty Grove in two out of three games, 2-0, 5-6 and 11-4 and fanned 16 to Grove's 11 in the opening battle.

In 1920, Fike was with Jack Dunn's famed Orioles and posted a 14-14 record for Gabby Street's last place Suffolk team in the Virginia League in 1921 when an arm injury ended his diamond career.

Fike, who resides at 13 Mary street, retired last year after 45 years service here with the B. & O. Railroad.

Welu, Ladewig Lead In All-Star Bowling

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Billy Welu of St. Louis took over the lead Thursday night in the 22nd annual all-star bowling tournament with five decisions in eight games.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, of Grand Rapids, Mich., seven-time women's division all-star champion, retained her lead, despite losing her opening match to Betty Kuczynski of Chicago. Mrs. Ladewig regrouped by taking both games from defending champion Shirley Garms of Chicago, who skidded to the bottom of the list of 16 finalists after 12 games.

After 24 games in the men's division, the tournament appeared to be an all-St. Louis affair. Four St. Louis bowlers, Welu, defending champ Dick Weber, Ray Bluth and Don Carter, head the list of 16 finalists.

Problems Over Pittsburgh Stadium May Be Solved

Final Stumbling Block Appears To Be Removed

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The final stumbling block for a proposed municipal stadium appeared to be removed Thursday following a two-hour meeting between the Allegheny County Commissioners and the architects and prospective users of the plant.

Commission Chairman Dr. William D. McClelland said afterward:

"The commissioners have more light on the subject now and are better prepared to make an intelligent decision on whether or not this stadium is to be given the go sign."

McClelland said the session, which he termed "a right to know meeting" on behalf of county taxpayers, said it was "a satisfying meeting which brought out for the first time some of the things that would be in the contemplated leases."

Questions On Financing

The issues to which he referred were questions the commissioners raised concerning financing of the $45 million project, $23 million of which will go toward construction of the stadium.

They were:

—Are the leases for stadium and parking area operators adequately secured?

—Do they provide fair return to the public in the event of increased revenues over those now anticipated?

—Will monies earned be applied first to amortization of bonds?

—Will the public have a voice in the future development of air rights involved?

Want Assurances

Specifically, the commissioners wanted concrete assurances from the Pittsburgh Pirates, who would serve as operators of the stadium, that they could meet annual rental fees of $625,000 and from the Alco Corp. that it would post a $200,000 guaranty bond and pay $500,000 annually in fees.

All questions were answered in the affirmative.

Testifying before the commissioners were John Galbreath, president of the Pirates, Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Nicholas Stabile, vice president of Alco and Edward J. Magee, executive director of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development.

McClelland said he was pleased with the answers the men gave.

"Everybody cooperated real well, McClelland said. "The county commissioners should have an announcement shortly."

St. Patrick's of Cumberland's nine-game winning streak in the Catholic Youth League came to an end last night at the hands of SS. Peter and Paul's Flying Dutchmen, who snapped a halftime deadlock and went on to score a 36-23 victory.

The struggle highlighted a CYL tripleheader at the SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium, in which St. Michael's downed Mt. Savage St. Patrick's, 72-48, and St. Peter's of Westernport defeated St. Ambrose, 31-24.

Despite the streak-snapping setback, St. Patrick's maintained its hold on first place in the league standings with a 9-1 record. The victorious Dutchmen closed in, however, upping their mark to 7-2.

Tied At Halftime

The two clubs battled on even terms in the first half, which ended in a 14-14 tie. But the Dutchmen outscored the Fighting Irish 12-2 in the third frame and went on to atone for an earlier 37-34 defeat.

Teddy Mallow was the big man in the winners' scoring attack with 12 points, Mike Mullaney and Gary Neus excelled under the boards, and Kevin Mattingly and Pat McLean made the difference with their ball handling. Ricky Scaletta was high scorer for the losers with eight tallies.

St. Michael's of Frostburg gaind on idle St. Mary's in the standings by scoring victory number six in ten games. St. Mary's is in the third spot with a 6-3 log.

Arnold Scores 40

Regis Arnold exploded for 40 points, highest single game total of the season, in pacing the Frostburg quint's triumph. Arnold banged in 20 field goals to up his ten-game output to 191, for a 19.1 average. The losers' Joe Shaffer also had a productive evening, as he fired in 29 tallies.

St. Peter's played with only four players, but still managed to snap a three-game losing spin. Terry Davis led the Westernporters with 20 points, while Carl Cecil and Floyd Skelley had seven apiece for St. Ambrose.

Wall, Cupit Set Pace In Frisco Golf

Shoot 4-Under-Par 67's, Lead By Stroke

By Jack Stevenson
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran Pennsylvanian Art Wall and 24-year-old Texan Jacky Cupit conquered bumpy greens Thursday to share the first round lead in the $50,000 San Francisco International Open Golf Tournament with scores of 67, 4-under-par.

Five Tie For Second

They finished just one stroke ahead of five golfers—Charlie Sifford, Dick Mayer, Bobby Nichols, Phil Rodgers and Rookie Terry Dill over the Harding Park municipal course on a sunny day.

Wall, the 39-year old former Masters champion from Pocono Manor, Pa., fired three birdies and an eagle while collecting only one bogey on his ninth straight competitive round on which he bettered or equalled par.

Half Dozen Post 69s

A half dozen were bracketed at 69 including Billy Casper, winner of the Bing Crosby tournament Sunday and Canadian George Knudson who was runner-up to Gene Littler in the 1961 San Francisco event.

Also at 69 came Gardner Dickinson Jr., Miller Barber, Buster Cupit, Jacky's older brother, and Jack Bissegger from Val Morin, Canada, Wes Ellis Jr., West Caldwell, N. J., and Bud Holscher, North Hollywood, Calif.

Proposed Bill Would Restrict Ownership Of Maryland Tracks

Delegate Hoffman Will Introduce Legislation Today

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A Washington County delegate wants to keep persons who own a horse racing track in another state from operating one in Maryland.

Del. Irwin F. Hoffman, D-Washington, will introduce Friday a bill to refuse licenses to individuals or corporations whose majority of officers manage a track outside of Maryland.

Hoffman cited one specific example of Pimlico and Charles Town, W.Va., tracks which are controlled by the same people.

Bowie also is controlled by Canadian interests.

Hoffman's bill will come before the Maryland Legislature where the steam is beginning to rise as usual on horse racing.

Edward F. Farrell Jr., owner of the Marlboro Track, and Joseph M. Wyatt, a Baltimore lawyer, registered Thursday as lobbyists. Wyatt will represent Marlboro and the Rosecroft Harness Track at Oxon Hill.

Gov. Tawes has come out strongly for discontinuance of racing at Cumberland, Bel Air and Baltimore Raceway. The days would be transferred to Bowie, Pimlico, Laurel, and Timonium.

Farrell is protesting that the 24 days at Timonium would be unfair to his track and Hagerstown. All are half mile tracks.

Italy's Duilio Loi Gives Up Two Titles

Loi fought back tears and sobbed silently as he signed the official letters addressed to the World Boxing Association (WBA), the European Boxing Union (EBU) and the Italian Boxing Federation (IBF), announcing that he was stepping out of the ring—for good.

Duilio has been a professional since Aug. 29, 1948. Since then he had 126 fights. He won 89 on decisions, 25 on knockouts and one on a disqualification. He lost three decisions and had eight draws. He never was knocked out nor even floored.

Dodgers Get Don Zimmer

Traded By Reds For Scott Breeden

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Spunky Don Zimmer, whose heart was with the Los Angeles Dodgers the past three years while he toiled for other clubs, returned Thursday to his first love in baseball.

The Dodgers announced Thursday that they had acquired Zimmer from Cincinnati for minor league pitcher Scott Breeden who had been with their Omaha farm club and is being sent by the Reds to San Diego of the Coast League.

Despite the loss of the fiery infielder in 1960, the Dodgers ranked Zimmer's trade to the Chicago Cubs as one of the best deals they ever made. The Cubs gave up Ron Perranoski who has since become one of the top relief pitchers in the majors along with infielder John Goryl and outfielder Lee Handley as well as an estimated $25,000 for Zimmer.

But at the time of his trade, in April of 1960, Zimmer in his outspoken manner declared:

"I've never seen Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi make a bad trade, but I hope this will be his first bad one."

Zimmer had spent 11 years in the Dodgers organization and with the parent club had understudied the great Peewee Reese at shortstop, the job he felt he deserved until Maury Wills came up in 1959 to beat him out of it.

Swapson, $130,000 Yearling Purchase, Is 3d At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP) — John M. Olan's Swapson, a $130,000 yearling purchase, made his debut as a 3-year-old in the seven-the race at Hialeah today and finished third. Pitt Penna won the seven-furlong allowance race by 1½ lengths and Rough Em outfinished Swapson, the even-money favorite, by a neck for second money.

The winer, ridden by John Rotz, was timed in one minute, 24 4/5 seconds — three seconds over the track record — and paid $12.20, $6.50 and $3.90. Rough Em paid $21.20 and $10.20. Swapson paid $2.90 to show.

Swapson raced only twice last year as a 2-year-old, and did not make his racing debut until Nov. 6 at Garden State where he won impressively. In his second start, eight days later, he finished third. The son of Swaps-Obedient was deathly ill with pneumonia last spring and bucked his shins before trainer Arnold Winice finally got him to the races.

Maloney Is Seventh Cincy Player To Sign

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Fireball pitcher Jim Maloney Thursday became the seventh member of the Cincinnati Reds to send in his signed 1963 contract.

General Manager William O. DeWitt mailed out the contracts more than a week ago. Maloney, 22, started last season with the Reds, was sent to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League and was recalled in June.

Maloney posted a 7-4 record and 2.2 earned run average at San Diego. After his recall, he won 9 and lost 7 for Cincinnati.

Officials Close Bobsled Track For Rebuilding

Action Prompted By Second Crash

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY
UPI Sports Writer

IGLS, Austria (UPI)—Canadian racer Monty Gordon crashed at 60 miles an hour Thursday in training for the world two-man bobsled championships, forcing officials to close the track for rebuilding in the face of mounting protests from other riders.

Gordon, a 30-year-old Toronto stockbroker now working in New York, and brakeman Gordon Currie came to grief at exactly the same spot where the American tandem of Joe McKillip and Paul King crashed into the soft snow walls Wednesday.

Canadian coach Chuck Rathgeb said: "Monty will be okay. He is not hurt nearly as badly as we all feared when we pulled him from the run. He slashed the muscles under his chin and they have to be stitched."

Rathgeb said there was "little else wrong, we're delighted to say." He said earlier reports that Gordon suffered a dislocated left shoulder which had to be put in a plaster cast were wrong. "He'll be out in three or four days," Rathgeb said.

Thrown Clear

Currie escaped with a severe shaking because he was thrown clear—on to his head. He was wearing a helmet he claimed could take several tons of pressure but nearly half an inch had been scraped off it by the impact force.

"It was a hell of a lucky escape," he said.

The Americans, led by manager coach Stanley Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., immediately joined in protests with the Canadians, French, Belgians and others that this particular section of the final stretch was dangerous because the rocketing sleds were being caught by the soft snow walls.

Others Complain

His sentiments were echoed by the other squads and trial running was called off while several portions of the course were ice-packed on both sides. A packed snow layer was to be dumped on parts of the run floor to give the brakes a chance of gripping.

The racers may get a chance of a final trial run Saturday morning, a few hours before the scheduled first championship run. But officials were believed considering the idea of starting the championship in the morning five hours earlier than originally scheduled.

Ski Conditions Reported Good In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Old Man Winter has cooperated with outdoors sports fans by dumping as much as 6 to 10 inches of snow on West Virginia's major ski slopes.

The State Commerce Department reported Thursday that skiing conditions were excellent for the week end at all major four ski areas.

The department said conditions "have never been better" at Weiss Knob and Cabin Mountain near Davis, Tucker County, where the Alpine Festival is scheduled to start Friday. An eight-inch base and four inches of fresh powder snow was reported.

About 10 inches of the white stuff was reported at Chestnut Ridge near Morgantown and at Oglebay Park at Wheeling. Six to eight inches covered Bald Knob near Beckley.

Fairmont Cagers Quit School, Head For West Coast

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI) — Two Fairmont State College basketball players, including captain Fielding Yost, dropped out of school and apparently headed for the West Coast, it was reported Thursday.

Yost, an all-conference forward, had scored 236 points so far this season for an average of 19.6 per game. Prior to this season, Yost had piled up 1,142 points for Fairmont.

National League Teams Will Play 419 Under Stars

Houston Has Seven Sunday Night Tilts

CINCINNATI (AP)—It sounds strange but the National League will play fewer night games this year than it did in 1962.

The 1963 schedule, announced Thursday, shows the 10 clubs in the league have scheduled 419 games under the lights as compared with 421 last year. Actually, because of postponements and the like, 427 night games were played last year.

Houston, however, will play a major league record of 69 games at night and will play on Sunday nights after May 31. The special dispensation to permit Sunday night contests covers only the 1963 season. The Colts have seven Sunday night games on their program.

The 162-game schedule will cover 175 days, counting April 8 when Cincinnati opens at home against Pittsburgh in the only contest to be played. Cincinnati always is allowed to play its first game at home.

The rest of the openers will be April 9, with St. Louis at New York, Cincinnati at Philadelphia, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Chicago and San Francisco at Houston.

Bears Sign Barnett

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears Thursday announced the sibning of their No. 2 draft choice tackle Steve Barnett of the University of Oregon, for the 1963 season.

Shenandoah Downs Suspends Trainer For Six Months

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Paul C. Ellis of Keedysville, Md., was suspended from Shenandoah Downs Race Track for six months Thursday after a horse in his charge, Simon the Bold, tested positive to the drug dipyrone.

Ellis is the second trainer to be suspended since the winter meeting opened here. Trainer David Butler drew the same ban when a horse in his care tested positive to dipyrone two weeks ago.

Ellis' case was referred to the West Virginia Racing Commission.

All horses in the care of Ellis were immediately banned from the track pending their sale or transfer to other trainers acceptable to the track stewards.

Dipyrone is an analgesic used to deaden pain, and is injected either into the blood stream or muscle tissue.

Keller Among Trio Signed By Twins

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Three more players signed contracts with the Minnesota Twins Thursday, bringing to seven the number of signees in two days.

Latest to come under contract were John Goryl, utility infielder, and draftees Charley Keller, first baseman, and pitcher Gene Ross.

Keller hit .289 at Amarillo last season and Ross, a righthander with Kingsport, Tenn., led the Appalachian League with 113 strikeouts, and had a 6-5 record. Goryl hit .192 last year in 37 games.

Under the Communist regime, China is comprised of 21 provinces, including Formosa (Taiwan) which it claims.

NYU's Kramer Trails Seton Hall Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Nick Werkman of Seton Hall, the nation's major college scoring leader since the start of the basketball season, has opened up a four-point lead over his nearest challenger, Barry Kramer of New York University.

Werkman padded his average to 32.8 during the past week while taking advantage of Kramer's idleness. The sharpshooting junior clicked for 76 points in two games, according to figures released by the NCAA Service Bureau Thursday.

NYU, meanwhile, was inactive because of mid-year examinations and runner-up Kramer's average remained at 28.8. Records include games through last Tuesday.

Sophomore Bill Bradley of Princeton had the biggest gain, increasing his average from 26.3 to 27.3 to move into third place. Bradley found the range for 67 points in two games last week.

Jay Buckley of Duke continued as the most effective field goal marksman with a 66.0 per cent average by making 70 of 106 shots. Cincinnati's Ron Bonham still ranks as the top free throw shooter with a 92.4 per cent mark on 85 of 92 attempts. Paul Silas of Creighton has averaged 19.7 rebounds to maintain his supremacy in that department.

In team offense, undefeated Loyola of Chicago is setting the fastest early pace in major college history. The Ramblers have averaged an unprecedented 97.7 in 17 games compared to 88.6 for runner-up Illinois.

Liston-Patterson Bout Will Be Seen On Closed-Circuit

NEW YORK (UPI) — The return Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight at Miami Beach, April 4, will be sent on closed-circuit television to theaters in the United States and Canada, Tom Bolan announced Thursday.

Bolan, president of Championship Sports, Inc. (CSI) said: "We explored the possibilities of home television for this match but decided it would do much better on closed circuit."

He emphasized that "an informal survey by our people this week" indicated almost as much interest nationally in the Miami Beach bout as in the first fight at Chicago last Sept. 25, despite Liston's first-round victory at Chicago.

Notices to 10 possible bidders were sent out by CSI. Bids will be opened Monday afternoon at CSI headquarters in New York.

He disclosed that the gross take for the Chicago fight was more than $4,500,000 — including the gross live gate of $635,000 at Chicago's Comiskey Park and the gross receipts of $3,900,000 for theater-TV, radio, movies, etc. Owners of theaters and other locations got one half the gross receipts for theater television, Bolan said.

Seven Tigers Come To Terms

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers Thursday signed seven players for the coming season, all but one of them members of the 1962 squad.

Regan had an 11-9 record with Detroit last year. Gallagher, a southpaw, lost four early-season decisions with the Tigers and then went to Denver where he posted a 9-5 record.

Wood, regular second baseman, batted only .226 but led the club in stolen bases with 30. Wertz, used chiefly as a pinch - hitter, batted .324 and will be starting his 16th season in the majors.

Christino is an 18-year-old first baseman drafted by Detroit from Baltimore. He was with Bluefield, W. Va., last year and batted .246.

Brotherhood Group Honors Alvin Dark

At the same time, Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former president of the National Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Olympic Committee, was honored with the John Perry Bowditch Memorial Award.

Dark, who guided the Giants to the National League championship in 1962, is the first baseball figure to win the Sportsmanship Brotherhood Award since Stan Musial in 1958. Previous baseball representatives honored were Walter Johnson, Lou Gehrig, Mel Ott and Billie Southworth.

In announcing the awards, Daniel Chase, new president of Sportsmanship Brotherhood, said:

"Dark was honored not only for his fame as a player and manager but also on his qualifications as a man of integrity and character who, in his personal life and on the competitive field, has set an example of rectitude and the good sportsmanship for which the brotherhood stands."

Uelses Regains Amateur Status

Vaulter Enters Millrose Games

Directors of the Millrose games were notified of Uelses' reinstatement by Capt. Stephen Archer, secretary for the amateur Athletic Union.

Uelses was suspended by the AAU last year for accepting excessive expenses to compete in a meet in Florida. He since has returned the excessive expense money amounting to more than $130 and was reinstated by the Florida Association of the AAU.

Uelses, who enrolled at LaSalle University in Philadelphia following his discharge from the Marine Corps, vaulted 16 feet, ¼ inch last year in the Millrose Games to become the first man ever to clear the 16-foot barrier.

The following night in Boston, he topped that feat by one-half inch. His world indoor mark was broken last week by Pentti Nikula of Finland, who vaulted 16 feet, 2½ inches.

The entries include Dave Tork of Charleston, W. Va., and national outdoor champion Ron Morris of Los Angeles, both of whom have cleared 16 feet or higher. Others entered are Henry Wadsworth, the national indoor champion; John Belitza of Maryland, the NCAA co-champion; Maurice Houvion of France, making his American debut; Rolando Cruz of Villanova and Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern, a left-handed vaulter.

Ryan Is First Brown To Sign

Expected To Be Number One QB

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns announced Thursday that quarterback Frank Ryan was the first player to agree to terms for the 1963 football season.

Ryan, currently working on his doctor's degree in mathematics at Rice Institute, took over as quarterback midway through the 1962 season after Jim Ninowski suffered a fractured collarbone.

The 6-foot 3-inch Texan showed steady improvement and wound up with a fine 57.7 completion percentage, second only to Eddie LeBaron in this department.

Coach Blanton Collier, who announced the signing, said "based on his performance last year, Ryan has earned the right to first crack at the No. 1 job. Its' up to him to hang on to it."

Statistics show that during the 1962 season the 26-year-old Ryan hit on 112 of 194 attempts for 1,541 yards and 10 touchdowns. He had only seven passes intercepted—lowest in the league.

Collier, who succeeded Paul Brown recently as head coach, announced the signing shortly before leaving for Miami, where he will attend the annual National Football League meeting.

Bowling Green Coach Resigns

Anderson Quits After 21 Years

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) W. Harold Anderson, whose Bowling Green basketball teams ranked among the nation's finest during many of his 21 years as coach, announced his resignation Thursday.

"My health is good, but I want to keep it that way and devote more time to my family," Anderson said in announcing his resignation effective at the end of the current season. He will continue as the school's athletic director.

University President Ralph G. Harshman said Anderson's successor will be Warren J. Scholler, who currently is assistant basketball coach.

MacPhail Calls Orioles' Gaines Fastest In AL

Speedster Came From Cincinnati

BALTIMORE (AP) — President Lee MacPhail says the Baltimore Orioles will have the fastest man in the American League, perhaps the majors, this year.

The player is outfielder Joe Gaines, whom the Orioles bought from the Cincinnati Reds of the National League during the off-season.

"I think we can safely say that Gaines is the fastest man in the American League, if not the majors," MacPhail said.

Pat Friday, general manager of the Kansas City Athletics, has boasted in the past that the A's has the fastest player in centerfielder Jose Tartabull.

Crossing the finish line in first place, by a good margin, was Gaines. Second was Julio Gotay, recently traded by St. Louis to Pittsburgh, and Tartabull was third.

"The American League has some fast runners, including Mickey Mantle, Jim Landis, Chuck Hinton, Luis Aparicio, Lenny Green, Marv Breeding, Dick Howser, Russ Snyder and Tartabull," MacPhail said.

"But I don't think any of them are as fast as Gaines. Mantle in his prime, yes, but not now. I'll take Gaines.

"And although you might not get Cincinnati to admit it now, there are reliable reports that Gaines beat the Reds' Vada Pinson in a match race last year, and many people say that Pinson's the fastest in the National League."

Gaines, who batted only .231 in a reserve capacity with the [illegible] in 1962, led the Puerto Rican League in hitting this winter with a .348 average.

Johnson Wants Shot At Mina March 30 In New York Ring

But, Markson added regretfully, "Mina doesn't want to fight Johnson on that date, he says. He wants to fight him later in the year."

Said Markson: "If Mina really refuses to take this opportunity to win the title on March 30, we will have to match Johnson with some good heavyweight for an over-the-weight bout and let him make his title defense later against Mina or some other challenger."

Mina of Lima, champion of South America, registered his 34th straight victory last Friday night at Lima. Before a record Peruvian crowd of 45,000 in Lima's National Stadium, he again outpointed Eddie Cotton of Seattle.

Ex-Phillie Hurler Gets College Job

DETROIT (UPI) — Bob Miller, a former pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies for nine seasons, Thursday was named assistant baseball coach at the University of Detroit.

Miller, 36, had a 45-45 won-lost record in a career cut short in 1958 by a broken arm. He had an 11-5 mark when the Phillies won the National League pennant in 1950.

HOOP-DE-DO—One of the few cagers who shoots free throws via the underhanded form, Wilt Chamberlain of San Francisco shows you his style here. Most cagers use one-handed push-shots for the free throw. Wilt is averaging 47 points a game to lead the National Basketball Association.

TRADED — Don Zimmer, above, veteran Cincinnati Reds infielder, was traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers yesterday for Harold Scott Breeden, a righthanded pitcher. Breeden has been assigned to the Reds' San Diego farm club of the Pacific Coast League. The lump of chewing tobacco in Zimmer's cheek is practically a trade mark.

Dodgers Get Don Zimmer

Traded By Reds For Scott Breeden

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Spunky Don Zimmer, whose heart was with the Los Angeles Dodgers the past three years while he toiled for other clubs, returned Thursday to his first love in baseball.

The Dodgers announced Thursday that they had acquired Zimmer from Cincinnati for minor league pitcher Scott Breeden who had been with their Omaha farm club and is being sent by the Reds to San Diego of the Coast League.

Despite the loss of the fiery infielder in 1960, the Dodgers ranked Zimmer's trade to the Chicago Cubs as one of the best deals they ever made. The Cubs gave up Ron Perranoski who has since become one of the top relief pitchers in the majors along with infielder John Goryl and outfielder Lee Handley as well as an estimated $25,000 for Zimmer.

But at the time of his trade, in April of 1960, Zimmer in his outspoken manner declared:

"I've never seen Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi make a bad trade, but I hope this will be his first bad one."

Zimmer had spent 11 years in the Dodgers organization and with the parent club had understudied the great Peewee Reese at shortstop, the job he felt he deserved until Maury Wills came up in 1959 to beat him out of it.

Swapson, $130,000 Yearling Purchase, Is 3d At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP) — John M. Olan's Swapson, a $130,000 yearling purchase, made his debut as a 3-year-old in the seventhe race at Hialeah today and finished third. Pitt Penna won the seven-furlong allowance race by 1½ lengths and Rough Em outfinished Swapson, the even-money favorite, by a neck for second money.

The winer, ridden by John Rotz, was timed in one minute, 24 4/5 seconds — three seconds over the track record — and paid $12.20, $6.50 and $3.90. Rough Em paid $21.20 and $10.20. Swapson paid $2.90 to show.

Swapson raced only twice last year as a 2-year-old, and did not make his racing debut until Nov. 6 at Garden State where he won impressively. In his second start, eight days later, he finished third. The son of Swaps-Obedient was deathly ill with pneumonia last spring and bucked his shins before trainer Arnold Winice finally got him to the races.

Maloney Is Seventh Cincy Player To Sign

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Fireball pitcher Jim Maloney Thursday became the seventh member of the Cincinnati Reds to send in his signed 1963 contract.

General Manager William O. DeWitt mailed out the contracts more than a week ago. Maloney, 22, started last season with the Reds, was sent to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League and was recalled in June.

Maloney posted a 7-4 record and 2.2 earned run average at San Diego. After his recall, he won 9 and lost 7 for Cincinnati.

Ski Conditions Reported Good In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Old Man Winter has cooperated with outdoors sports fans by dumping as much as 6 to 10 inches of snow on West Virginia's major ski slopes.

The State Commerce Department reported Thursday that skiing conditions were excellent for the week end at all major four ski areas.

The department said conditions "have never been better" at Weiss Knob and Cabin Mountain near Davis, Tucker County, where the Alpine Festival is scheduled to start Friday. An eight-inch base and four inches of fresh powder snow was reported.

About 10 inches of the white stuff was reported at Chestnut Ridge near Morgantown and at Oglebay Park at Wheeling. Six to eight inches covered Bald Knob near Beckley.

Fairmont Cagers Quit School, Head For West Coast

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI) — Two Fairmont State College basketball players, including captain Fielding Yost, dropped out of school and apparently headed for the West Coast, it was reported Thursday.

Yost, an all-conference forward, had scored 236 points so far this season for an average of 19.6 per game. Prior to this season, Yost had piled up 1,142 points for Fairmont.

Officials Close Bobsled Track For Rebuilding

Action Prompted By Second Crash

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY
UPI Sports Writer

IGLS, Austria (UPI)—Canadian racer Monty Gordon crashed at 60 miles an hour Thursday in training for the world two-man bobsled championships, forcing officials to close the track for rebuilding in the face of mounting protests from other riders.

Gordon, a 30-year-old Toronto stockbroker now working in New York, and brakeman Gordon Currie came to grief at exactly the same spot where the American tandem of Joe McKillip and Paul King crashed into the soft snow walls Wednesday.

Canadian coach Chuck Rathgeb said: "Monty will be okay. He is not hurt nearly as badly as we all feared when we pulled him from the run. He slashed the muscles under his chin and they have to be stitched."

Rathgeb said there was "little else wrong, we're delighted to say." He said earlier reports that Gordon suffered a dislocated left shoulder which had to be put in a plaster cast were wrong. "He'll be out in three or four days," Rathgeb said.

Thrown Clear

Currie escaped with a severe shaking because he was thrown clear—on to his head. He was wearing a helmet he claimed could take several tons of pressure but nearly half an inch had been scraped off it by the impact force.

"It was a hell of a lucky escape," he said.

The Americans, led by manager coach Stanley Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., immediately joined in protests with the Canadians, French, Belgians and others that this particular section of the final stretch was dangerous because the rocketing sleds were being caught by the soft snow walls.

Others Complain

His sentiments were echoed by the other squads and trial running was called off while several portions of the course were ice-packed on both sides. A packed snow layer was to be dumped on parts of the run floor to give the brakes a chance of gripping.

The racers may get a chance of a final trial run Saturday morning, a few hours before the scheduled first championship run. But officials were believed considering the idea of starting the championship in the morning five hours earlier than originally scheduled.

National League Teams Will Play 419 Under Stars

Houston Has Seven Sunday Night Tilts

CINCINNATI (AP)—It sounds strange but the National League will play fewer night games this year than it did in 1962.

The 1963 schedule, announced Thursday, shows the 10 clubs in the league have scheduled 419 games under the lights as compared with 421 last year. Actually, because of postponements and the like, 427 night games were played last year.

Houston, however, will play a major league record of 69 games at night and will play on Sunday nights after May 31. The special dispensation to permit Sunday night contests covers only the 1963 season. The Colts have seven Sunday night games on their program.

The 162-game schedule will cover 175 days, counting April 8 when Cincinnati opens at home against Pittsburgh in the only contest to be played. Cincinnati always is allowed to play its first game at home.

The rest of the openers will be April 9, with St. Louis at New York, Cincinnati at Philadelphia, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Chicago and San Francisco at Houston.

Bears Sign Barnett

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears Thursday announced the sibning of their No. 2 draft choice tackle Steve Barnett of the University of Oregon, for the 1963 season.

Easy to wear and easy on the eyes — that's '63's chic, versatile sweater-suit.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

How To Look Very '63

If you've been longing to transfuse a tired wardrobe with at least ONE garment that is distinctly '63 in concept, read on. Here are some of the newest of fashion's new ideas that show every sign of catching on — just because they ARE new, not just a repititious retread on run-of-the-mill spring styles. (And, happily, they're classic enough NOT to be classified as fads!)

Suit designs embrace two of fashion's inspirations — one, the sweater-suit with the long, lean jacket that zips or pulls right over the head; the other, a three-piece (or more) coordinated suit. The jacket and skirt come equipped with a just-right blouse. Other coordinates available for the same jacket and skirt, to be purchased as separates, are sleeveless camisoles, sweater blouses, overblouses, shirts and vests. Keep looking — and asking — for these in your favorite shops.

Shifts have weathered their fall and winter trials very well, emerge for spring in all the new fabrics and colors. One practical variation of the slim, spare shift is the coat-dress, eminently wearable and feminine in wool jersey or silk crepe. Another shift-y notion is applied to uniforms (where fashion and free-action comfort must go hand-in-hand). The shift-style uniform is particularly well adapted to the latest innovation in uniform fabrics — jersey.

Stark-white, which is probably the easiest and most inexpensive way to make your wardrobe look VERY '63 in a hurry, is about to make a big play this spring for the honors as the favorite year-round fashion color. White, in anything, will be right. But you'll achieve that haute couture effect as well if you have a white coat to slip over your colored dresses (and the darker and richer the color, the better).

Even the most up-to-date, well-coordinated wardrobe can't cover up for worn-out or ill-fitting underpinnings. Check your bras and foundations to see if any need replacement. A good checklist is contained in my pamphlet, "Figured for You," available when you address me, John Robert Powers, care of this newspaper.

Be sure to mail 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your booklet request; delivery will be made in two weeks.

Many People

tions must not be operated for personal profit, not carry on propaganda nor engage in lobbying in Congress or other law-making bodies. Political contributions, whether to parties or individual candidates, may not be deducted.

In general, a deduction for donations may not exceed 20 per cent of income. But it may go as high as 30 per cent if the extra 10 per cent covers donations to churches and certain other tax-exempt organizations.

Employe Expenses: If you incurred business expenses, such as travel or auto use, for your employer for which you were not reimbursed, or only partly reimbursed. The net cost to you is deductible. To take this deduction you must do two things: (1) Itemize all expenses you had, including those for which your employer paid; (2) Include his advances or reimbursements to you in your income.

People such as outside salesmen who have substantial amounts of unreimbursed employe expenses would be well advised to deduct these expenses directly from their gross income on line 1, page 1, of Form 1040, rather than as itemized deductions on page 2 of the form. You still have to account for the expenses, of course. But if they are deducted directly from your income on page 1, you may then find it more profitable to take the standard 10 per cent deduction rather than itemized deductions. This is a perfectly legal procedure and the rules are laid out on page 4 of the little booklet which accompanies your Form 1040.

Education Expenses: You may deduct education expenses incurred primarily to maintain or improve skills required in your present job, business or profession, or to meet requirements to keep your present position. The expense is not deductible if its primary purpose was to qualify the taxpayer for a better job, higher salary or new type of work or to fulfill his general educational aspirations.

Miscellaneous Deductions: You may claim deductions for money or property stolen from you; for damage to your property caused by flood, storms, explosion, freezing or lightning; for damage suffered by your automobile in an accident, or your home in a fire. However, you may deduct only losses not covered by insurance. If part of the loss was covered by insurance, you can claim the uninsured part.

Gambling losses are deductible only as an offset to gambling winnings reported on your tax return.

You can also deduct such costs as union or professional society dues; fees paid to employment agencies; and safe deposit box rent.

Unemployment Rises

LONDON (UPI) — The number of unemployed in Britain rose this month to 814,632 — the highest figure since February, 1947, Labor Ministry figures showed Thursday. Much of the rise from last month's figure of 566,000 unemployed was due to lay-offs in the building industry as the result of cold weather.

GOP To Probe Ted Kennedy's Campaign Costs

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts House, though Democratic by a wide margin, rejected Wednesday a move to condemn a Republican bid to look into campaign expenses of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Republican State Committee adopted a plan Tuesday calling for the inquiry into Kennedy's campaign costs. A resolution to condemn the GOP plan then was brought in by Speaker John F. Thompson, Ludlow Democrat.

Thompson's resolution had called the Republican move politically motivated and asked the House to "assert our complete faith and confidence in the honesty and integrity of United States Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and the entire Kennedy family."

The House vote — 148-64 — obviously was a blow to the Democratic leadership. Democrats hold 150 House seats to 90 for the Republicans.

Rep. Gerard F. Doherty, D-Boston, Democratic state chairman and one of the principal managers of Sen. Kennedy's campaign last year, said he had voted against the Thompson resolution, along with many other Democrats. He asserted Sen. Kennedy doesn't need the endorsement of the House—"he has the endorsement of the people of Massachusetts."

Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss, Republican floor leader, said the GOP state committee proposal called for an investigation, and a report to the secretary of state and attorney general.

He said if it was found Kennedy's expenditures did exceed his campaign expense reports, it might be reported also to the U.S. Senate.

Brickner Swims In Icy River

Gus Brickner, the "Human Polar Bear" from Charleroi, Pa., who conquered Deep Creek Lake three summers ago, broke his own record for splashing around in ice-encrusted Monongahela River yesterday.

The thermometer read 18 degrees below zero and Brickner, the steelworker, swam around in the river at Charleroi for six minutes after a towboat had cut an opening in the ice surface.

Emerging from his frigid frivolity in the frozen foam, Brickner proclaimed he had broken his previous record for cold weather swimming.

"My old mark was set on December 10, 1950, when the mercury was 12 below zero," he said. "I beat that by six degrees today."

They were parrots, being brought across the border for sale.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — During a speech in Tucson, George Paterson, Canadian consul general in Los Angeles, was asked about the possibility of one government for both Canada and the United States.

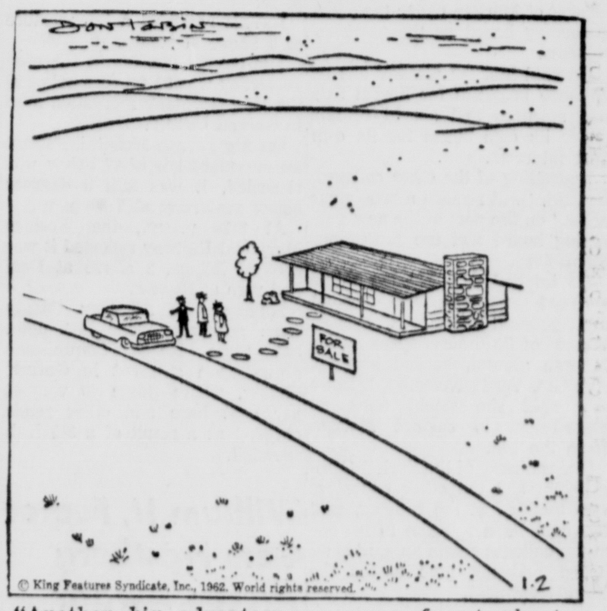

Paterson replied, "We wouldn't mind taking you in as a province, but don't bring your national debt with you."

Who Better?

The San Rafel Lions Club, that's who.

LITTLE WOMAN

"Another big advantage—you can forget about always having to keep up with the neighbors!"

"Sometimes I think I made a mistake when I encouraged Emily to take up golf."

Hearty Backing Voiced For New Education Plan

Morgan Wants To Retain Its Board

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Overwhelming approval was expressed at a legislative hearing Thursday for a new system of higher education in Maryland which would convert the five state teachers colleges into four-year arts and science institutions.

Spokesman for Morgan State College protested strongly a recommendation which would place the school with the teacher colleges under a single state college board of trustees but otherwise endorsed the plan.

The plan, put forth by a study commission headed by John N. Curlett of Baltimore, calls for a tripartite system of higher education.

The University of Maryland, operating under its board of regents, would form one branch. The teachers colleges and Morgan would form another. Community colleges of the state, operating under the state board of education, would form the third.

Hearing Slated

The commission recommended that their efforts be coordinated by an advisory council on higher education, made up of three members each from the different governing boards.

Chairman of the senate and house education committees indicated that there is considerable sentiment to go beyond this and spell out, either by law or in a resolution, that the advisory board should also include lay members and other education interests.

The senate committee is expected to take up the bill for action next week.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland, predicted that the Curlett Commission Report, if adopted by the legislature, "in time will become known as a landmark in higher education in the state of Maryland."

"It will enable us to accommodate the larger enrollments that we know are coming," he told the legislators.

He said it also will benefit different regions of the state where teachers colleges are now located by offering full college programs. And he said it should increase the number of students going into teaching instead of adversely affecting programs of the teacher colleges.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools who has opposed some previous plans for converting the teacher colleges, also warmly endorsed the proposal.

Supports Bill

"The state board of education supports this bill without question," he said. It predicted it would be "the answer to a problem that has plagued us for a very long time."

Spokesmen for the state teachers association, the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Association of County School Superintendents also endorsed it.

The biggest protest came from Morgan officials and alumni.

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, college president, and a member of the Curlett Commission, said he favors the report except for the inclusion of Morgan under the same governing board as the teachers' colleges.

He said Morgan already has an advance program for liberal arts and sciences and should remain under its own board for its own best interests.

Upgrading of the other colleges, he said, "will require a prodigious effort" on the part of the new governing board and the institutions themselves.

He implied that Morgan would suffered financially from such an arrangement. The Rev. James H. Wooten of Baltimore, speaking for Morgan alumni, backed him up. And Sen. Verda Welcome, D-Balto 4th, said she would offer an amendment to exempt Morgan from the bill.

The majority of the Curlett Commission, and the other educators who testified at the hearing, said it would be a mistake to let one of the colleges retain an individual board and not give others the same treatment.

Winter Fairyland

Small Home Burns At Wellersburg

The four-room house of Mr. and Mrs. John Sturtz was termed a total loss by firemen who said the Sturtz family lost all its possessions in the blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturtz have two children, a girl, eight, and a boy, four, and they discovered the fire in the kitchen. Mrs. Sturtz was ill in bed and the children warned her of the fire.

Mr. Sturtz, who also has been ill for some time, was at the home of a neighbor tending the neighbor's fire.

Firemen said the fire was well under way when they arrived about 5 p. m. and little could be done to save the home. Firemen from the Wellersburg Volunteer Fire Company said they were hampered getting men to the scene because their siren was frozen.

Official Urges Solution For River Problem

Carver Addresses ICPRB Delegates

Assistant Secretary of the Interior John A. Carver, a native of Idaho, reminded some 100 persons attending the banquet last night of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin that "every schoolboy accords the Potomac a special dignity as a national river."

The two-day winter meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin ends at noon today at the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria, Va.

"John Smith's delightfully incompetent forays upon the Potomac; George Washington's home and his tomb on its banks; the national capital city astride it—it is simply accepted that the federal government has a special role."

Secretary Carver pointed to the difference between analysis and solution of problems. The Potomac has never lacked for "planning" nor for intensive analysis, he said.

"A recommendation of the monumental report of Morris Cooks, Lee Olds, Gil White et al, 'Ten Rivers in America's Future,' now 12 years and more old, prompts a bleak thought or two about the gap between problem analysis and problem solution. Therein was a discussion of conflict between plans for storage reservoirs and interests of local groups in preventing land inundation; between water development and highways, and between water development and park, parkway, and recreational uses.

A Special Interest

"As the manager for the people of the United States of a lot of land within the basin, the Department has what might be called a proprietary interest. The National Capital Region of the Park Service administers 41,000 acres in Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, to which must be added 75,000 acres of Shenandoah National Park within the Potomac drainage and 5,000 or 6,000 acres in historical parks like Gettysburg, Bull Run, Antietam, Harpers Ferry and the like. This is watershed land, much of it a part of the river environment, such as the C&O Canal. As a land manager for the landowners, the people, we react like any other landowner. A pure river is a part of the value of the land."

Mr. Carver also touched on Mockley Point, across the Potomac from Mount Vernon. He noted that Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall was horrified to learn that a water and sewer agency proposed to build a sewage treatment plant on Mockley Point, clearly visible from Mount Vernon. As a result of his interest, the treatment plant will be constructed at another point, Mr. Carver said.

Delegates Visit Project

Yesterday afternoon most of the delegates attending the winter meeting went on a 25-mile bus trip to the new Dulles International Airport opened in November astride Fairfax and Loudoun counties in northern Virginia.

During the tour, the conservationists were shown three sewage lagoons which will serve the 9,880-acre airport until an interceptor sewer across the Potomac River is completed later this year.

The guide stressed that the Dulles International Airport will become self-sustaining, and said that its $250,000,000 cost will be repaid in 20 years.

Carl J. Johnson, executive secretary of the Interstate Commission, told the group yesterday, that pollution in the Potomac in the Cumberland area since 1957 has declined with the installation of the Cumberland primary sewage treatment plant and the secondary treatment plant at Westernport.

"At the same time the water in the Cumberland area is still not of the quality needed by industrial or other users," Johnson stated.

"We must review the progress made in recent years, the present status of the river and plans and intentions of municipalities, states, counties and industries involved and seek to establish quality objectives and time schedules," Johnson declared.

Johnson also said it will be necessary to have a strong program to prevent the introduction of coal mine acids in the three states of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania where the Potomac River basin is affected.

Mr. Johnson said that unless preventive programs are developed to prevent coal mine acids entering the Potomac River basin stream from electric power plants which use coal as fuel, the pollution from this source will increase materially.

Bitter Cold Retains Grip On This Area

Temperature Here Dips To 9 Below

The bitter cold weather which moved into this area Wednesday night maintained its grip upon the Cumberland area yesterday and no immediate improvement is in sight.

The near-record cold closed schools in Allegany County and cut school attendance in Garrett County.

It was a day of inconvenience to most residents of the area and a day of tragedy to members of a Wellersburg, Pa., family whose home burned to the ground in late afternoon.

Temperatures rose to about 12 above in downtown Cumberland yesterday afternoon, and it seemed warmer since the high winds lessened at daybreak.

As the sun went down, the thermometer began to dip and it was down to 6 above here at 8:30 p. m.

On Big Savage Mountain, where an overnight low of 27 below was recorded, it was still 8 degrees below yesterday at 7:30 p. m.

At 8:30 p. m., the Western Maryland Railway reported it was zero at Elkins, 2 above at Deal and zero at Bowest.

Alpine Festival One Of Many Events In Area

West Virginia will be celebrating, all during 1963, its admission to the Union June 20, 1863, under an Act of Congress signed 60 days earlier by President Abraham Lincoln.

The Alpine Festival, which will include competition in skiing and skating for the governor's centennial cup and trophy, also will see the coronation of Queen Alpine at a ball in Davis tomorrow night.

Next event scheduled in the area is the ninth annual Winter Carnival at Blackwater Falls State Park and on the Canaan Valley Ski Slopes, under sponsorship of the Ski Club of Washington.

A house and garden tour is scheduled at Harpers Ferry April 19-21, and a more extensive tour sponsored by the Shenandoah-Potomac Garden Council will include various points in Berkeley and Jefferson counties April 27 and 28. Among the places to be visited are Charles Town, Harpers Ferry, Martinsburg and Shepherdstown.

West Virginia area band festivals will be held May 3 and 4 at Romney, Bluefield, Clarksburg and Huntington.

May 3 and 5 will be Old Heidelberg Weekend at Harpers Ferry, and the Yank and Rebel Club will hold its annual meeting there at the same time.

The Second Annual Wildflower Pilgrimage will be held May 15-17 at Blackwater Falls State Park, sponsored by the Raleigh County Garden Council.

There will be a Civil War period costume contest June 1 and 2 at Harpers Ferry, Centennial House and Garden Tours at Moorefield June 8 and 9, and the annual West Virginia Strawberry Festival at Buckhannon June 13-15, with a parade, a queen coronation, strawberry auctions and fireworks.

Thirteen cars of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train derailed at Rawlings at noon yesterday.

Nobody was injured in the accident, which blocked the No. 2 track. Officials said last night that the wreckage should be cleared at any time.

Derailed were 13 cars near the rear of a coal train eastbound from Grafton to Cumberland.

ABL Announces Working Force To Be Reduced

Layoffs May Affect Third Of Personnel

John C. Foster, plant manager of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, yesterday announced that there will be a reduction in the work force at the rocket facility.

In making the announcement, Mr. Foster said, "It is with the greatest reluctance that I am forced to announce a cut-back of effort at ABL. We now know that the work level for 1963 will be lower than that of 1962.

"Several programs, which have been in the research and development stage in recent years, are now entering the production phase. As of today, no new research and development programs have been funded to replace those which have been completed."

Plans for the reduction in force have been formulated, the plant manager said, adding it is anticipated that the cut-back will eventually affect up to one-third of the working force at the research laboratory. First quarter plans include the reduction of the work force by approximately 100 people per month. The plant presently employs about 3,200 persons.

Those affected will be given severance pay and vacation pay in accordance with the established policy of Hercules Powder Company, Foster said. In determining the layoff, an important item of consideration will be the length of service of the employes involved, he continued. In addition, every effort will be made to inform those affected workers as far in advance of their termination date as possible.

Wherever possible, Mr. Foster stated, qualified personnel will be relocated at one of Hercules' other chemical propulsion plants. For those employes who cannot be relocated or who do not care to relocate, effort will be made to find them employment in the immediate area.

ABL's personnel section is establishing an office to provide assistance to those employes whose jobs have been cut because of the reduction of work, it was announced.

Congressman Harley O. Staggers said that he had contacted the White House and Department of Defense yesterday with regard to the cutback in the ABL work force.

He said he had informed the White House and Pentagon of the "good job being done at ABL," and urged them to explore every avenue with a view to keeping employment at the present level.

Rep. Staggers urged that the rocket facility be awarded new contracts and projects that would lead to expansion of the laboratory and its work force.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall announced he has protested the cutback on the ground that ABL's contribution to the nation's defense effort does not justify any reduction in employment.

The senator said he has been conducting conferences with Hercules and Bureau of Naval Weapons officials to determine the feasibility of having the powder firm lease the ABL property from the Navy.

Senator Beall explained that if this plan can be worked out Hercules then would be enabled to

C & O Canal Rec Plan To Be Aired

Plans for developing the Candoc skating area of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal here as a year-around recreation center will be discussed today at 9:30 a. m. at a meeting in City Hall.

Representing the National Parks Service will be Edwin M. Dale, area superintendent.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney, Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder, Recreation Director C. Eugene Mason and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum will represent the City of Cumberland.

The National Parks Service, in cooperation with the City of Cumberland, threw up earth dams and built sluice gates at the downstream end of the Candoc in the fall of 1962, providing a 2,000 foot long area for ice skating.

The area is furnishing excellent ice skating at present, and the city is interested in seeing the area developed to the point where it would provide a complete recreation program throughout the year.

Gephart, Candoc Areas Available For Ice Skating

The area has been flooded in stages and the final water was placed in the rink last night. Skating will be available there today from 7 to 10 p. m., Mr. Mason said.

Good use was being made of the Condoc skating area on the C & O Canal yesterday. Mr. Mason said caution was advised since the ice was still soft in a few spots yesterday.

Bridge Class Starts Tonight At Civic Club

An intermediate bridge class, sponsored by the Recreation Department, begins tonight at Woman's Civic Club. Registration is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. with play to start at 8 p.m.

The class is limited but there are a few openings available. Registration can be made by calling the Rec Department.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director, said the 14 week class is a continuation of the Goren Point System beginners course. J. D. Paddleford is the instructor.

Car Inspection Plan Back At Starting Point

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Auto inspection seemed to be going around in circles Thursday at the Maryland Legislature while mandatory chemical tests for suspected drunken drivers inched ahead.

A house subcommittee decided to prepare a new bill that would require periodic inspection of motor vehicles at private garages.

This would take the state back to the starting point in the debate over whether all vehicles ought to be checked for safety to continue operating in Maryland.

Shy At Cost

The state junked a private garage inspection system about 20 years ago. Arguments over whether to revive it with improvements or have the state do its own inspecting have been going for years.

This time it appeared that the state system would be the favorite. It was recommended by a study commission, endorsed by the state officials and Gov. Tawes also said he would support state operation.

However, there was a lot of backing off when it became clear it would cost $6 million as a beginning to build the inspection stations and more than $4 million a year to man them.

A variety of alternate plans were offered. A subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee was given the task of sifting the various proposals and offering one.

Del. Roy N. Staten, D-Balto County, said the six members voted to draft a bill for inspections at private garages licensed by the state. The State Police would supervise them.

Is Close Vote

The House Judiciary Committee struggled over whether drivers arrested on suspicion of intoxication should be forced to take a chemical test or face penalty.

The committee narrowly approved, 14-11, a proposal that drivers would imply their consent to submit to such a test upon receiving their license. If they refuse, their license would be suspended automatically and reinstated if they are found innocent in court.

Chairman Thomas H. Lowe, D-Talbot, anticipated from the committee vote that the question will be tossed around considerably when it reaches the house floor.

Police now may ask drivers to submit to tests for drunkeness, but it is strictly voluntary. Refusal cannot even be mentioned at any trial.

Fire Destroys Four Buildings At Rowlesburg

Firemen battled the blaze in sub-zero weather. Si Ferris' restaurant and three houses had been destroyed before 11:30 p. m., and the fire was reported spreading to other buildings.

There were no reports of injuries.

Man Is Given Suspended Term

Kenneth W. Walters, 51, Bowman's Addition, was given a two-year suspended sentence yesterday in Juvenile Court for contributing to the deliquency of a minor.

Fire Companies Are Inspected

A representative of the Fire Underwriters is completing a routine inspection of Allegany County volunteer fire companies and their fire fighting equipment in connection with fire insurance rates for those residents served by the firemen.

David E. Kirk, public relations, Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association, said many of the 21 companies in Allegany County were instructed to put equipment that had been placed on an equipment truck back on the pumper where it belongs.

About eight of the companies were instructed to put a fire siren control button next to the telephone where fire calls are reported. In some cases the siren control button was located some distance from the telephone.

Pumps of the fire fighting equipment of the companies are inspected and must come up to specifications and meet the requirements of the Underwriters.

Easy to wear and easy on the eyes — that's '63's chic, versatile sweater-suit.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

How To Look Very '63

If you've been longing to transfuse a tired wardrobe with at least ONE garment that is distinctly '63 in concept, read on. Here are some of the newest of fashion's new ideas that show every sign of catching on — just because they ARE new, not just a repititious retread on run-of-the-mill spring styles. (And, happily, they're classic enough NOT to be classified as fads!)

Suit designs embrace two of fashion's inspirations — one, the sweater-suit with the long, lean jacket that zips or pulls right over the head; the other, a three-piece (or more) coordinated suit. The jacket and skirt come equipped with a just-right blouse. Other coordinates available for the same jacket and skirt, to be purchased as separates, are sleeveless camisoles, sweater blouses, overblouses, shirts and vests. Keep looking — and asking — for these in your favorite shops.

Shifts have weathered their fall and winter trials very well, emerge for spring in all the new fabrics and colors. One practical variation of the slim, spare shift is the coat-dress, eminently wearable and feminine in wool jersey or silk crepe. Another shift-y notion is applied to uniforms (where fashion and free-action comfort must go hand-in-hand). The shift-style uniform is particularly well adapted to the latest innovation in uniform fabrics — jersey.

Stark-white, which is probably the easiest and most inexpensive way to make your wardrobe look VERY '63 in a hurry, is about to make a big play this spring for the honors as the favorite year-round fashion color. White, in anything, will be right. But you'll achieve that haute couture effect as well if you have a white coat to slip over your colored dresses (and the darker and richer the color, the better).

Even the most up-to-date, well-coordinated wardrobe can't cover up for worn-out or ill-fitting underpinnings. Check your bras and foundations to see if any need replacement. A good checklist is contained in my pamphlet, "Figured for You," available when you address me, John Robert Powers, care of this newspaper.

Be sure to mail 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your booklet request; delivery will be made in two weeks.

Many People

tions must not be operated for personal profit, not carry on propaganda nor engage in lobbying in Congress or other law-making bodies. Political contributions, whether to parties or individual candidates, may not be deducted.

In general, a deduction for donations may not exceed 20 per cent of income. But it may go as high as 30 per cent if the extra 10 per cent covers donations to churches and certain other tax-exempt organizations.

Employe Expenses: If you incurred business expenses, such as travel or auto use, for your employer for which you were not reimbursed, or only partly reimbursed. The net cost to you is deductible. To take this deduction you must do two things: (1) Itemize all expenses you had, including those for which your employer paid; (2) Include his advances or reimbursements to you in your income.

People such as outside salesmen who have substantial amounts of unreimbursed employe expenses would be well advised to deduct these expenses directly from their gross income on line 1, page 1, of Form 1040, rather than as itemized deductions on page 2 of the form. You still have to account for the expenses, of course. But if they are deducted directly from your income on page 1, you may then find it more profitable to take the standard 10 per cent deduction rather than itemized deductions. This is a perfectly legal procedure and the rules are laid out on page 4 of the little booklet which accompanies your Form 1040.

Education Expenses: You may deduct education expenses incurred primarily to maintain or improve skills required in your present job, business or profession, or to meet requirements to keep your present position. The expense is not deductible if its primary purpose was to qualify the taxpayer for a better job, higher salary or new type of work or to fulfill his general educational aspirations.

Miscellaneous Deductions: You may claim deductions for money or property stolen from you; for damage to your property caused by flood, storms, explosion, freezing or lightning; for damage suffered by your automobile in an accident, or your home in a fire. However, you may deduct only losses not covered by insurance. If part of the loss was covered by insurance, you can claim the uninsured part.

Gambling losses are deductible only as an offset to gambling winnings reported on your tax return.

You can also deduct such costs as union or professional society dues; fees paid to employment agencies; and safe deposit box rent.

Much of the rise from last month's figure of 566,000 unemployed was due to lay-offs in the building industry as the result of cold weather.

GOP To Probe Ted Kennedy's Campaign Costs

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts House, though Democratic by a wide margin, rejected Wednesday a move to condemn a Republican bid to look into campaign expenses of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Republican State Committee adopted a plan Tuesday calling for the inquiry into Kennedy's campaign costs. A resolution to condemn the GOP plan then was brought in by Speaker John F. Thompson, Ludlow Democrat.

Thompson's resolution had called the Republican move politically motivated and asked the House to "assert our complete faith and confidence in the honesty and integrity of United States Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and the entire Kennedy family."

Sen. Kennedy is a brother of President Kennedy and of U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The House vote — 148-64 — obviously was a blow to the Democratic leadership. Democrats hold 150 House seats to 90 for the Republicans.

Rep. Gerard F. Doherty, D-Boston, Democratic state chairman and one of the principal managers of Sen. Kennedy's campaign last year, said he had voted against the Thompson resolution, along with many other Democrats. He asserted Sen. Kennedy doesn't need the endorsement of the House—"he has the endorsement of the people of Massachusetts."

Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss, Republican floor leader, said the GOP state committee proposal called for an investigation, and a report to the secretary of state and attorney general.

He said if it was found Kennedy's expenditures did exceed his campaign expense reports, it might be reported also to the U.S. Senate.

Brickner Swims In Icy River

Gus Brickner, the "Human Polar Bear" from Charleroi, Pa., who conquered Deep Creek Lake three summers ago, broke his own record for splashing around in ice-encrusted Monongahela River yesterday.

The thermometer read 18 degrees below zero and Brickner, the steelworker, swam around in the river at Charleroi for six minutes after a towboat had cut an opening in the ice surface.

Emerging from his frigid frivolity in the frozen foam, Brickner proclaimed he had broken his previous record for cold weather swimming.

"My old mark was set on December 10, 1950, when the mercury was 12 below zero," he said. "I beat that by six degrees today."

Hearty Backing Voiced For New Education Plan

Morgan Wants To Retain Its Board

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Overwhelming approval was expressed at a legislative hearing Thursday for a new system of higher education in Maryland which would convert the five state teachers colleges into four-year arts and science institutions.

Spokesman for Morgan State College protested strongly a recommendation which would place the school with the teacher colleges under a single state college board of trustees but otherwise endorsed the plan.

The plan, put forth by a study commission headed by John N. Curlett of Baltimore, calls for a tripartite system of higher education.

The University of Maryland, operating under its board of regents, would form one branch. The teachers colleges and Morgan would form another. Community colleges of the state, operating under the state board of education, would form the third.

Hearing Slated

The commission recommended that their efforts be coordinated by an advisory council on higher education, made up of three members each from the different governing boards.

Chairman of the senate and house education committees indicated that there is considerable sentiment to go beyond this and spell out, either by law or in a resolution, that the advisory board should also include lay members and other education interests.

The senate committee is expected to take up the bill for action next week.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland, predicted that the Curlett Commission Report, if adopted by the legislature, "in time will become known as a landmark in higher education in the state of Maryland."

"It will enable us to accommodate the larger enrollments that we know are coming," he told the legislators.

He said it also will benefit different regions of the state where teachers colleges are now located by offering full college programs. And he said it should increase the number of students going into teaching instead of adversely affecting programs of the teacher colleges.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools who has opposed some previous plans for converting the teacher colleges, also warmly endorsed the proposal.

Supports Bill

"The state board of education supports this bill without question," he said. It predicted it would be "the answer to a problem that has plagued us for a very long time."

Spokesmen for the state teachers association, the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Association of County School Superintendents also endorsed it.

The biggest protest came from Morgan officials and alumni.

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, college president, and a member of the Curlett Commission, said he favors the report except for the inclusion of Morgan under the same governing board as the teachers' colleges.

He said Morgan already has an advance program for liberal arts and sciences and should remain under its own board for its own best interests.

Upgrading of the other colleges, he said, "will require a prodigious effort" on the part of the new governing board and the institutions themselves.

He implied that Morgan would suffered financially from such an arrangement. The Rev. James H. Wooten of Baltimore, speaking for Morgan alumni, backed him up. And Sen. Verda Welcome, D-Balto 4th, said she would offer an amendment to exempt Morgan from the bill.

The majority of the Curlett Commission, and the other educators who testified at the hearing, said it would be a mistake to let one of the colleges retain an individual board and not give others the same treatment.

Fire Companies Are Inspected

A representative of the Fire Underwriters is completing a routine inspection of Allegany County volunteer fire companies and their fire fighting equipment in connection with fire insurance rates for those residents served by the firemen.

David E. Kirk, public relations, Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association, said many of the 21 companies in Allegany County were instructed to put equipment that had been placed on an equipment truck back on the pumper where it belongs.

About eight of the companies were instructed to put a fire siren control button next to the telephone where fire calls are reported. In some cases the siren control button was located some distance from the telephone.

Pumps of the fire fighting equipment of the companies are inspected and must come up to specifications and meet the requirements of the Underwriters.

Bitter Cold Retains Grip On This Area

Temperature Here Dips To 9 Below

The bitter cold weather which moved into this area Wednesday night maintained its grip upon the Cumberland area yesterday and no immediate improvement is in sight.

The near-record cold closed schools in Allegany County and cut school attendance in Garrett County.

It was a day of inconvenience to most residents of the area and a day of tragedy to members of a Wellersburg, Pa., family whose home burned to the ground in late afternoon.

Temperatures rose to about 12 above in downtown Cumberland yesterday afternoon, and it seemed warmer since the high winds lessened at daybreak.

As the sun went down, the thermometer began to dip and it was down to 6 above here at 8:30 p. m.

On Big Savage Mountain, where an overnight low of 27 below was recorded, it was still 8 degrees below yesterday at 7:30 p. m.

At 8:30 p. m., the Western Maryland Railway reported it was zero at Elkins, 2 above at Deal and zero at Bowest.

Highways in Allegany County were generally clear last night but State Roads Commission crews were still out in Garrett County, where Route 40 was 40 per cent bare and other roads covered as a result of a 3½ inch snowfall.

Alpine Festival One Of Many Events In Area

The Alpine Festival which opens today at Blackwater Falls State Park near Davis is only one of several Centennial Year events scheduled in nearby areas of West Virginia.

The Alpine Festival, which will include competition in skiing and skating for the governor's centennial cup and trophy, also will see the coronation of Queen Alpine at a ball in Davis tomorrow night.

Next event scheduled in the area is the ninth annual Winter Carnival at Blackwater Falls State Park and on the Canaan Valley Ski Slopes, under sponsorship of the Ski Club of Washington.

A house and garden tour is scheduled at Harpers Ferry April 19-21, and a more extensive tour sponsored by the Shenandoah-Potomac Garden Council will include various points in Berkeley and Jefferson counties April 27 and 28. ABL Announces Working Force To Be Reduced

Layoffs May Affect Third Of Personnel

John C. Foster, plant manager of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, yesterday announced that there will be a reduction in the work force at the rocket facility.

In making the announcement, Mr. Foster said, "It is with the greatest reluctance that I am forced to announce a cut-back of effort at ABL. We now know that the work level for 1963 will be lower than that of 1962.

"Several programs, which have been in the research and development stage in recent years, are now entering the production phase. As of today, no new research and development programs have been funded to replace those which have been completed."

Plans for the reduction in force have been formulated, the plant manager said, adding it is anticipated that the cut-back will eventually affect up to one-third of the working force at the research laboratory. First quarter plans include the reduction of the work force by approximately 100 people per month. The plant presently employs about 3,200 persons.

Those affected will be given severance pay and vacation pay in accordance with the established policy of Hercules Powder Company, Foster said. In determining the layoff, an important item of consideration will be the length of service of the employes involved, he continued. In addition, every effort will be made to inform those affected workers as far in advance of their termination date as possible.

Wherever possible, Mr. Foster stated, qualified personnel will be relocated at one of Hercules' other chemical propulsion plants. For those employes who cannot be relocated or who do not care to relocate, effort will be made to find them employment in the immediate area.

ABL's personnel section is establishing an office to provide assistance to those employes whose jobs have been cut because of the reduction of work, it was announced.

Congressman Harley O. Staggers said that he had contacted the White House and Department of Defense yesterday with regard to the cutback in the ABL work force.

He said he had informed the White House and Pentagon of the "good job being done at ABL," and urged them to explore every avenue with a view to keeping employment at the present level.

Rep. Staggers urged that the rocket facility be awarded new contracts and projects that would lead to expansion of the laboratory and its work force.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall announced he has protested the cutback on the ground that ABL's contribution to the nation's defense effort does not justify any reduction in employment.

The senator said he has been conducting conferences with Hercules and Bureau of Naval Weapons officials to determine the feasibility of having the powder firm lease the ABL property from the Navy.

Senator Beall explained that if this plan can be worked out Hercules then would be enabled to

C & O Canal Rec Plan To Be Aired

Plans for developing the Candoc skating area of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal here as a year-around recreation center will be discussed today at 9:30 a. m. at a meeting in City Hall.

Representing the National Parks Service will be Edwin M. Dale, area superintendent.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney, Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder, Recreation Director C. Eugene Mason and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum will represent the City of Cumberland.

The National Parks Service, in cooperation with the City of Cumberland, threw up earth dams and built sluice gates at the downstream end of the Candoc in the fall of 1962, providing a 2,000 foot long area for ice skating.

The area is furnishing excellent ice skating at present, and the city is interested in seeing the area developed to the point where it would provide a complete recreation program throughout the year.

Gephart, Candoc Areas Available For Ice Skating

The area has been flooded in stages and the final water was placed in the rink last night. Skating will be available there today from 7 to 10 p. m., Mr. Mason said.

Good use was being made of the Condoc skating area on the C & O Canal yesterday. Mr. Mason said caution was advised since the ice was still soft in a few spots yesterday.

The four-room house of Mr. and Mrs. John Sturtz was termed a total loss by firemen who said the Sturtz family lost all its possessions in the blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturtz have two children, a girl, eight, and a boy, four, and they discovered the fire in the kitchen. Mrs. Sturtz was ill in bed and the children warned her of the fire.

Mr. Sturtz, who also has been ill for some time, was at the home of a neighbor tending the neighbor's fire.

Firemen said the fire was well under way when they arrived about 5 p. m. and little could be done to save the home. Firemen from the Wellersburg Volunteer Fire Company said they were hampered getting men to the scene because their siren was frozen.

Also assisting with fighting the blaze were firemen from Mt. Savage and Corriganville.

Car Inspection Plan Back At Starting Point

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Auto inspection seemed to be going around in circles Thursday at the Maryland Legislature while mandatory chemical tests for suspected drunken drivers inched ahead.

A house subcommittee decided to prepare a new bill that would require periodic inspection of motor vehicles at private garages.

This would take the state back to the starting point in the debate over whether all vehicles ought to be checked for safety to continue operating in Maryland.

Shy At Cost

The state junked a private garage inspection system about 20 years ago. Arguments over whether to revive it with improvements or have the state do its own inspecting have been going for years.

This time it appeared that the state system would be the favorite. It was recommended by a study commission, endorsed by the state officials and Gov. Tawes also said he would support state operation.

However, there was a lot of backing off when it became clear it would cost $6 million as a beginning to build the inspection stations and more than $4 million a year to man them.

A variety of alternate plans were offered. A subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee was given the task of sifting the various proposals and offering one.

Del. Roy N. Staten, D-Balto County, said the six members voted to draft a bill for inspections at private garages licensed by the state. The State Police would supervise them.

Is Close Vote

The House Judiciary Committee struggled over whether drivers arrested on suspicion of intoxication should be forced to take a chemical test or face penalty.

The committee narrowly approved, 14-11, a proposal that drivers would imply their consent to submit to such a test upon receiving their license. If they refuse, their license would be suspended automatically and reinstated if they are found innocent in court.

Chairman Thomas H. Lowe, D-Talbot, anticipated from the committee vote that the question will be tossed around considerably when it reaches the house floor.

Police now may ask drivers to submit to tests for drunkeness, but it is strictly voluntary. Refusal cannot even be mentioned at any trial.

Man Is Given Suspended Term

Kenneth W. Walters, 51, Bowman's Addition, was given a two-year suspended sentence yesterday in Juvenile Court for contributing to the deliquency of a minor.

Carver Addresses ICPRB Delegates

Assistant Secretary of the Interior John A. Carver, a native of Idaho, reminded some 100 persons attending the banquet last night of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin that "every schoolboy accords the Potomac a special dignity as a national river."

The two-day winter meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin ends at noon today at the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria, Va.

"John Smith's delightfully incompetent forays upon the Potomac; George Washington's home and his tomb on its banks; the national capital city astride it—it is simply accepted that the federal government has a special role."

Secretary Carver pointed to the difference between analysis and solution of problems. The Potomac has never lacked for "planning" nor for intensive analysis, he said.

"A recommendation of the monumental report of Morris Cooks, Lee Olds, Gil White et al, 'Ten Rivers in America's Future,' now 12 years and more old, prompts a bleak thought or two about the gap between problem analysis and problem solution. Therein was a discussion of conflict between plans for storage reservoirs and interests of local groups in preventing land inundation; between water development and highways, and between water development and park, parkway, and recreational uses.

A Special Interest

"As the manager for the people of the United States of a lot of land within the basin, the Department has what might be called a proprietary interest. The National Capital Region of the Park Service administers 41,000 acres in Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, to which must be added 75,000 acres of Shenandoah National Park within the Potomac drainage and 5,000 or 6,000 acres in historical parks like Gettysburg, Bull Run, Antietam, Harpers Ferry and the like. This is watershed land, much of it a part of the river environment, such as the C&O Canal. As a land manager for the landowners, the people, we react like any other landowner. A pure river is a part of the value of the land."

Mr. Carver also touched on Mockley Point, across the Potomac from Mount Vernon. He noted that Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall was horrified to learn that a water and sewer agency proposed to build a sewage treatment plant on Mockley Point, clearly visible from Mount Vernon. As a result of his interest, the treatment plant will be constructed at another point, Mr. Carver said.

Delegates Visit Project

Yesterday afternoon most of the delegates attending the winter meeting went on a 25-mile bus trip to the new Dulles International Airport opened in November astride Fairfax and Loudoun counties in northern Virginia.

During the tour, the conservationists were shown three sewage lagoons which will serve the 9,880-acre airport until an interceptor sewer across the Potomac River is completed later this year.

The guide stressed that the Dulles International Airport will become self-sustaining, and said that its $250,000,000 cost will be repaid in 20 years.

Carl J. Johnson, executive secretary of the Interstate Commission, told the group yesterday, that pollution in the Potomac in the Cumberland area since 1957 has declined with the installation of the Cumberland primary sewage treatment plant and the secondary treatment plant at Westernport.

"At the same time the water in the Cumberland area is still not of the quality needed by industrial or other users," Johnson stated.

"We must review the progress made in recent years, the present status of the river and plans and intentions of municipalities, states, counties and industries involved and seek to establish quality objectives and time schedules," Johnson declared.

Johnson also said it will be necessary to have a strong program to prevent the introduction of coal mine acids in the three states of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania where the Potomac River basin is affected.

Mr. Johnson said that unless preventive programs are developed to prevent coal mine acids entering the Potomac River basin stream from electric power plants which use coal as fuel, the pollution from this source will increase materially.
